United Party Nominates Ledgerwood For Trustee

by PAT GERLACH

Denis J. Ledgerwood is Schaumburg United Party's (SUP) nominee for the village board vacancy created by the Aug. 1 resignation of Jack Larsen.

Even though no official announcement had been made late yesterday, Mayor Robert O. Atcher is expected to make the appointment at Tuesday night's regular meeting of the board of trustees.

Ledgerwood was endorsed for the post by members of the executive board of SUP last Thursday during a meeting which nearly coincided with the first anniversary of establishment of the local political party.

Reportedly, Ledgerwood, who has taken a prominent role in civic activities for the past six years, was chosen by SUP after careful consideration of a number of men and women appraised as both capable and qualified by party leaders.

Further details of the selection are expected in an official release expected this week from Ray LeBeau, village director of public relations, who also handles publicity for SUP.

Denis J. Ledgerwood

A SALES MANAGER with the Space and Systems Division of General Time Corp., Ledgerwood is a charter member of the Schaumburg Jaycees and has been active in that group as well as other community organizations.

Presently he serves as chairman of Schaumburg Airport Study Committee, a citizen's advisory group responsible for supervising a feasibility study to determine need for an expanded and municipally-owned general aviation airfield in the community.

It is also being speculated that Ledgerwood may be named to replace Larsen, who moved to Dundee last week, as village board liaison representative to the airport study panel.

Ledgerwood also serves as co-chairman of Schaumburg's second annual Septemberfest which is being sponsored by the Jaycees and Greater Schaumburg Association of Commerce and Industry.

Following ratification of his appointment, Ledgerwood will be expected to seek election to the two-year balance of Larsen's term next April.

Ledgerwood and his wife, Peg, are parents of four daughters and one son.

Mental Health Service Change Slated

Plans are being made for Elk Grove Village Community Service to assume responsibility for mental health services in Elk Grove and Schaumburg townships.

Weigh Spraying Of Mosquitos

Hiring a private contractor to spray Hoffman Estates against mosquitos is on the agenda for discussion and action by the village board tonight.

A proposal was solicited by Village Manager George Longmeyer from International Exterminator Co., Inc. The firm's Palatine representative, Jim McDaniels, quoted a cost of $1,446 to cover the village completely once. Longmeyer also contacted two other firms, which said they were not large enough to handle the job, he said.

If approved by the board, said Longmeyer, the fogging likely could be accomplished this week, although it would require two evenings to cover the entire village.

Longmeyer contacted the firms on directions from Mayor Frederick Dowsey, who said he and village officials have received numerous telephone calls complaining about mosquitos. Some residents have reported cases of children severely bitten, he said.

Also planned for discussion is flooding in Parcel A, said Longmeyer. A delegation of residents of that section of the village has asked for a brief explanation of what village officials learned Thursday in a conference on flooding and highway development with spokesmen for the Illinois Department of Transportation.

These townships, along with Palatine and Wheeling townships, are now served by the Northwest Mental Health Association (NMHA) in Arlington Heights.

Community Service recently received a $52,000 grant from the state mental health department to open a mental health center.

Jordan Rosen, director of Community Service, said no definite date had been set for the transfer but, "We are shooting for a Sept. 1, breakoff time. We hope to assume total responsibility then."

Rosen said Community Service had already started receiving referrals from NMHA.

COMMUNITY SERVICE will remain associated with NMHA according to Rosen. He said the two organizations will probably run joint programs.

Lois Radtke, of NMHA said that patients now being treated at the NMHA center will continue treatment at the center.

Dr. Eugene Trager, director of NMHA said the transition was, "up to him (Rosen), we'll carry the ball until he is ready to assume control."

Dr. Trager said that NMHA will lose approximately 40 per cent of the population it had been serving.

The reduction will be a gain for Northwest said Dr. Trager. "We will be able to give more intensive service than in the past. The quantity may decrease, but the quality and variety will increase and improve."

DESPITE THE reduction in the number of people NMHA treats, its budget was increased by the state. Dr. Trager said the extra money will be used to expand programs.

Currently the agency is only operating therapy and treatment programs. Dr.

Trager plans to start some community education programs. These may include such topics as the problems of the suburban housewife, raising teenagers, improving the quality of life and general community education on mental health and treatment.

"If the public sees these programs as worthy, we'll continue to offer worthwhile services," said Dr. Trager.

Dr. Trager said he plans no increase in the number of staff personnel. He said that the staff will be able to work more hours as the need for service rises.

Children Have New Favorite Bird

by MARILYN HEISER

Little kids with worms and frogs crawling out of their back pockets are a common sight. But Friday, about 45 children from Schaumburg adopted a new creature to love: pigeons.

The Schaumburg Park District sponsored a racing and carrier pigeon exhibit and amid the children's squeals and shouts of glee, Bob Middleton and Bill Griffith of the Elgin Herring Pigeon Club, 110 Alpine Ln., Hoffman Estates, demonstrated the fine points of their birds.

About 45 pigeons were on hand, and once released from their cages, they took off for their loft at the racing club. A tag with a number is attached to each bird's leg so the winning racer can be identified.

Middleton explained that pigeons are bred for different purposes, some for beauty, some for racing, some for racing. There are almost 400 different breeds.

RACING PIGEONS CAN start flying when they are four weeks old. They fly races for distances ranging from 300 to 1,000 miles. While the average bird lives 8 to 10 years, they are effective racers for about six years. The good racers, when retired from the sport, are used to breed a new generation of speedy birds.

The children, asking questions about the pigeon racing business, were particularly entranced with pigeons used to carry messages. Griffith explained that carrier pigeons were used in World War II to carry messages because pigeons, unlike radios, can't be jammed.

Two of the children, Jackie Warren, 420 Courtland St., and Keith Cook, 1304 Kingston Ln., were chosen from the screams of "me first" to send messages with the carrier pigeons.

Griffith tagged the pigeons with the children's names and addresses, which Middleton will send back to them after the pigeons return to their loft. A third message, signed by a group of children, will be mailed back to Jennings House, 220 S. Civic Dr.

THE HOMING instinct of pigeons is yet to be understood scientifically. Middleton said studies are going on at various universities in an attempt to explain this phenomenon.

This mysterious element of pigeons adds to the interest they arouse. As one of the pigeons flew off to its loft, one little boy yelled, "You better put him on a leash."

Middleton said there are five pigeon racing clubs in the Northwest suburbs. Pigeon racing apparently holds its own with other sports. The pigeons win trophies and receive certificates in recognition of their speed.

But the kids weren't listening terribly hard to Middleton at this point. They were too busy clamoring for their turn to hold one of the sleek gray birds.

State Must Authorize More Building Space

Harper May Be Splitting Its Seams By 1980

by WANDALYN RICE

Harper College faces the possibility of being 50 per cent short of building space by 1980 unless more buildings are authorized by the state, college administrators told the board of trustees Friday.

As part of a report on long-range planning during a two-day long board session, administrators told the board they are drawing up justifications for additional space in hopes of getting state approval for additional buildings.

The State of Illinois furnishes a substantial portion of the money for construction by junior colleges and so must approve building allocations.

Harper is now beginning construction on music and science buildings and has preliminary approval for vocational education and physical education facilities from the Illinois Junior College Board. The junior college board's approval must be finally approved by the state Legislature.

EVEN IF THE Legislature does approve those additional buildings, administrators said, it will not be enough for the college to keep up with projected enrollment.

The board also heard how college officials are trying to increase efficiency and use of staff by increasing class size and moving to a lecture plus discussion group format for many classes.

Clarence Schauer, vice president of academic affairs, said the lecture class with a related discussion section is now being used in accounting, psychology, history and sociology. In accounting classes last spring, he said, lectures were held once a week and averaged 146 students and discussion sections were held twice a week and averaged 23 students.

He said the increase in the number of lecture classes has enabled the college to keep its average class size up and its costs down. "The loss of one student, over-all, in average class size on campus costs us $70,000," he said.

In addition, he said more efforts are being made to expand self-teaching classes. Typing this year was taught to some students using tapes that could be checked out of the resource center.

SCHAUER said educators do not yet have research showing the most effective class size for any given field, but said one study has shown "if we just want to dispense information, it doesn't matter how many we have in a class."

He also said there seems to be agreement that discussion sections should not exceed 30 to 35 students.

College Pres. Robert Lahti told the board some students are already being turned away from programs because of lack of space. He said a report on the numbers turned away this fall from all college programs will be available soon.

In another report, Lahti described the college's program for training administrators and told the board he believes it will increase efficiency and help the college keep up with rapid growth.

UNDER THE program administrators receive training in management skills similar to that offered by private industry, Lahti said. The system differs from standard practice in educational institutions, he said, in which "we usually get administrator out of the class room."

He said usually a good teacher is chosen for an administrative position and then "he is suddenly in charge of evaluation and budget, but he has no more skills than he had the year before when he was just a damn good teacher."

He explained the management development program at Harper is designed "to give those guys a chance to succeed." As a result of the program, he said, "We in administration share a common language. I think the program has been very successful in the minds of the administrators."

Morton Grove Farm New College Site

A Morton Grove horse farm was chosen as the future site of the permanent campus of Oakton Community College at a special meeting of the college board of trustees.

The DeLaine Horse Farm, 8531 Beckwith Rd., Morton Grove, and portions of the Eldorado housing subdivision were approved by a 4-1 vote as the site of the campus.

The 52-acre site is almost directly north of the temporary campus at 7900 N. Nagle Ave., Morton Grove, and is adjacent to a Cook County Forest Preserve north of Dempster St.

About 30 acres of the site are south of Beckwith Road and 22 acres, north of the road.

The site is bounded on the south by a Commonwealth Edison Co. right-of-way which contains high tension wires on the west by the forest preserve, on the north by residential housing and Parma Park, and on the east by Nashville and Nagau-sett avenues.

PAUL GILSON, chairman of the site committee, said the site is centrally located in the college district of Maine and Niles townships. He said it is easily accessible from existing roads, contains no large site-development cost, contains a two-acre pond in the southwest corner, and is accessible to water, sewer and electrical power.

Neil King, college real estate consultant, said the college will be able to use the right-of-way for recreation areas. He said he is hopeful that the college will also have access to the Northwestern Golf Course northwest of the site and the forest preserve.

King did not say whether the owners of the land are willing to sell. When the Herald contacted Louise Hart, daughter of Mrs. Hubert Silberman, owner of the horse farm, last month, she said the family had not been contacted by Oakton and that the property wasn't for sale. The farm is about 65 to 70 per cent of the total site. King said 10 or 11 families are now living on the property.

King added that quite frequently the initial reaction of property owners is one of opposition.

Gilson said, "We expect to pay market price," but added, "We will pay no more than market price."

King said he was not prepared to give an estimate of the cost of the 52-acre site.

Trustee Stephen Loska voted against the site because no written reports giving details on the feasibility of the site were given to board members.

"I find it difficult to vote on a recommendation at this time," he said.

GILSON SAID the site committee did not have time to prepare a report before the board meeting called by board Pres. LeRoy Warrick on Wednesday. He added that work on such report will begin immediately for the trustees and the Illinois

Junior College Board.

The state college board must approve the site before a referendum can be held. The college hopes to come before the state board during its meeting Sept. 15 in Chicago.

Gilson said possible sites have been discussed with the state board "many times and in great detail." If the state board approves the site a referendum will be held soon afterward.

The property is among 23 sites given consideration by college officials since site investigations began two years ago. It is one of four sites which were under primary consideration by the site committee in recent weeks.

Two sites were offered for sale to the college by the Chicago Catholic Archdiocese, and a site south of Milwaukee Avenue near the Tri-State Tollway outside the college district comprise the remaining three sites under scrutiny.

Between the Lines

Let Little Girls Be Little Girls

by STEVE NOVICK

Behind every superstar, there's a supermother.

And perhaps you can forgive an occasional mother who boosts her child's career — if the child really does have talent.

However, it seems every child has untold talents, invisible to the naked eye but startlingly evident to a self-indulgent parent more than willing to just "tell the truth" about his or her standout offspring.

More than 1,000 telling parents descended on Woodfield during the past two weeks, children in hand, for a competition to choose models for a back-to-school fashion show at the shopping mall.

NOT ALL were stage mothers. Some were — forgive me — downright pushy. Too many women, with dollar signs in their eyes, let their maternal instincts blind their view of reality.

Pigeon toes and braces are not the stuff of which great models are made.

Not only were a lot of women deluding themselves, it is possible they were guilty of another error in judgment.

As their daughters (very few boys auditioned) pranced before the judges like the beauty contestants they in a sense were, I wonder how many mothers realized or even cared that they were contributing to the exploitation of women.

That's a serious charge, if you believe the fashion industry exploits women not only because of its materialistic emphasis but also because of its manipulation of women as clothes horses.

Contrary to the attitude of the fashion foisters, clothes do not make the woman — or the little girl.

AND IF YOU do not accept the woman's lib premise, you might argue that modeling develops womanly grace and poise, and that's great.

I'd just like to see little girls be little girls a little longer.

If little girls do model, it should be for the fun of it, and because they, not their parents, have the ambition to do so.

Parental pressure to succeed — in any modeling, beauty or talent contest — often takes its toll on the tykes. A competition can be built up so much in a child's mind that he may feel he is letting his parents down by not winning or that he is somehow inferior.

Sometimes parents who are bad losers blame the child for a defeat when the defeat really means nothing more than not winning.

EQUALLY IRKSOME are parents who blame everyone but the child for his defeat. Either the contest was rigged, or the judges stupid or the whole thing badly organized. They too fail to realize that sometimes all of us must lose, and might deserve to.

Given the numbers who annually try out for these contests, and given the variety of human foibles and tastes involved, talented children often miss the winner's circle, but survive — believe it or not — to lead normal, healthy, happy lives.

It's their parents, who should know better, who bear the most obvious scars.

District Doubts Need For Education Service Region

"Who needs them?" is the attitude Schaumburg Township School Dist. 54 board members have taken about service provided by the Cook County Educational Service Region and Richard Martwick, region superintendent. "I am hurt by the district's attitude but willing to talk to them about my services. But the meeting must be in my offices," said Martwick on Friday.

"After all Dist. 54 started all this talk about forming their own service region so I think they owe me the courtesy of coming to my place," said Martwick.

The District 54 board wants to talk too, but on their home ground.

Dist. 54 board member Donnie Rudd, who heads the legislative committee, won support last month for a resolution proposing the establishment of more than one education service region in Cook County.

SINCE THEN Rudd said neighboring districts have indicated they will support such a resolution.

"The publicity is bothering Martwick. He doesn't like us saying we can do without him. If he wants to shut us up he should be willing to meet with us anywhere," said Rudd.

Thursday the Dist. 54 Board of Education members met at 7 p.m. Aug. 11 meeting between Martwick and themselves in the Helen Keller High School, 830 W. Bode Rd., Schaumburg.

Martwick said Friday "the time and date are fine with me but the meeting must be at 53 W. Grand Ave., (Chicago) my office. I've invited all the board members here personally on the phone and they agreed," said Martwick. "At that time I will be glad to substantiate all the great services our region supplies and would be glad to continue giving Dist. 54," said Martwick.

"IF HE CAN'T make our meeting Friday here on our own home ground, we can take the issue to the State School Board convention in November," said Rudd. "And if he's that busy we ought to elect some one who can take time to come out here."

Rudd stressed that his reason for calling for formation of a separate service region is educationally sound and not politically motivated as Martwick believes.

Rudd has said Dist. 54 is large enough to provide all the benefits Martwick says the service region now offers

The service region offers the following programs: Use of electronic data processing and mass purchasing both provided to District 54 through its membership in the Northwest Education Cooperative not the region, said Rudd. Special education services are provided through the district's membership in the North Suburban Special Education Organization. Development of its curriculum is done by the District 54's own director, Rudd added.

"All the things the service regions say they do for us we have done for ourselves," said Rudd. "If Martwick wants to convince us otherwise we'll be glad to listen but here, in our home territory."

Compensation For Holidays Will Be Extra Days Off

Future compensation for Hoffman Estates Police Department employees who work holidays will be in the form of time off, said Mayor Frederick Downey Friday.

Downey confirmed details of an agreement with representatives of the village's Fraternal Order of Police in settlement of a dispute over holiday work compensation. In the past, the patrolmen have received holiday pay. But Downey announced last Monday the village would deduct that pay for the two holidays already worked in fiscal 1972-73 from paychecks to be distributed Friday. The men contested the action, and met with Downey Thursday night.

Downey said Friday full checks, without the deductions, were prepared prior to Thursday's meeting, because the session had been scheduled.

When asked why he had changed his position, he said, "In light of everything, I felt that was the best thing to do." In ordering the deductions, Downey had said the holiday pay resulted from clerical error. The compensation should have been in the form of time off, he said.

'Oldies But Goodies Night' Set Wednesday

The sounds of Ricky Nelson, the Everly Brothers and other old favorites will fill Atcher Park Wednesday as the Schaumburg Park District features an "Oldies But Goodies Night."

The Hartford Convention will supply the music for the evening, which is part of the park district's summer concert series.

Everyone is encouraged to dig out their white socks, penny loafers and black tee shirts for the event. Jeff Fox, superintendent of recreation, said the evening should appeal to the "older group," the teen-agers of the 50s.

There is no admission charge for the concert which will begin at 7:30 p.m. In case of rain the program will be held Thursday night.

Oh, He Flies Through The Air With The Greatest...

Fifty years ago Jim Kendell would have been called one of those daring young men in their flying machines. Today he's one of thousands of enthusiasts promoting the exciting sport of sky soaring.

Kendell, who has lived in Arlington Heights for six years, was cited recently for soaring to an altitude of 35,000 feet over Pike's Peak in Colorado at a temperature approaching 55 degrees below zero.

The Diamond Altitude Award presented to him by the Soaring Society of America is one of the sport's most coveted trophies.

Besides the personal enjoyment he gets from powerless flight, Kendell is committed to training young people and is working currently with teen-aged Civil Air Patrol cadets at a soaring club near Crystal Lake.

THE SECRET TO altitude flying is riding thermals, warm currents of air that rise from the ground like air bubbles in a glass of soda pop.

The Rocky Mountains are ideal for high altitude flights because strong thermal updrafts occur there when warm breezes are forced rapidly upward by the mountain wall.

The altitude record for glider flight is 46,000 feet, Kendell said, well above the heights at which most jets travel.

"On those flights you put on several thermal flight suits, take along a radio which won't work because it freezes, oxygen, a parachute, a rabbit's foot and a rosary," he said.

In addition to his licenses for piloting and instructing in glider planes, Kendell holds licenses for just about everything, including single and multiengine airplanes, seaplanes and even balloons.

He is a member of the Soaring Society of America, the Illinois wing of the Civil Air Patrol, the Chicago Glider Council, Sky Soaring, Inc., the American Aeroblast Club and numerous other aviation organizations.

He also holds a reserve officer's commission in the U.S. Air Force.

KENDALL, 35, traces his interest in flying back to his boyhood days in Dayton, Ohio, where, he recalls proudly, he delivered newspapers to Orville Wright.

"My mother used to tell me that he was a very famous man and I saved a whole stack of receipts with his signature on them," he said.

Kendell soloed in a glider at age 13 and has been flying ever since. He was graduated from Bradley University and later did graduate work at Roosevelt University. He is employed by the Enjay Chemical Company in Des Plaines.

The gliders he loves and flies cost anywhere from $3,000 to $24,000. Most of today's models are made of fiberglass or aluminum, though earlier gliders were often made of wood and canvas.

Kendell is devoted to sky soaring and it is not surprising that his enthusiasm for the sport rubs off, not only on his students but on his 12-year-old daughter, Lora, as well.

"She'll get her glider license at 14," Kendell says confidently. And with her father for a teacher, she'll probably be a darn good pilot.

A New Bobby Fischer Here? Parks Planning Fall Program

A novel interest in chess created by Brooklyn's Bobby Fischer has moved at least one suburban library into a state-mate.

Of the 166 books devoted to the game, none rest on the Palatine Library shelves.

"I was looking for one the other day, but they were all checked out," said a reference room librarian. "There has been a new interest since the Boris Spassky-Fischer games" (the world chess championship now being held in Reykjavik, Iceland).

The Rolling Meadows Park District hopes to capitalize on the interest in the game. Officials plan a fall recreation program devoted to chess and are organizing a city chess club.

"AS LONG as we get this thing going while Fischer and Spassky are playing we'll be all right," said Rudy Nelson, park district recreation director. "Once people get into it, I'm sure they will continue... it just took something like this tournament to build it up."

Soon after the world championship began several weeks ago, calls started coming into the park district office asking about the possibility of a chess program, Nelson said.

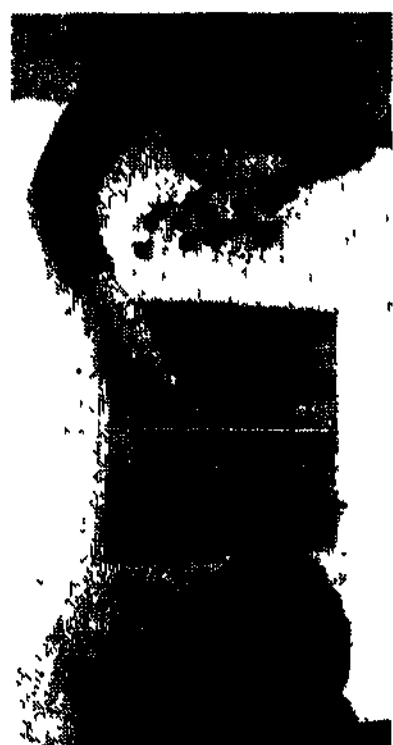

Businesses in Arlington Heights, which stock chess sets, however, report buying has not increased measurably. Bill Jensen of Mueller's Stationery in the village is sold out, but says he usually is this time of year.

"Maybe it takes too much time to think... not like playing checkers," he said.

ANOTHER MERCHANT in downtown Arlington Heights said, "Fischer hasn't done a thing for us. Kids don't buy the game because of expense. Good sets are $20 and that's too much for them. The small ones are toys."

Walt Schreiber, of the Village Pipe and Tobacco Shop, notes there always has been "a lot of interest in chess in the suburbs." He added that persons are purchasing the more expensive wood-carved and onyx chess sets as household ornaments. "They like the idea of setting them up on coffee tables," he said.

Marshall Field and Co. salesmen at Woodfield in Schaumburg report chess sets selling for $250. At those prices even suburban kids may feel they're getting ripped. Reading about chess is much cheaper.

Hoffman Est. Woman Slain

A casual weekend evening visit at her parent's plush country home in Barrington Hills meant a violent death for 22-year-old Barbara Board, a recent resident of the Northwest suburbs and one of the victims in Friday's mass slaying at the home of Paul Corbett.

Miss Board recently moved to an apartment in Hoffman Estates, according to police reports. Sheriff's police detectives were at her apartment at 600 Jones Rd. near Hoffman Estates yesterday seeking clues in the still mysterious death of Miss Board and three members of her family.

Gunned down beside her were her mother Marian Corbett, 57, stepfather Paul M. Corbett, 67, and Barbara Board's aunt, Mrs. Dorothy Berry, 60, also visiting the Corbett home.

Sheriff's police said Miss Board had moved from the family estate several weeks ago to her apartment. Barrington Hills police confirmed that she did not live at the family home in the exclusive village.

Miss Board was found dead by her brother Anthony Board, who was returned in a borrowed car to the house. Mrs. Derry also was pronounced dead at the scene. Mr. and Mrs. Corbett died in Sherman Hospital in Elgin.

There was only speculation last night as to the cause of the mass murders. A few expensive household items were reported taken. Corbett's wallet was empty.

The upper bedrooms of the two-story brick home were ransacked. The Corbetts reportedly had an elaborate burglar alarm system tied into the Barrington Hills Police Department but the system was not activated.

Schaumburg Airport Plans Nosedive

Plans for a municipally owned general aviation airport in Schaumburg may have hit a temporary snag last week.

At a meeting of the village airport committee Thursday, it was revealed two out of three engineering firms under consideration to do the study have refused to submit detailed cost proposals.

Howard, Needles Tammen & Bergendoff and Ralph H. Burke Associates have indicated they will not itemize costs of the study, but prefer to work in a general fee range based on other comparable work.

The decision of both consultants is based on the fact that the Illinois Society of Professional Engineers does not encourage its members to engage in competitive bidding.

Both consultants also noted that the society's philosophy is now being tested in a court case.

A third firm — Vickrey-Wines (combining with Arnold Thompson Co.) has agreed to furnish itemized costs in line with the committee request.

The committee authorized its chairman, Denis Ledgerwood, to advise the two non-complying firms that cost estimates are mandatory for consideration. Deadline for formal proposals has been moved from Aug. 14 to Aug. 19 to allow time for the three firms to prepare cost estimates.

THE COMMITTEE will meet Aug. 21 to begin evaluating material submitted by the consultants relative to selecting a firm to perform the study.

Cost of the investigation will be funded by a Federal Aviation Agency master planning grant that will provide two-thirds of the fee.

One-sixth of the cost will come from the Illinois Department of Aeronautics and the remainder will be provided by the Village of Schaumburg in a proposed revenue bond program in order to avoid taxpayer burden.

Pool Referendum Revival Sought

The Hoffman Estates Jaycees have asked the park district board to bring back a referendum defeated earlier this summer to build an indoor pool in the village.

The park board promised to reply to the Jaycees request at their Aug. 15 meeting, following a meeting Aug. 10 with the Dist. 211 School Board.

Jaycees and park board officials as well as other civic leaders are scheduled to discuss use of the pool by Dist. 211 students in order to work out an agreement. Jaycees Pres. Charles Lovelsky said, "All children in the district should have use of the pool. That was part of the problem with Winston Knolls."

That subdivision voted heavily against the first pool referendum because Fremd High School students would have been excluded from pool use.

Lovelsky pledged Jaycees support to pass a new referendum should the board decide to bring the question to the voters in October. They have established a committee headed by Bob McCullough to involve other organizations and homeowners associations in the area to gain support for the pool.

Bill Mock and Mike Marxer are also serving on the committee.

"I believe it will pass the second time," Lovelsky said.

The Lighter Side

By Dick West

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A judge in New Jersey last week struck down a law that made it a criminal offense for a woman to be a common scold.

In case you don't know what a common scold is, it's like having Don Rickles for your mother-in-law.

Many decent, law-abiding citizens were dismayed by the ruling, among them Rhett Halepenny, director of the National Coalition for Keeping a Civil Tongue in Your Head.

"This is the sort of thing we've come to expect from the Supreme Court," he commented bitterly, "but I thought we could depend on the lower courts for protection against feminine invective."

I SAID, "Are you accusing the courts of coddling fishwives?"

"I'm saying that rulings of this type tend to promote promiscuous vituperation," Halepenny replied. "Mark my words — unless this decision is overturned, you'll see an 8.7 per cent rise in the national fulmination rate this year."

"Bull, sir," I said, "there had been no convictions under the law since 1890. Why keep it on the books any longer?"

Halepenny's eyes lit up. "Aha!" he cried. "The very fact there had been no convictions for 82 years is the best possible proof that the law was effective and should be retained."

"Just think what a floodtide of obnoxious common scolding there might have been without this legal deterrent."

I GUESS Halepenny has a point there. But I'm not convinced that outlawing common scolding was a wise move in the first place.

Historically, common scolds have directed their diatribes at lewdness, depravity, vice, iniquity and assorted other forms of baseness and debauchery. Not to mention hanky-panky and a few peccadillos.

Had this tradition been maintained, we might today have legions of common scolds on the public streets, berating and upbraiding passersby.

"You, there," they might screech, "take that filthy cigarette out of your mouth . . . Cover up your legs, you brazen hussy . . . Get your hands off that girl, you foul lecher . . . Go home and put your shoes on. You big gorilla . . . Leave that lady's purse alone, your brigand . . . Hold your shoulders up, stupid. Slumping like that will make your lungs collapse . . . Etc., etc."

Who is to say that these sidewalk tirades would not make our cities a better place in which to live?

Nobody, of course, enjoys being tongue lashed. But on the whole, it beats getting mugged.

Waste Disposal Plan Prepared By NIPC

A plan for optimum disposal of solid wastes in the six-county Chicago metropolitan area is being prepared by the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC).

The study, expected to be completed within this fiscal year, will seek methods of waste disposal which can be most economically used and will recommend generalized areas as potential sites for future sanitary landfills.

Once the plan and a series of alternatives to the main recommendations is complete, the proposal will be presented to the public for reactions, NIPC Chief Engineer Joseph Smedile said.

Smedile, who reported on the plan to the NIPC planning committee Wednesday, said data for the plan has been collected in recent years.

A PRELIMINARY report inventorying the state of solid waste collection and disposal across the country and particularly within the northeastern Illinois area has been completed, he said.

The report includes a survey of costs for various communities in the six-county metropolitan area, and a chart showing existing landfill and incinerator sites where communities in the area dispose of their waste.

The plan itself will carry the data collected in the report one step further in estimating volumes of solid waste which will have to be disposed of in the future and in seeking the least expensive way to dispose of the solid waste, he said.

Smedile said selection of new landfill and incinerator sites is "touchy," but he said the mapping of potential landfill sites would only be for generalized areas and not for specific pieces of property.

He said most counties in the state have similar studies of the solid waste disposal problem under way and the state is also working on a statewide proposals.

A Little Traveling Music, Please—For Hersey's Band

The Hersey High School band will be doing plenty of traveling this year for performances.

The band's first appearance of the 1972-73 school year will be before school starts on Aug. 11 in Springfield. The band, which last year was named "Governor's Band" at the Illinois State Fair, will participate in opening ceremonies at this year's fair that day.

At the end of the month, the band will also march in the Chicago Lake-Front Festival "King Neptune" parade.

On Sept. 17, the band will travel to Detroit, Mich. to present the half-time show at the first home game for the Detroit Lions. Also in September, the band will defend its title in Illinois State University's Band Day competition at Bloomington.

In October the band will appear in a state marching band competition at the University of Illinois, Champaign-Urbana. Last year they won the "grand champion" award as best field marching band of the day at the contest.

The band will also march in Chicago's annual Columbus Day parade and the annual Christmas parade in Arlington Heights during the fall.

On New Year's Day, the band will march in the 1973 Cotton Bowl Parade in Dallas, Tex., along with other bands from the nation.

On Feb. 3, the band will perform in the 24th annual Northwest Band Clinic in Moorhead, Minn., where the Hersey Symphonic Winds will be featured in two of the grand concerts sponsored by the college.

Suburbs' Share In Fines: $272,637

Northwest suburban communities have received a total of $272,637.10 in fines collected by the Cook County Circuit Court so far this year.

Most of the revenue related to the municipalities results from fines levied in traffic cases, according to Matthew J. Danaher, clerk of the court.

The figures reflect the communities' share of the revenue through the month of June.

Arlington Heights received a total of $41,897.50 to date this year as compared to $47,588.00 during the same period in 1971. In June alone, Arlington Heights received $7,111 in revenue from the court.

Buffalo Grove received $31 in June, bringing that community's revenue so far this year to $3,237. During the same period last year Buffalo Grove received $3,486 in revenue.

DES PLAINES has received fines totaling $68,124 so far this year as compared to $80,889 last year for the first half of the year. In June Des Plaines received $10,313 from the fines.

Elk Grove Village fines brought $11,289 to the village in June for a total of $64,044 so far this year. Last year fines totalled $58,124 for the same six-month period.

Hoffman Estates showed an increase to $10,234 for the first six months of 1972 as compared to $13,982 in the same period in 1971. June brought $1,728 to Hoffman Estates.

Mount Prospect totals through June reached $17,885. But in 1971 the village collected $21,086 during the same period. June revenue for the village was $3,136.

Palatine collected $3,053 in June to bring the six-month total up to $20,725.50. Last year the village collected $26,192 during the same period.

ROLLING MEADOWS has received revenue totaling $13,066.50 from the courts so far this year with a June total of $2,209. For the first six months last year the city collected $14,030.

Schaumburg fines totaled only $33,901.80 so far this year as compared to $45,585 last year for the same period. In June Schaumburg received $6,151 in fine reimbursements.

Wheeling collected $1,286 in June to bring this year's total to $12,948 as compared to $13,353 for the same period in 1971.

MSD Delays Suit On Lake Site Plan

Metropolitan Sanitary District officials have deferred filing a condemnation suit over a site adjacent to Harper College.

The MSD board of trustees asked for the delay until a report on the proposed development of the site, ownership of the property, and the size of the site is sent to the board.

The property, near Quinlan and Algonquin roads, is the proposed location for a 23-acre lake that will be part of the Upper Salt Creek Watershed Plan.

The over-all plan calls for a series of six lakes including a 600-acre lake in the Red Brown Forest Preserve.

The site the MSD plans to condemn would be developed to drain the area north and west of Harper College.

THE BASIN to be constructed on the site will be 77 acres in size during peak flood periods.

The basin will have a permanent pool of 23 acres under normal weather conditions.

The MSD board has already enacted an ordinance allowing sanitary district attorneys to file an eminent domain suit to acquire the land.

But the board Thursday asked MSD employees to hold off on the actual filing of the suit until a report could be sent to the board giving details about the proposed basin and the property to be condemned.

MSD General Supt. Ben Sosewicz reported to the board of trustees Thursday that sanitary district attorneys have been unable to reach an agreement with the owners on purchasing the land.

SOSEWICZ TOLD the board that MSD Atty. Robert E. Wiss recommends the condemnation suit be filed because of title problems and an existing suit between several joint owners of the land.

The names of the actual owners of the property are hidden in a bank trust which holds legal title to the land.

Small Cars Require Safeguards

Small-sized cars may be easy on the pocketbook, but they require special driving as safeguards, especially on freeways.

According to the Chicago Motor Club-AAA, though, owners of mini-sized vehicles can avoid these hazards if they recognize them ahead of time and adjust their driving habits accordingly.

First, and most obvious, small cars are difficult for other motorists to see and this factor should be kept in mind at all times.

Also, other drivers sometimes don't allow a compact car the road space it needs for safe maneuvering — they take their space, plus part of yours.

Small cars often are underpowered, and their operators should adjust driving maneuvers to compensate for this lack of horsepower when entering a freeway, or passing another vehicle.

Another frequently ignored problem, according to the Motor Club is that wind conditions affect the control of many smaller vehicles.

Crosswinds, and especially gusts, diminish the safe operation of these cars as speed increases.

Large trucks and buses, too, can create a crosswind when passing or overtaking small cars. In some cases, these crosswinds have been known to actually change the path of travel of the small cars.

A small car's steering capabilities can also be influenced when a motorist drives through an underpass that shields the wind on a gusty day.

Chicago FBI Head Urges Cooperation

Chicago FBI head Roy K. Moore urged closer cooperation between local law enforcement agencies and federal agencies in a speech to more than 300 law enforcement officials last week.

Moore delivered the principal address to the annual convention of the Illinois Sheriff's Association in Chicago.

Sheriffs, former sheriffs and other law enforcement officials from throughout the state attended the convention.

3 Carnivals To Fight Muscular Dystrophy

Carnivals for Muscular dystrophy have been popping up all over the Northwest suburbs this summer. Three neighborhood carnivals are being planned for August by area youngsters.

Today, Jimmy and Jeff Dittman and Bucky Strickler are featuring a Toes Across, swimming, Jarts, bean toes and hot dogs at 412 N. Windsor, Arlington Heights, from 1 to 4 p.m.

Events at a Tuesday carnival will include peewee bowling, frisbee toes and a spook house, when Carl and Curt Degner and Joe Forsthofer kick off their benefit from 12:30 to 4:30 p.m. at 318 N. Mozart, Palatine.

A group effort by five girls and two boys will feature an imitation of the Sonny and Cher television show when they present their carnival Aug. 25 and 26. The event will include games and prizes and will run from 1 to 4 p.m. both days at 647 E. Palatine Rd., Palatine.

According to the Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America, 28,143 carnivals held by children last year raised approximately $755,060 for research and patient service programs.

Politics As Usual: Daley Is Back

dent, Margaret (Peggy) Gordon of Glencoe; one Daley patronage worker, Jane Byrne, Chicago commissioner of consumer affairs; and the "youth" delegate, Penny Lee Severns of Decatur, a perky 20-year-old who is studying government at Southern Illinois University.

The others elected were John Karns Jr. of Belleville, former Constitutional Convention delegate and ex-state's attorney of St. Clair County, and John Rednour of DuQuoin, president of the Democratic County Chairman's Association.

Partee led the voting with 150% of a possible 100 votes. Rednour finished six, with 121% votes.

The first runner-up was Rep. Daniel M. Pierce of Highland Park, who gathered rights," said Matejevich of Pierce.

More importantly, he declared, "We need suburban representation if we are to win elections in the suburbs."

Rep. Eugenia S. Chapman of Arlington Heights, seconding Pierce's nomination declared that while Mrs. Gordon was a suburbanite, there was no representation on the agreed list from the five counties surrounding Cook, and representing most of one-third of Illinois Democrats.

Pierce's nomination was also seconded by Newton N. Minow of Glencoe, former commissioner of the Federal Communications Commission, and Hubert J. (Bud) Loftus of Addison.

They included Minow, Mrs. Chapman Frank Cicero Jr. of Evanston, Rep. Aaron Jaffe of Skokie, alternate Jan Perlman of Wilmette (voting for Michael S. Devorkin of Skokie), alternate Lucille Gallagher of Arlington Heights (voting for Wheeling Township Democratic Committee man James L. McCabe), teacher Robert C. Grabitz of Arlington Heights and Betty Spence of Buffalo Grove.

Pierce, who never takes himself too seriously, cast his votes for Partee, Mrs. Gordon, Peoria County chairman Larry Johnson, Karns, and for "Pierce, if he needs me."

Yet when he addressed the Women's Caucus at the Convention here, he pointedly ignored questions on the subject (which President Richard Nixon has undeniably made into a Presidential issue.) McGovern also told the press conference that he was opposed to the following minority report to the Democratic Platform:

"In matters relating to human reproduction, each person's right to privacy, freedom of choice and individual conscience should be fully respected, consistent with relevant Supreme Court decisions."

Both Betty Friedan, author of "The Feminine Mystique" and Jacqueline Ceballos of the National Organization for Women, told this writer of widespread pressure from McGovern headquarters to keep this plank off the platform.

But the vaunted discipline of the McGovern machine, which plowed under such hoary stalwarts as Chicago's Mayor Richard Daley and President George Meany of the AFL-CIO, came apart on this maneuver.

No less than 1,101 of the 2,673 delegates rebelled and came within 471 votes of hammering this plank onto the platform.

Job Skills Needed Where Books Fail

by PATRICIA MCCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Many Jane and Joe Smarts going back to high school will study history, English and assorted subjects.

They're not going to college, so it's fair to ask — what are they going to do after high school?

They're forgetting to take some subjects of a nature that will help them get a job. Like typing, learned to an acceptable office practice skill. Like, almost anything one would need to help earn one's living beyond floor-sweeping, cutting grass, waiting on tables, babysitting.

Jane and Joe are not alone in their dance bout. Some of their classmates headed for college will get accepted, go, and before the freshman year is over, one-third of them will have dropped out. They will be in the same job market as Jane and Joe — and just as ill-prepared.

Such a problem is on the mind of the National Advisory Council on Vocational Education.

Vocational education is the job skill part of school. The council was created by the Congress through the Vocational Education Amendments of 1968. It is composed of 21 persons appointed by the President from diverse backgrounds in labor, management and education.

In its latest report, the council complains about the poor quality of counseling and guidance services in schools today, especially in the high schools. Counseling and guidance aren't keeping up with education and the changing times. As a result, job skills aren't universal among high school graduates.

Lawrence Davenport, chairman of the council, explains that guidance and counseling is a useful tool for providing young people with the information and advice needed to make intelligent career choices.

"If the information is restrictive and out-of-date as the case seems to be then the guidance role could do more harm than good," says Davenport.

The council is recommending that guidance programs be improved — and swiftly. As matters now stand, there are 475 students to every high school counselor, 3,500 to every grade school counselor. And matters, as inadequate as they are, may worsen. In this period of money shortages for school purposes, guidance frequently among "frills" cut.

Dr. Calvin Dellefield, executive director of the council, said the major problem is guidance. Such counseling he explained in an interview helps a student know himself — and be realistic about opportunities.

Not going to college is on a scale with failure, however. Most high school courses are aimed at the youngster heading for college. That's a situation that's out of balance with reality, according to Dellefield.

Consider: Over 750,000 drop out of high school each year; over $50,000 drop out of college each year. Yet — fewer than one in every high school student is enrolled in a vocational education course.

"The prime legacy being left to today's youth is the certainty of uncertainty," the council says. "The major thing youth knows for sure is that change is coming — and at an increasingly rapid rate. Change in the nature of occupations, in skill levels required for job entry, and changes in work values."

Within their career lifetime, they may expect to change occupations somewhere between five and seven times.

Dellefield said parents can help by analyzing their attitudes toward college. They must recognize the university route is not the only one to success.

If they give children the notion that college is the only way, then the children will be stamped with failure if they don't go to college.

The council, calling for a total effort to improve the guidance programs, suggests the following reforms:

—That state departments of education require work experience outside of education for all school counselors who work with students and prospective students of vocational education. Hands-on experience, so they would know what they're talking about when they get to advising on the work-a-day world.

—Individuals with rich backgrounds of experience in business, industry, and labor, but with no teaching experience be infused into the counseling systems. They would bring a practical touch to the scene. Successful plumbers, builders, electricians, store managers.

—Immediate efforts to lower the counselor-pupil ratio in elementary, secondary and post secondary educational institutions. Only then will all who need counseling and guidance receive such services — when they need them.

—That job placement and follow-up services be considered major part of counseling and guidance programs.

Sex Advice: Do Doctors Give The Help Wanted?

by DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UPI) — Only 2 per cent of 914 representative doctors queried in a survey said their patients never asked them for sexual advice. That left 98 per cent who are solicited for such advice.

The survey confirmed the medical profession's impression that it is a favorite recourse for the sexually troubled. It also renewed the doubts of critics as to its competence in such matters.

Sixty-one per cent of questioned doctors said doctors in general were not as competent as they should be. However, about 75 per cent considered themselves to be fully qualified.

The survey design excluded advice on contraception, abortion, and organic disease; thus the survey questions and answers pertained only to sexual practices and their psychological and social rebounds.

It was conducted by the professional journal, "Medical Opinion," which published the results along with the newest findings of Dr. Sherwyn M. Woods of the University of Southern California Medical School.

They fortified his position that generally speaking doctors are NOT competent to deal with non-organic sexual troubles. It is the position of a number of medical educators. They advocate improved teaching at the undergraduate level and postgraduate courses for doctors in practice.

Woods made in-depth studies of 118 senior medical students whom he took to be representative of both students and practicing doctors. He found that "A large number of physicians feel inadequate in their knowledge of normal and disordered sexuality."

This sense of inadequacy, he said, "is compounded by anxiety, guilt and shame in their own sex life." Furthermore, these doctors and future doctors are not sensitive enough to "great social difference in sexual attitudes, values and behaviors — they would apply their own personal standards, however narrow."

Over half the studied students felt their medical education "had failed to significantly increase their understanding of human sexuality," he said. "While they felt they had an adequate fund of knowledge about anatomy, physiology and organic dysfunctions, they indicated a strong feeling of deficiency in the understanding of sexual psychology."

It is not true that medical students educate themselves with personal experiences. For one thing, the demands made upon them by the courses keep them fully occupied — they haven't the time.

According to Woods, "The popular view of the medical student as sexually irresponsible and wild is a myth. The vast majority exhibit sexual behavior that could more appropriately be described as inhibited. A significant percentage are still virgins."

The Doctor Says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — The current argument at our house is the relationship between hypertension and the incidence of obesity. The arguments have now evolved to include strokes, coronaries and diabetes.

My contention is that obesity predisposes to all of the above mentioned, but my husband knows several thin people with high blood pressure, and never believes anything I say on general principles, so I am unable to convince him there is any relationship. Please comment on this for us.

Dear Reader — I hate to interject myself into the fun and games of the limited warfare of marriage, but medical science is on your side. Most problems that occur because of high blood pressure are caused by fatty deposits in the arteries (atherosclerosis). This is how high blood pressure causes strokes. Both strokes and coronaries are caused by atherosclerosis. One simply involves the arteries to the brain and the other the arteries to the heart.

While there are many exceptions, which explains why your husband is making his accurate observation, as a group people who are overweight have a higher incidence of atherosclerosis and a higher incidence of diabetes.

There are some fat people, however, who don't have any of these things and there are some skinny people who do. If it were as simple as looking at a person to see if he was fat or not doctors wouldn't have to do any laboratory tests or a lot of other studies that are commonly done.

Nevertheless, obesity is associated with an increased incidence of a host of medical problems, including strokes, coronaries, diabetes and even post-operative complications to a hysterectomy or a gallbladder operation.

There is hardly anything that obesity helps unless it is a survival in the arctic. The reason life insurance companies want to know how much a person weighs is because the fat person has a greater likelihood of a medical disorder or early death than the individual of normal weight.

Classic Hairstyles In Updated Versions

Updated versions of some well-remembered classic looks are what's coming up this fall and winter in hairstyles. It should come as no surprise.

Keyed to fall/winter fashions for women, hairstyles like clothes continue to be described as elegant with soft undertones of simplicity, freedom and comfort.

The general emphasis is away from the windblown or natural look of the shag and focused instead on the old standby that intermittently appears on the scene... the pageboy. Easy-to-care-for is still a primary factor and curls have not diminished in popularity.

THE NATIONAL Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association recently introduced its American hair fashions for fall and winter of 1972-73 during the association's national convention in Palm Springs, Calif.

One contemporary look, appropriately labeled Ms. America, is a graceful style that is long, but off the shoulder. The Ms.

America takes the familiar pageboy line, but adds the enhancement of curls and waves about the face. The noticeable feature about this hairstyle is the return to the center part.

Barrettes of all sizes and shapes are currently back in fashion and can be used to further individualize many of the new cuts and to offer an evening look that is different from the basic day-to-day style.

The Contemporary Classic, another traditional look by NHCA, is a free-form fashion that ranges from the classic pageboy to a smoothie reminiscent of a bob. A curling iron comes in handy in setting this cut to achieve a form of the much remembered marcel wave.

THE U.S. SOPHISTICATE is a very distinct look that focuses mostly on a front-curved fashion silhouette.

Brushed smooth and close to the head, the Sophisticate is a carefree cap of a coif that has been designed for the career woman who prefers short hair.

A permanent is recommended for this hairstyle in order to keep curls just that — permanent.

Long hairstyles for fall and winter include The Swingin' Single and The American Girl. The latter is long and flowing with a soft wide wave framing the face and ending up in easy curls.

MORE PRONOUNCED, the Swingin' Single cut, for the under-30 crowd, features a layered length of curl, topped with close cropped bangs, tapered around the face and worn smooth from the crown in the fashionable small head look.

Pulled back, pinned up or turned loose and free, this style swings with the shape and class that is born from a good basic haircut. (Photos courtesy of National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association.)

Housing Market Reflects Change In Retiree Attitude

by DOROTHEA M. BROOKS

NEW YORK (UPI) — The over-65 population in the United States is expected to increase by 21.5 per cent — or an additional four million senior citizens — by 1980.

This is a big housing market — and one in which significant change is under way.

The statistics, says Charles Rutenberg, president of U.S. Home Corp., one of the nation's largest residential builders, are not the most significant change in the retirement housing market.

"New attitudes held by retirees on what retirement should be are the most meaningful change. Today's retiree has dispelled the idea that retirement and vegetation are synonymous."

Based on firsthand observations and relationships with retirees covering a spectrum of economic, social and psychological levels, Rutenberg says, certain basic patterns are emerging in methodology to serve the wants and needs of the enlightened retiree.

HE SAID U.S. HOME has discerned five major trends in the retirement market which it is incorporating in its own community planning function:

—While a substantial portion of this market prefers a community built and planned for people of their own age and interest groups, the trend is toward living in balanced communities which include young families.

—The retirement market is marked by growing geographic dispersal. At one time, Florida and California accounted for some 80 per cent of this market. Today northern states such as New York, New Jersey and Maryland have become major retirement centers for families who prefer to remain nearer home, children and grandchildren.

—The retiree most often is active and interested in civic and community affairs. Many are putting their valuable experience to work in programs to help youngsters, teen-agers and minority groups.

—THE RETIREE wants a spectrum of recreational facilities but no schedules. This means basic equipment and space should be provided for activities ranging from athletic to cultural, but use of these facilities should be flexible.

—Exercise plays an important role in their lives — and is vital for health maintenance. Geriatric experts recommend walking as the best all-around exercise. In addition to sports facilities, inclusion of attractive malls, walkways and promenades is important in adult communities.

Rutenberg said the success of adult communities depends upon an understanding of what the retiree wants, how he wants it and what psychological adjustments he must make. The retiree, for example, often is ready for a new environment. However, Rutenberg said, in creating this environment for him, it is necessary to provide an atmosphere which stimulates and encourages interest in new activities, without overwhelming him with predetermined schedules.

SOME OF THE results in successful communities, he suggested, are worthy of study by researchers in the field of geriatric psychology. He said couples have gotten together and volunteered to perform valuable civic, municipal and charitable projects; men who once had trouble telling a lens from a light meter suddenly blossom into highly creative amateur photographers; women to whom clay and paint were totally alien produce skillful ceramics.

This significantly youthful characteristic — the desire to learn and do something outside one's experience — is a major factor in the good health enjoyed by residents of many of the more successful adult communities. Medical experts, he said, have long voiced the opinion that mental activity is related to physical well-being.

"These folks keep busy from morning to night and don't take time to think about their age or worry about their health."

EVEN THE MOST casual observer at such communities, Rutenberg said, is struck immediately by the fact the word retirement bears no relationship to the idea of inactivity. In fact, he said, activity, action and participation are hallmarks of the new breed of senior citizen.

"Not only are they active, responsible people," he added, "but even more amazing is the fact that coincident with their move, they become interested in things which are totally new to them."

Rutenberg noted there are two schools of thought as to how much the retiree himself has changed over the last two decades.

"One says that he has changed greatly. The other side of the argument was summed up by the resident of an adult community who said the change isn't great at all. It is just that the natural instincts of the retiree, long bottled up in artificial, unrealistic environments, have come to the surface under the stimulus of planned adult communities where new interests and new avocations are encouraged, not regimented," Rutenberg concluded.

Mom Feels The Pressure

Alice Flaxton, my next door neighbor, rustled the bushes, so I knew she was there before she spoke up.

"I was watching you," she announced as she rose out of the rhododendron. "I wouldn't need a calendar to know this is the second week in August. All I have to do is take a look at you."

"What do you mean by that?" I asked nervously examining a ragged thumb nail.

"You look like you are ready to jump your tracks. But I'm not worried because I know you'll be fine as soon as school starts."

"Shh!" I warned her. "I don't want the children to hear."

"Why? Do you think they will get a rejection complex?"

"Well, they might, and it's so difficult to explain why I want school to start. It's not really that I don't want the kids around."

ALICE LAUGHED loudly. "Now that's carrying motherhood a bit far. NOBODY could be that noble."

"Look Alice, it's not nobility. Every spring I actually look forward to school's getting out. It's great not having to get up early, pack lunches, frantically wash Brownie uniforms and go to PTA meetings. Summer vacation is a needed relief."

Alice agreed. "But, since I look forward to summer so much," I continued, "I don't understand why I fall apart so early in August."

"Your summer is too structured," Alice observed solemnly.

"Too structured?" I exclaimed. "Alice, I can't get anything done! I haven't even done the dishes since last Thursday." My voice broke a little.

"There, there," Alice said soothingly.

"You must realize you have been doing too much. If you'll just take stock of the things you do, you'll see I'm right."

"WELL," I BEGAN uncertainly, "Yesterday I took the kids swimming and on a picnic. The day before it was tennis and swimming. The day before that we took a canoe out, and before...

"Keep going, you're doing fine."

"Alice, this is ridiculous. All I do is play," I asked morosely.

"That's exactly what I'm trying to point out." Alice was electric with her soon-to-be triumphant logic.

"I really don't understand."

"It's simple, she said. 'You have approximately 10 weeks to swim, sail, fish, hike, picnic, play tennis and plan and carry out a family vacation.' Alice stopped and gave me a look that meant the conclusion should be obvious. But it wasn't.

"So?" I asked.

"SO, NOW, IN mid-August when you haven't done all you've planned, the pressure is on. And you know there is an essential thing you have to do before school starts."

"What's that?" I asked, beginning to get on Alice's wave length.

Fashion

by Gene

Fashion has something to say for every occasion, sport or event. It just depends upon how much you care. One need not own tennis whites to play a match. Proper dress has no effect on performance... only on appearance.

As every sport, skiing, golfing and swimming to name a few, has gradually attracted the masses, clothing manufacturers have been quick in line to promote new fashions and update them each year.

Even bikinis subtly change in styling. This year's favorite model is the three-ringer.

Bicycling, the age-old do-your-own-peddaling kind of transportation, has been the most recent sport to reach status symbol proportions.

Bicycling is often favored over other sports because skill and practice are not required. One needs only a bike (10-speed to be with it) and a bicycling outfit (to look really with it).

SEVERAL SWEATERMAKERS have made way for the new craze by including a group of bicycle-themed tops in their most recent collections. These include a variety of hip-length capes which adequately clear the wheels and spokes.

Capes are layered over matching sweaters which in turn layer over turtle-neck tops for extra warmth when cool autumn weather breezes in.

Some bicyclists, in particular those who have transportation problems, will even be out pedaling this winter.

T-shirts and sweaters with color-slice inserts or placed stripes of very obvious colors are the standard tops for cycling. Women most often couple them with hot pants and knee socks for summer spins when they want to look the part of the well-dressed cyclist.

But watch out for the wide flairs. They can easily become entangled between the spokes. Perhaps bicyclists will ultimately influence a return to straight-legged pants.

FREE-WHEELING STRIPES on bicycle sweater are designed to allow the cyclist to stand out to oncoming traffic.

Janice Muensch Is Married

A romance on the Marquette University campus culminated in marriage on July 15 for Janice Ann Muensch of Arlington Heights and Robert Francis Knecht II of North Liberty, Ind.

Janice, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert J. Muensch, 124 S. Ridge Ave., is enrolled in a dental hygiene course at Marquette, and her husband is a Marquette graduate now in law school there. His parents are the Robert Knechts of North Liberty.

A large wedding party attended the couple for their afternoon nuptials in Our Lady of the Wayside Church, Arlington. Besides Jane Ponsot of Arlington as maid of honor, there were four bridesmaids, a flower girl and ring bearer preceding the bride down the church aisle.

BRIDESMAIDS WERE Mrs. Cathy Muensch, Rolling Meadows, the bride's sister-in-law; and Maureen Gorman, Judi Mokup and Valerie Meek, all Arlington friends of Janice's.

Her niece, Christy Muensch, 4, of Rolling Meadows, was flower girl and the groom's nephew, 6-year-old Brian Smith of Mishawaka, Ind., was ring bearer.

The girls were all gowned alike in two-toned mint green and white. The bridesmaids wore white lace with long sleeves, the skirts in mint green crepe. The attendants wore white picture hats tied with mint green streamers to match and carried red bouquets containing mint green daisies, white roses and baby's breath.

The bride chose a white silk organza gown for her wedding day. The high necked bodice and long sleeves were accented with lace daisies, which also dotted the A-line skirt and formed a border at the hemline. Janice topped her gown with a handmade mantilla veil that was lavishly edged with scalloped lace. She carried gardenias, white roses, white daisies and baby's breath.

JAMES KNECHT came from Rosemount, Minn., to be his brother's best man. The groom's other attendants included the bride's brothers, Greg and Dean Muensch; James Norris, Montreal, Canada; Gerry Wharton, Harrisonburg, Va.; John Lehter, Lansing, Mich.; Kevin Irwin, Indianapolis; and Gerry Anderson, Anderson, Ind.

During the double ring ceremony, Mrs. Vernon Boman of Arlington sang several selections chosen by the bride and groom.

A reception for 200 guests followed at Camelot Restaurant in Des Plaines. The bride and groom left for a week's honeymoon at Lake of the Ozarks.

They will be making their home in Milwaukee for the next year while they complete work on their degrees. Janice is a graduate of Sacred Heart of Mary High School.

Strictly A Local Affair

The recent wedding of Linnea Burger and Patrick McDonald Jr. was strictly a local affair in Arlington Heights.

The couple's families and all their wedding attendants live in Arlington Heights with one exception, Michael McDonald, Pat's cousin who lives in Prospect Heights.

Linnea is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Burger, 660 N. Chicago Ave. Pat's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Patrick McDonald of 731 N. Douglas. The young couple grew up in Arlington, Linnea graduating from Arlington High School and Pat from St. Viator High.

They were married July 22 at 4 p.m. in St. James Catholic Church. Candles glowed on the altar as they exchanged vows and rings.

MRS. SANDY GROGMAN, the groom's sister, was matron of honor and Laurie Burger, Linnea's younger sister, was junior bridesmaid. Three of the bride's Arlington friends, Janell Petersen, Caryn Corts and Michele Haas, were bridesmaids.

They were all gowned alike in pink chiffon with an ivory bodice trimmed with Venice lace. They carried large floral balls containing pink and white carnations and baby's breath.

Linnea chose an ivory chantilly lace over tulle gown. The high neckline and long sleeves were accented with tiny pearls. She wore a high portrait headpiece to hold her mantilla veil which was bordered with scalloped lace to match her gown. Her bouquet was of pink tea-roses, white carnations and baby's breath. Michael McDonald served his cousin as best man.

THE GROOMSMEN INCLUDED the couple's brothers, David Burger and Terry and Thomas McDonald, and Pat's brother-in-law, Roger Grogman.

An evening reception for the newlyweds followed at Howard Johnson's in Palatine. They honeymooned for a week in Florida and are getting settled in an apartment in Buffalo Grove.

Linnea works at Arlington Park Towers. Pat has transferred from St. Mary's College in Winona, Minn., to Loyola's Lewis Towers campus in Chicago.

HUD Advice To Future Home Buyers

by DOROTHEA M. BROOKS
NEW YORK (UPI) — Two out of every three buyers select a used house — and the one out of three who buys a new house is likely to purchase one already built.

It's a choice each home buyer must make for himself, but whatever the choice, the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) has some good advice on "Wise Home Buying."

In a new booklet of that title — a handy pocket-size volume every house hunter would do well to ask for — HUD has suggestions on how to decide whether or you are ready for a home, whether you can afford it, where to look for one, what to look for in a home, and your obligations once you own it.

WHETHER you decide on a new or an older home, "once you've found a house you like," HUD advises, evaluate it carefully. You are buying the property "as is" and you must literally live in as well as with your mistakes.

If it's an older home, HUD recommends a thorough inspection to reveal hidden defects and obvious remodeling needs — and suggests if you have any doubts at all, a $50 or $100 fee for professional inspection will be money well spent. Wiring, heating, plumbing — particularly plumbing that includes a septic tank — are areas where expert advice is particularly helpful.

HOWEVER, HUD warns, if you call in an expert, first check their reputations and beware of unscrupulous operators who may justify their fee by exaggerating flaws they may want to repair at inflated costs.

If it appears repairs and improvements are needed, have a clear understanding as to what the seller will pay for and what you will have to be responsible for.

HUD SUGGESTS 10 areas that deserve special attention in older houses:

—Termite infestation and wood rot.

This calls for expert knowledge and is of extreme importance, especially in areas of the country that have a history of infestation.

—Sagging structure.
—Inadequate wiring. Be sure wiring is in good condition, with adequate amperage and enough electrical outlets.

—Heating plant. Check the general condition of the system and get an estimate of how old it is and how long it can be expected to function.

—Inadequate insulation.
—Faulty plumbing. Try to check with the plumber who last serviced the house. Check for water pressure. If possible, choose a house connected to a public sewer system.

—Hot water heater. Check condition and capacity of system.
—Roof and gutters.

—Wet basements. A basement that's dry in summer can be a different story in spring. Check for signs of water around foundation walls.

Examine condition of outside paint or siding and the paint and paper inside. Be sure windows and doors operate and are not in need of repair. Inspect floor and wall tile and fixtures. Determine if the house plan is, or can be made, suitable for your way of living. Get all available instructions and warranties for equipment, names of service people.

WITH A NEW home, HUD notes, reliability of the builder is an important consideration. A reputable builder is in business for life. Arrange to talk with people who are living in houses constructed by the builder you are considering.

And consider these points:
—Be sure the contract is complete. There should be written agreement on all details of the transaction. Leave nothing to chance, or oral agreement.

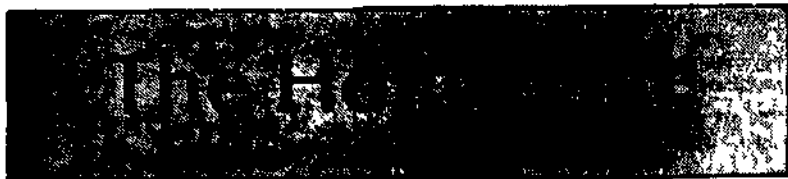

—If new street paving, water, sewer lines are involved, know whether you or the builder will pay. Check on charges for water and trash collection.

—Obtain a firm date for completion in the contract.

—Don't be afraid to check construction progress regularly.

—The day before you take title, make a thorough inspection trip.

And remember, there is no such thing as the perfect house, new or old. Just be sure you know where the house you are buying falls short — and that the shortcomings are things you can live with. Then enjoy your home.

Dear Dorothy: I vaguely remember something about what to do for an odor left by a cat "spraying," but can't remember the exact instructions. My granddaughter's cat has been using a certain corner in a room and the odor is terrible. We have used every kind of deodorizer with no success. Do you know?—Mrs. J.B.

As far as I know, there is no solution for certain odors — and one caused by a "spraying" cat is one of them. A faint odor can often be eliminated by covering the area either with the granules used to line kitten boxes or activated charcoal granules. A neutralizing solution with either vinegar or household ammonia helps some. Mr. Edd Frazier finally used a few drops of wintergreen. You know, of course, that humid weather often brings back certain animal odors.

Tip to Young Mothers: So that you don't have to worry about a youngster pulling a plastic bag out of the wastebasket and possibly pulling it over himself, tie the bag into one or two knots before throwing it away.

Dear Dorothy: This is for the reader with two different-size feet. I've found it's easier to fit the larger foot and have the shoe clerk put an insert into the other shoe.—Mrs. Dorothy Woodbury.

Dear Dorothy: I used to worry about how many ears of corn to cook for my family. Then decided having any left over wouldn't be too bad when found the leftovers could be added to fritters, waffles, pancakes or omelets the next day.—Mrs. Thomas W.

When an occasional ear of corn is left over, I put it in cold water and let it come to the boiling point. With butter and salt it's almost as good as the first time around.

Let's Broaden Butchers' Hours

It is time to put an end to one of the biggest inconveniences and aggravations facing today's food shopper: the strict hours at the fresh meat counter.

A traditional problem for the suburban shopper, it's underlined more than ever by the new trend in keeping food stores open to midnight, and — in some cases — around the clock.

The new hours have been hailed as a boon to shoppers, and indeed they are. But it's business as usual at the meat counter — which means no business at all after 6 p.m., and never on Sunday.

That contradiction, to say the least, is a vexing one for the shopper, but the butcher's union carried on doggedly in the best tradition of the public be damned.

Typically, both sides — the chain stores and the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butchers Workmen of North America — blame the other in the problem.

The chain stores say they've tried for years to get the union to bend in its working hours, and even challenged the situation in court, but to no avail.

The butchers say they've had to wage a bigger battle to get a fair work day for their members, and it's the chain store owners who can't get together to agree what to pay butchers and how to determine hours.

And the butchers do have a weighty court opinion behind them: a 1962 U.S. Supreme Court decision rejecting a Jewel Food Store's contention that the union should not be able to control its own hours and that of the sale of meat as a legal labor objective.

Also, typically, you know who comes out on the short end — the consumer.

Pity the shopper who can't make it to the store during a normal weekday and dreads the usual Saturday rush. No steaks, no chops, no roasts — nothing but sausages and some frozen meat.

The situation is absurd and must be rectified at once, if the butchers and store owners care at all about their customers.

An opportunity is at hand for solution. The current two-year contract between the union and the food store chains expires Oct. 1, and serious negotiations are expected to begin later this month.

The prime objective of those negotiations should be hours — how long the butchers should work, and how the buying public can best be served.

Both sides should openly dedicate themselves to that goal. If they don't, they deserve the wrath of all shoppers — already beleaguered by the spiraling cost of living and repeated scares about tainted food. The least they can expect is some convenience.

Korea's Giant Step

The decision of the two Koreas to start talking with each other after two decades of shouting may have taken the world by surprise, but it did not come totally without warning.

The two regimes already had made a gingerly public contact through Red Cross representatives, a very safe and politically non-committal first step. Those in power in Seoul and Pyongyang may have known there was something more to those civil but stiff initial meetings last year on the Panmunjon neutral ground, but any outside observer who had taken this as the shape of something else to come so rapidly would likely have lost his pundit accreditation on grounds of foolish optimism.

Numerous developments, not all of a Korean nature, produced the changed atmosphere which makes rapprochement possible.

President Nixon's summit diplomacy has initiated dramatic changes in the great power relationships which set the tone, and usually determine the intensity in the case of client states such as the Koreans, for the confrontations of smaller countries.

Both North and South Korea have made impressive recoveries from the war that devastated both.

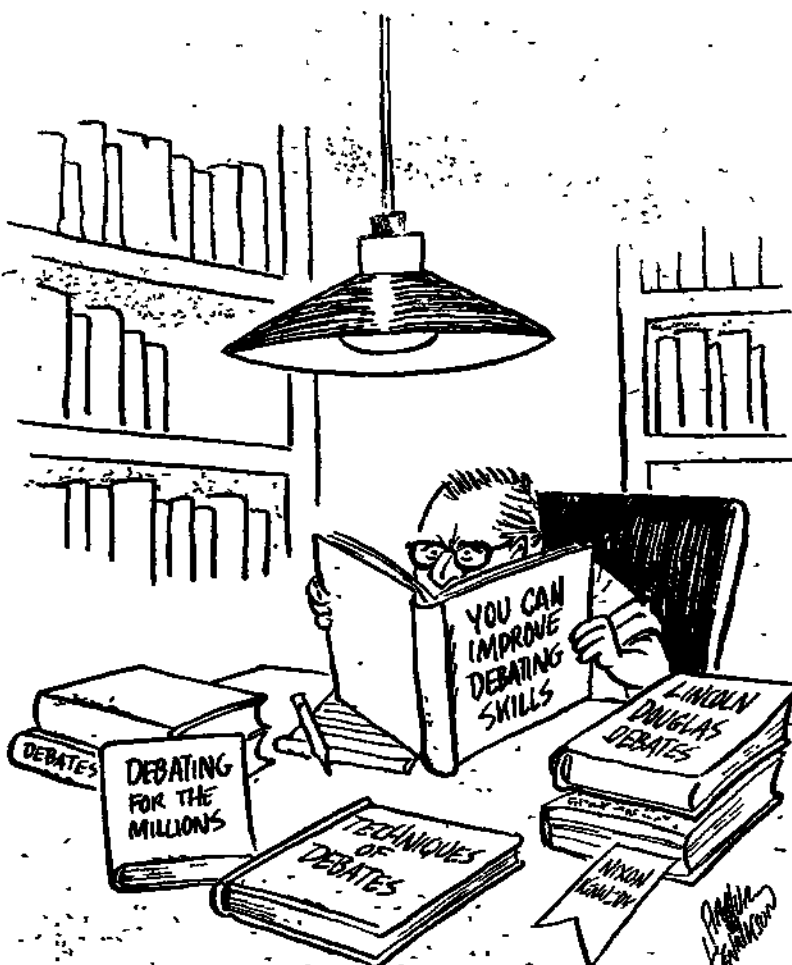

Both are able to talk about reunification from positions of considerable internal strength, an equality which removes an element of strain from negotiations.

Not much less surprising than the decision of the Koreans to talk reunification would have been, at one time, the welcome it has received in Washington. Such do-it-yourself diplomacy, which is openly being viewed as presaging a scaling down if not phasing out of significant U.S. involvement, would have been viewed as an alarming weakening of the anti-Communist front not so very long ago.

Even today, Korean developments are likely to appear more ominous than optimistic to some who discern little basic change in the world situation during the past two decades. Despite summitry, mellowing regimes and travel and trade relaxations, the Communist enemy is as inimical as ever.

Nevertheless, times change, even in power politics. President Park's Seoul regime, acting large on its own, would appear to be very much in step with President Nixon's diplomacy of reconciliation on the global scale. The reunification gesture, whatever its eventual result, at least has the virtue of allied consistency.

Fence Post Letters To The Editor

Child Control Needed

"The Games People Play" — an interesting title of a not-so-old-time — and very appropriate for a number of suburban homeowners and their children.

Here's how it works. First you situate yourself near a homeowner who has a grown family, children in college, or who are fully employed. Then you size up the surroundings — nice big yard, peaceful, no one around. "This is just right for me and the kids," surmises the newcomer. Not soon after, it all begins — the police have a name for it — it's called "general harassment." The mother or parents shut themselves from the outside world in their air-conditioned "pad." They play cards, watch TV, chat on the phone, or just lounge around in the cool comfort of their home, and let the kids outside loose. If they have one "lonely" child, he is welcome to invite anyone off the village streets to play with — they yell and scream to their heart's content as long as they're not under foot. Occasionally, the parents imbibe — have a nip — which helps to fog the brain, and makes them oblivious to any outside noises — this helps considerably — puts them far out in "orbit."

If you complain, they get belligerent, ostracize you as a "crab" and "child-hater." If the little "dears" (some of them come in big sizes, 13-14 years of age) run all over your yard, tease the dog, if you have one, they are letting off "playful energy" and are lovingly mischievous. If you, as a last resort, ask the police for help, the mothers pass the word via telephone and you are then on the "poison list."

By this time, the pressure is on, and in full force, picking up tempo. The children, with mother's blessings, are doing as they please, unrestrained. Of course, it would be a shame to give them a "mean mother complex" and have them grow up as inhibited neurotics. This is the name of the game — the big squeeze-play.

I, personally, know of three decent neighbors — a credit to this community — who sold out, and moved from their lovely landscaped homes (village officials take note) rather than aggravate themselves to death or insanity with bull-headed parents. Another good neighbor had to undergo psychiatric treatment as a direct result of ill-mannered children with arrogant parents.

My children grew up in this community, however, we have been on the defensive now for over 12 years. I don't really grieve about, as I deplore gossip and keep myself busy with social work and on, if my health permits. In my case, it started with bold trespassing; when I put up a fence to keep my baby from roaming some 10 years ago, I suddenly was surrounded with an air of hostility. What really surprised me was seeing a mother short-cutting through the yard dragging a youngster behind her. If the lawn looked a little too neat, then came the littering, breaking of flowers, cracking new hedges, and of course I cannot overlook the "habitual borrower." When you are annoyed, he goes elsewhere spreading his assassination of character, and presto! You have a new enemy.

Today, I am still resisting, but a word to the wise — if all the civic-minded groups really took a good look at the hate, bigotry, and animosity which is deeply rooted in the neglected yards of their weed-growing neighbors, it would not be necessary to point at smut-peddlers or corrupt politicians and accuse solely one or the other. These vice-lords just took over where the parents left off, you rest your camel where you find the oasis or fertile grounds.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following column was prepared Thursday. Since then, the Democrats may have picked a successor to Thomas Eagleton. How long he remains on the ticket, however, is another question.

WASHINGTON, November 6, 1972 — President Richard Nixon today ordered the Presidential election postponed, at least for a month.

In a brief statement, Nixon said "the election might be delayed until early 1973" unless the Democrats could come up with a Vice Presidential candidate before then.

Snickering slightly as he read the announcement, the President said an obscure law requires both major parties to present a full ticket to the voters.

Nixon said he has been in constant communications with Democratic Presidential candidate George McGovern and Herman Blizk, acting head of the Democratic National Committee.

Blizk, formerly an unemployed spot welder from Paramus, New Jersey, was appointed titular head of the Democratic National Committee two days ago after Theodore Sorenson, former Presidential adviser, resigned from the post.

Sorenson quit after he was offered the vice presidential spot on the ticket. However, Washington syndicated columnist Jack Anderson reported exclusively that Sorenson had failed to pay a parking ticket in 1955 in Cleveland, Ohio.

Following the disclosure, leading newspapers and top Democratic contributors assailed Sorenson, and McGovern suggested that, for the sake of party unity, Sorenson step down. Sorenson, agreed and retired from politics.

The prime solution should begin in the cradle with the parents — CONTROL THE CHILDREN, NOW. BEFORE THEY CONTROL YOU. Society is already paying a bitter price. Do you care?

Baseball Procedures Hit

Open letter to parents of boys in Arlington Heights boys' baseball.

Many letters have been written on the pros and cons of the Arlington Heights Boys' Baseball League. This is a letter from a group of concerned parents about the integrity and competency of the administration of this league. We are particularly concerned about the rules and protest committee. Many cases of prejudice and biased decisions have come to our attention.

A rules and protest committee should be a completely impartial group. In the case of the AHBBL rules and protest committee there are members of this committee who are personally involved with teams and, in some cases, sons as players.

Impartiality with committee members such as this is impossible. A case in point was a protest that was ruled on by one committee member one hour after the game was over — without benefit of a committee hearing. In another case a prejudiced decision was made against a team manager, thus forcing him to resign. These are only two incidents — you may know of many more.

As parents we all want the chance for our boys to play organized baseball. In order to achieve this, we all must actively participate in the basic make-up of this league. In essence, the league has been an asset to Arlington Heights and the boys involved. But there is room for improvement.

There are questions that need to be answered — what are the procedures con-

Sorenson is the tenth successive candidate for the post. Others who have been appointed, then stepped down under pressure, include:

—Lawrence O'Brien, whom Anderson disclosed had failed to break the revenue stamp on a bottle of gun in 1963;

—Edmund Muskie, whom the press reported had failed to disclose to

Tom Wellman

McGovern that he had been in Walter Reade Army Hospital in Washington in 1960 for hang nail surgery.

—Kevin White, former Boston mayor, who had been charged by columnists with attending a panel discussion in 1967 which included various left-leaning long-haired youth and politicians.

—R. Sargeant Shriver, who was accused by Anderson of suffering migraine headaches in 1962 while head of the Peace Corps under President John F. Kennedy.

Deliberations on selecting vice presidential candidates have been impeded in each case by the Illinois deadlock. Both the Mayor Daley and Singer-Jackson factions of the state party have been unable to agree on which faction should represent the party; the problem has been tied up in the courts since the summer national convention.

Most top Democratic officials were unavailable for comment after today's Nixon announcement. Reached in Bismarck, South Dakota, McGovern said he would react after he consulted with members of the Democratic National Committee — "if there are any left," he commented.

"I might even sit this one out," he chuckled. Reporters observed that his jaws had been sagging recently and some of his close associates have been referring to him as "hizzoner." Some ascribe the changes to pressure from George Meany.

Since the announcement, rumors have circulated in Washington circles that Nixon's next move is to name himself "king," due to the lack of Democratic opposition. Officials close to his throne — oops, office — have denied the story.

Fire Dept. Service 'Unexcelled'

This is in reply to the anonymous letter in Monday's Herald relative to the activities of the Elk Grove Village Fire Department during and following the storm of July 14th.

Is the writer aware that insurance rates in a community are based in large part on the effectiveness of the fire service? Does he know the performance of the fire department is based not only on manpower, equipment, training, etc. but also on their ability to perform salvage duties and thereby prevent greater loss than might be caused solely by fire?

Water's Cost

Your July 25 article concerning the possibility of raising our water rates to pay for Chicago water didn't faze me one bit. Right now we are paying utility taxes in amounts equal to, or greater than, any proposed costs chargeable to us when we get Lake Michigan water. At least we will be getting the water.

I trust the utility tax will be eliminated as soon as practicable, since the justification for it is just about gone.

EDITORIAL: There's another example of what good our children are doing.

'Let Voters Set Housing'

In the Chicago Daily News issue of July 24, there is an article, "Suburbs Map Housing Plan."

This is supposed to be a voluntary program for distributing low and moderate income housing throughout the suburbs, including Mount Prospect.

Mr. Jack Pahl, a N.I.P.C. commissioner, is, I believe, spokesman for the mayors of 12 suburban villages. As I understand it, he is trying to get these villages to provide this housing so eventually there will be no legal action brought against these villages by the A.C.L.U. of Chicago to force the villages to provide low cost housing.

We believe the voters of each village should decide if they want low cost housing and not the mayors or the A.C.L.U. Have American citizens now lost their right to govern themselves?

Mr. Pahl emphasized that more than one half of the need for low cost housing is for senior citizens. As a senior citizen, I disagree very strongly against Mr. Pahl's statement. As to his statement — "My daughter can't afford to live in my community, she can't afford the rent" — this doesn't make much sense. Statistics will show when children reach that age a majority of them leave home and move away.

If low income housing will be forced on Mount Prospect, then force it upon such suburbs as Barrington Hills, Winnetka and other suburbs where the very rich live. If any federal judge forces the low cost housing against certain villages and not against all villages, then we have a federal dictatorship. In Chicago today issue of July 24, is an article stating, "The federal government refused to join a plan by the A.C.L.U. to build public housing in the suburbs."

Waldheim Blasted

Our esteemed U.N. Secretary Waldheim, like the previous troublesome U. Thant, leaps on the bandwagon to provoke the populace in accusing the United States of bombing the dikes in North Vietnam.

Waldheim is ready to point the finger of accusation at the United States with glee, whether true or false. For a diplomat ready to accuse is a poor excuse for a U.N. secretary.

His predecessor was of the same ilk, ready to find fault with our United States but praising its enemies with a satisfied smirk.

Word-A-Day

Business Today

by DEAN C. MILLER

NEW YORK (UPI) — A young professional man in Dallas whose 32-year-old wife died following a penicillin reaction learned quite accidentally that a life insurance policy they'd dropped several years before was good for almost $2,000. Also that four young children could receive Social Security.

A 56-year-old woman in Victoria, Tex., learned two months after burying her husband that she could recover two payments on the new car and the credit insurance policy would take care of the remaining monthly payments.

Sooner or later everyone suffers a death in the immediate family and often doesn't think straight about business matters because of emotion and grief.

THAT'S WHERE Survivors' Optional Service of Athens, Tex. comes into the picture, a service now available at 103 banks in Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi and New Mexico. SOS, which expects to have 1,000 banks in its network within the next year, because of possible expansion in Missouri, Georgia, Tennessee, Alabama and Florida, specializes in seeing that surviving families get all the benefits to which they are entitled. And that covers a lot of ground and red tape.

Death benefits stem from Social Security, Veterans Administration, life insurance policies, profit-sharing plans, Civil Service, railway retirement plans, teachers' benefits, Workmen's Compensation, pension plans, credit life insurance and many other agencies and plans.

At SOS banks offering the service at no charge or fee, bankers trained in survivor benefits work directly with the families. They provide information needed to file claims, notify sources and assist in obtaining specific information.

In most instances you don't need to be a customer of the bank to use the service.

BOSSIER BANK & Trust Co., Bossier City, La., which recently added the service, is working with several people who lost close relatives. As a beginning, they give them check lists and ask them to return with insurance policies and other relevant documents.

The case of a dentist who died not long ago in Athens, Tex. indicates what benefits can be missed. The local SOS bank suggested, as a matter of routine, that his children go through the last three years of his canceled checks. Try to find any checks he might have written to insurance companies for which the family could find no policies, the bank said.

Sure enough, the checks showed he had paid annual premiums on two different policies, one for $2,000 going back to dental school days and another for $10,000. They probably would not have recovered either since the companies weren't aware of the death.

"What we're doing is getting people many legitimate benefits that have been overlooked in the heartache moments," explained J. W. Walker Jr., president and founder of SOS.

A LITTLE BIT of San Francisco was in the area recently as this replica of one of the city's famed cable cars toured in the name of Prescolite Manufacturing Corp., visiting architects and promoting lighting products. Driven by Craig Eggleston of Park Ridge, the replica is on a nationwide tour.

Prescolite has a plant in Elk Grove Village, at 1951 Landmeier Rd.

Personal Finance

by CARLTON SMITH

To buy shares in a no-load mutual fund, until recently, required a good deal of detective work. Those "no-loads," in which the investor can buy shares without paying the usual 8.5 per cent sales charge, seemed to be as elusive as mallards on the second day of duck season.

That's changing. The investors are now becoming the ducks and the no-loads the hunters — and they have the equipment to bring home some ducks.

That's the case, at least, with four former load funds that have now converted to no-loads, dropping a 1,200-man sales force in the process. They comprise the Denver-based Financial Program fund complex, a subsidiary of Gates Rubber Co. Though they've dropped their sales force — along with the "load" of commission — they aren't planning on dropping any sales.

FIRST, THEY'VE installed "reverse WATS lines" in the Denver office, so that anyone can call without charge from anywhere in the country by dialing one of the toll-free "800" numbers. A staff of 150, backed up by a computer system, will be on hand to answer questions of shareholders or potential investors, or take orders. Orders can be placed and confirmed by phone, with payment due in five days, in the same manner that brokerage-firm customers place phone orders for stocks.

And, to get the public to the phone, the four Financial Programs funds will make heavy use of direct mail and media advertising. James O. Richards, executive vice-president and head of marketing, says advertising will be placed "in the usual publications, and in some unusual publications," to reach potential investors who've hitherto gone unnoticed.

All the constitutes a radical switch in policy for a no-load fund. The traditional modus operandi has been for the no-loads to sit more or less quietly in the office, gratefully receiving orders from any investors who exercised the initiative to locate a few no-load funds, write away for their prospectuses and finally nudge themselves into filling out an order form.

THE LARGER no-load funds probably can be expected to follow suit after watching this operation for a time to see if Financial Programs' new aggressive-ness pays off. But what's even more interesting and significant is that, if company officials are right, many of the load funds will be forced to follow suit.

The load funds simply haven't been selling enough shares to stay healthy and alive, if their "net redemptions" problem continues. The FP group, probably typical, had as load funds been liquidating more share than were sold each month since early 1971.

FP President Donald C. Campbell, in announcing the conversion to a no-load operation, said a comprehensive analysis of mutual fund industry trends revealed "a very strong change in the attitude of the investor," and concluded: "We believe that the old method of selling mutual funds is no longer valid."

The move to convert from load to no-load — accompanied, no doubt, by the new aggressive marketing techniques — is something that Richards foresees "will exist throughout the industry within a relatively short time."

Two years ago, only four in every 100 mutual fund investors owned no-load shares. Today that has increased, but still only about 12 per 100. If the prediction above should materialize, most of the country's shareholders would own no-load shares — certainly a new and different day for investors, large and small (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Elimination

Lions Falter After Opening Win, Bow In County

by JIM COOK

They weren't selling runs at the concession stand adjacent to the Northbrook Legion diamond where the Cook County playoffs were unfolding.

Logan Square would certainly have come up with enough money to purchase two tallies — even of the cheap, unearned variety. The transaction would mean that the Lions would still be alive in the double-elimination tournament and eligible for the finals Sunday.

But Logan Square didn't pay the price on the field where runs are much more costly and were forced out of further competition by Bellwood, 4-1.

The defeat was the second for the Lions who suffered extinction by a heartbreaking 1-0 verdict against Northbrook and Saturday's 4-3 decision against Bellwood.

Just two measly runs. A team that scored hundreds of runs while compiling a dizzying 37-14-2 record. It just doesn't seem fair.

And it wasn't because opportunity didn't knock. As they had in 1-0 thriller, potential scoring chances arrived either when the Lions weren't home or when they didn't answer.

Maybe the disappointing hangover from the Northbrook defeat still hung like a cloud over the Lion dugout. The team was in a scoring-draught trance — a spell that infected the characteristically hard-hitting club immediately following an impressive three-game sweep of the Ninth District Tourney.

It's not that Bellwood didn't belong in the top-caliber competition — only that it probably would be in Logan Square's position had the latter played the ball it's capable of playing.

Bellwood scragglyly pecked away at Terry Smith — coach Larry Nomeilini's choice in the crucial no-tomorrow contest — with hits in each of the first four innings.

Smith's initial test came in the second frame when he was solved for back-to-back leadoff singles by Bellwood's pitcher Rick Rochetti and Tim Verpaale.

The righthanded chucker wiggled free, though, on a pop to the first baseman, a routine fly to center and an important strikeout.

Bellwood stubbornly came right back in the third as Smith sank into quicksand via two walks sandwiched around a single. The scoreless deadlock vanished when Bill Sykora drilled a two-run single to right and the Lions were faced with the unfamiliar task of playing catchup baseball.

Stan Bobowski, probably the most consistent hitter for Logan Square all season, eased some of the pain by rocketing the tournament's first home run deep over the rightfield fence to shave the margin in half, 2-1.

Bellwood responded immediately. After Smith retired one, an error, stolen base and single to left restored the two-run bulge that loomed bigger and bigger as the innings grew fewer and fewer.

The middle frames were uneventful only in that no scoring took place. Smith had regained the groove and knocked down the side in both the fifth and sixth innings while the Lions, by stranding three more baserunners, continued to taste frustration.

When Bellwood increased its cushion to 4-1 via a Dan Moceri homer in the bottom of the seventh, the thought of elimination sparked new vigor into the desperate Lions.

The bench came alive in the eighth when pinch-hitter Terry Moriarity coaxed a full-count pass to lead off the frame and when Ken Martin slugged a run-scoring double up the left centerfield power alley, shades of a game-winning rally became more distinct.

Mike Cook, Thursday's hero of Logan Square's opening round 4-3 triumph over Calumet City, responded with a single in another pinch-hitting role to put the tying markers on base with still nobody out.

But then the plague — the scoring drought — made its mirage-like appearance. The next three Lion hitters were retired quickly and quietly.

The recovery team became active again in the ninth as Logan Square stepped back against the wall. Joe Bombicino beat out an infield hit and scampered to second on a wild throw.

Steve Bobowski kept the heat palpitating with a run-scoring single to right and when Tom Chapman sacrificed the potential tying rally to second for only the first out, it appeared as if the Lions had shunned their crippling disease.

Mike Garbus, still another pinch-hitter, reached on a host at third to represent the winning marker, but it also represented the end of the line.

Martin forced Garbus at second and relief pitcher Jim Miller grounded to second to end the threat, the game and the tournament season for Logan Square.

The Lions still have Park Ridge scheduled at home tonight in hopes of capturing a share of the regular-season Ninth District championship.

Northbrook's Swanson Bests Cook; Lions' First Loss In County Play

by JIM COOK

Everything was of major league caliber — the lights, the field, the crowd. But mostly the teams.

"I'd have paid two dollars to see these two teams play," one observer said. "You throw in a couple of beer vendors and maybe an exploding scoreboard and you couldn't have asked for anything else," commented another.

The professional atmosphere was created by Northbrook and Logan Square during a very attractive night engagement that concluded first-round play in the Cook County American Legion Tournament.

The clubs had traded identical 4-2 decisions during the regular season, but the addition of an elimination factor in the County playoffs lofted this game to a pedestal of an acute rivalry.

The 1-0 nine-inning Northbrook triumph had scouts running out of ink, notebook paper and superlatives. The Lion defeat stung the loss column to be sure. One more appearance by Logan Square on the short end of the stick meant cleaning out the lockers.

Morale, confidence and encouragement shouldn't have been shaken. A fraction of an inch or a split second the other way could easily have reversed the score. That's the kind of game it was.

The Lions, to begin, with, were at considerable odds as soon as they took the well-manicured field before a crowd that lined the baselines in both directions, spilled over in the deficiently-sized stands and even took up bleacher residence in automobiles on the shoulder of distant Waukegan Road.

Northbrook was making its initial appearance in the tourney and had its ace pitcher fresh on the sidelines — the result of a weird opening bye procedure that automatically goes to the host post.

Logan Square, meanwhile, had already endured a physically and mentally draining 3-2 triumph over Calumet City earlier in the day during a steady drizzle and raw north wind.

But the Lions, who have relied on pitching depth through a grueling 56-game regular-season schedule, enthusiastically answered the bell.

Southpaw-slinging Mike Cook got the nod since Ken Martin had contributed a nine-inning stint in the victory over Calumet. Mike, a workhorse for head coach Larry Nomeilini all year, had just finished shedding the hero's robe when his ninth-inning double broke up the Cal City tangle.

His mound opposition was rightly Rich Swanson — a summer baseball camp veteran and owner of a major-league fastball. He almost didn't last long enough to unveil his smoke that soon polluted the field.

Logan Square had Swanson on the ropes in the very first inning and were perhaps one pitch away from stamping out the fuse of the flamethrower's offerings.

Martin opened the contest with a five-pitch walk and found the umpire's flat palms at second when the Northbrook shortstop bobbled a force-out throw on Mike Garbus' sacrifice attempt.

With still nobody down, Logan Square managed to run itself right out of a potentially big scoring opportunity. While Swanson was claiming Jim Bucaro as his first strikeout victim, Martin was nailed on an attempted theft of third.

It cost the Lions a run and possibly two as Stan Bobowski followed with a double up the right-centerfield power alley, but Logan Square came up empty-handed again as Garbus, who tried to tally from first base on the drive, was a dead duck at the plate.

Faulty baserunning, a factor against Cal City as well, continued to shadow the gambling Lions. Cook coaxed a leadoff pass in the third, but after Tom Chapman forced his teammate on a sacrifice effort, Martin kept the frame alive by earning his second ball four.

The threat went up in smoke again as Garbus fanned for the second out and Martin was caught leaning by the Northbrook catcher to douse the rally.

On and on it went. Wasted opportunities to break the game open went for naught. In the fourth, Logan Square loaded the bases with one out and allowed Swanson to escape unscathed.

They left two men stranded in the fifth, were victims of another pickoff in the sixth and finally succumbed to their frustration as Swanson knocked down 10 in a raw down the stretch.

Cook seemed unnerved despite his team's failure to support his masterful pitching. The redhead was as brilliant as the surrounding light standards, and maybe more powerful.

He had Northbrook at his mercy over the first five innings in which he sent nine unbelievers back to the bench on strikes, walked only two and allowed only a pair the luxury of third base.

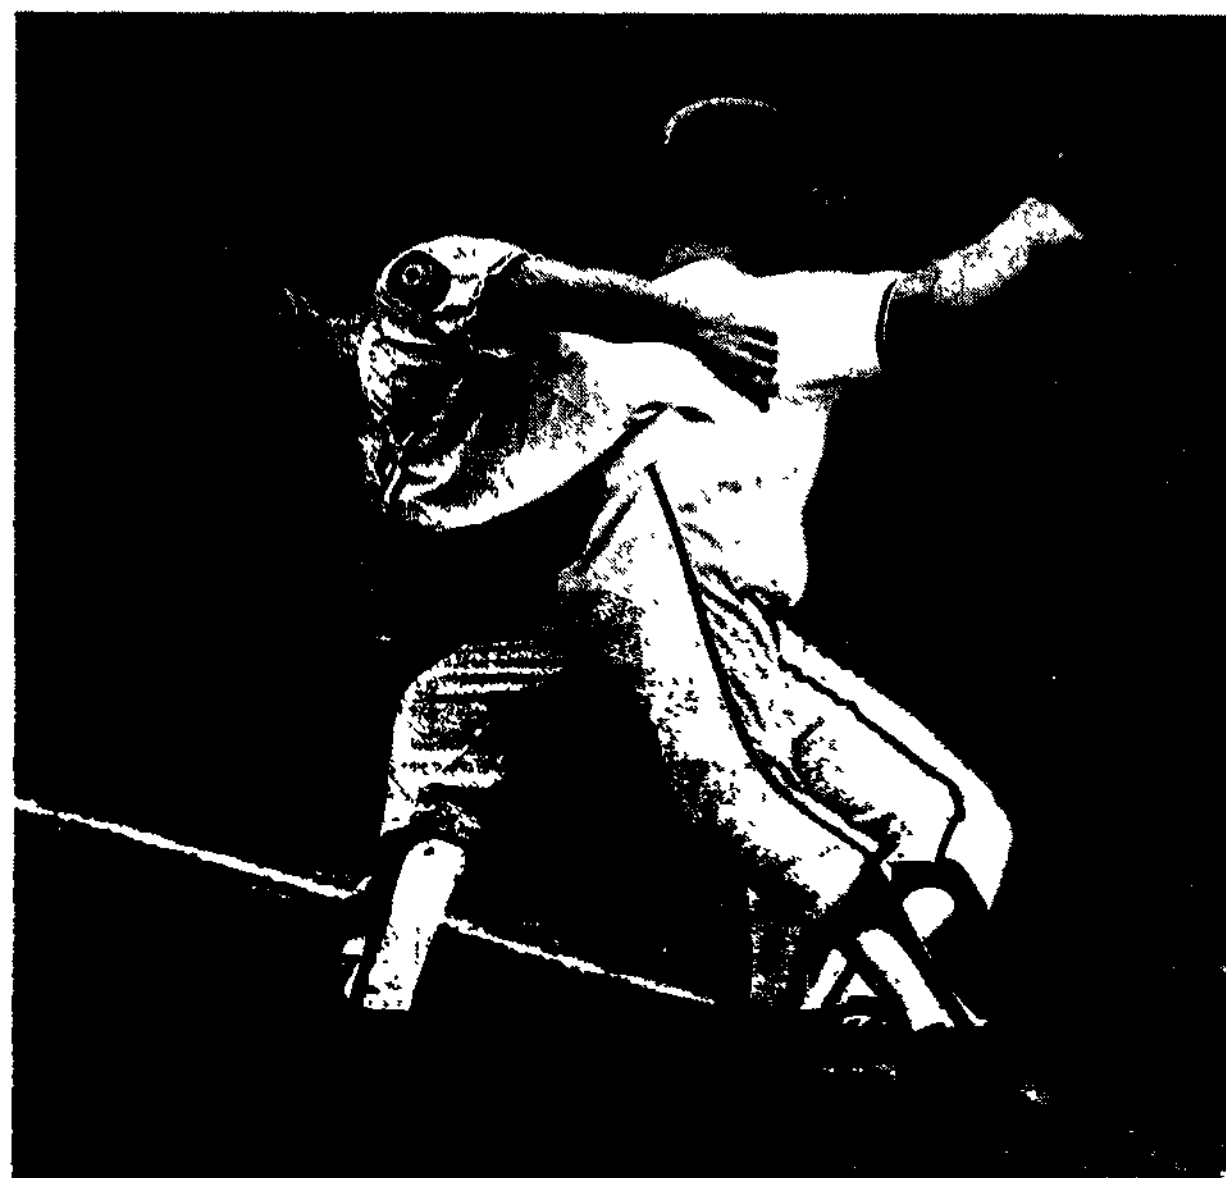

The victors finally touched Cook for their first hit in the sixth — an infield single of the scratch variety that deflected off the pitcher's glove and recorded their initial legitimate safety on a bounce off the middle in the seventh.

The ball game was still scoreless through seven and one-half frames and seemed destined for extra innings when Cook knocked down the first two in the eighth.

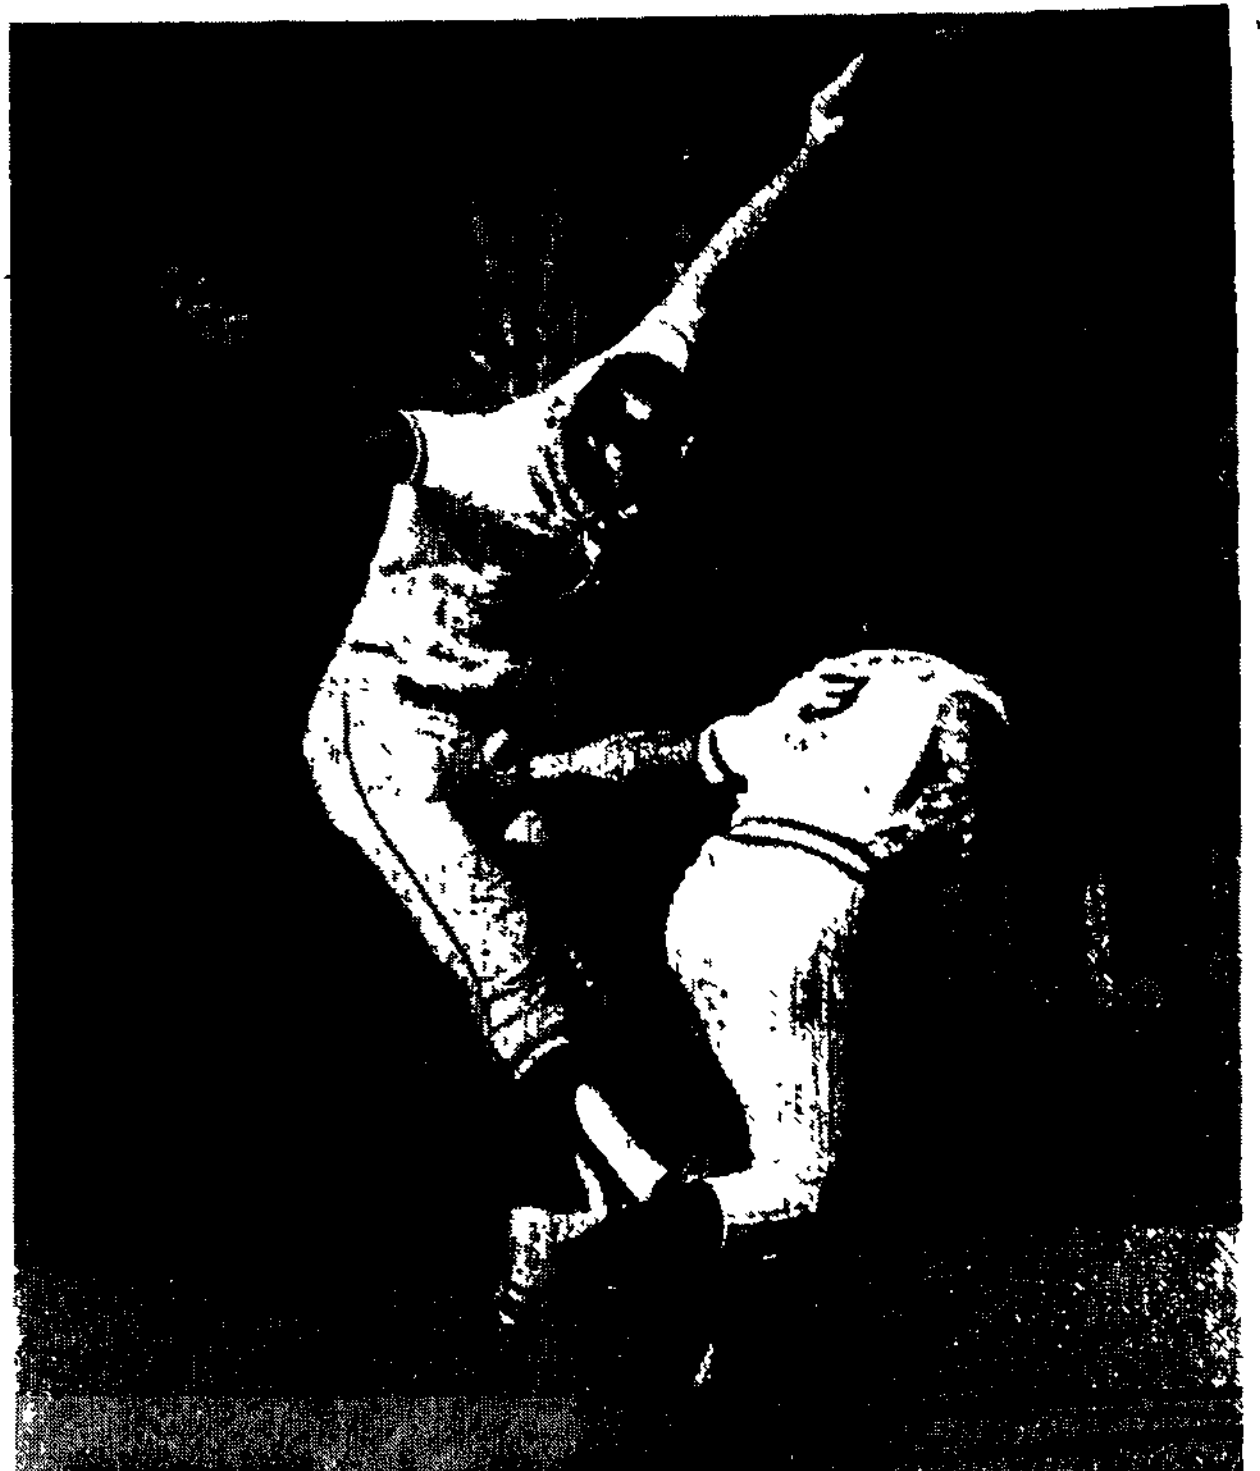

Back-to-back walks on three disputed pitches keyed Northbrook's two-out success. Don Kunde, one of only three hitters to avoid Cook's knockout brand, drove in the lone tally on a clean shot up the middle.

The Lions had the best of it statistically with four hits against Northbrook's three, five walks to the winner's four and one extra-base hit to their none.

Logan Square also stranded eight to Northbrook's four. Unfortunately the only category that the Lions didn't control was the scoring column.

BACK IN TIME. Calumet City's Kevin Marich hustles back to first base as Logan Square's Joe Bombicino takes pickoff throw from Ken Martin in Cook County American Legion tournament. Marich beat the throw, but Calumet City couldn't beat the Lions. Logan Square won in the ninth, 4-3. (Photo by Mike Seeling)

EVADING THE ISSUE. Logan Square's Steve Bobowski ti, but Steve was ruled out as were the Lions after a 4-3 leaps to avoid tag by Bellwood third baseman Rick Bet setback in the Cook County Tournament. (Photo by Dom Najolia)

IRON PRACTICE

TRY TO PRACTICE IRONS INTO THE WIND. A DOWNWIND BREEZE WILL NOSE THE BALL DOWN AND LITTLE OF THE TRUE CHARACTER OF THE SHOT WILL BE LEARNED.

ALSO, TRY TO HIT TO A LEVEL, SHORT-GRASSSED AREA IN ORDER TO SIMULATE COURSE CONDITIONS AND JUDGE HOW THE BALL WILL REACT IN ACTUAL PLAY.

Sobczynski Cops 2 Prizes

Palatine's Jim Sobczynski bagged a couple of big prizes Friday at Silver Lake Country Club.

Sobczynski fired an even par 72 (38-34) to capture both first place in the Junior Flight and also junior "golfer of the year" award in the Northern Illinois Men's Amateur Golf Association. The latter was achieved by amassing the most points over the NIMAGA summer tour. One tourney has yet to be played.

Palatine neighbor John Lomergan was the next highest finisher of the 18 locals in the 111-man field. Lomergan took ninth with a 78 (40-38).

Cal Zimmerman of Arlington Heights was the only other area player to crack the top 20 with 18th in a 79 (41-38).

Rounding out the top five were Dave Thornally of Wheaton (87-37-74).

Capturing first place in the Senior Flight was Tim Hutcherson of Riverside. He fired a very fine round 79 (37-38), five strokes ahead of the next closest competitor.

Of the 15 seniors from the area competing in the 96-man field, Mount Prospect's Dave Black and Arlington's Terry McDonald finished the best with a tie for 13th at 78.

Rounding out the locals who cracked the top 30 were Prospect Heights' Mario Vitale with a 79 for 18th and Mount Prospect's Vic Incinelli, Hoffman Estates' Chris Dilger and Mount Prospect's Tom Schoell tied for 20th with 80's.

Scott Tree & Landscaping Leads

Piepenbrink Movers, the league entry in the forthcoming Paddock Golf Tournament dropped to second by losing to the fast-moving L'Nor Cleaners led by Wayne Rolf's low gross round of 37. L'Nor Cleaners has moved from 10th to fifth place over the last two weeks.

Petke Insurance and Active Heating, with convincing wins over Village Pipe and Cigar Shop and Mount Prospect Heating and Air Conditioning respectively, remain in third and fourth. Kehe, Foy & Snelten Insurance after spending the season in the cellar, finally crawled out, moving all the way up to 11th.

Low set honors went to Bill Becker of Nebel Insurance with a 45-14-31.

As you can see, the Volkswagen Type 3 Basic Compact Sedan has two luggage trunks.

"OK, so where's the engine?" Simple. You'll find it underneath the floor of the rear trunk right over the drive wheels for better traction. But you won't find the radiator because the engine is air-cooled.

There's no carburetor, either.

Instead, there's a nifty electronic fuel injection system—unheard-of in a car that only costs $2400*. Or $1200* per trunk.

'Rudder Pedal Down...Stick Forward...And We SOAR!'

Glider's bubble top is snapped into place.

by KURT BAER

I was mentally prepared for the bumpy ride down the grassy runway. My head was full of anticipation and there was no room for anxiety.

I even half-anticipated the intermittent moments of unstable flight as the still ungainly glider was being towed aloft by the 134-horsepower 1945 Piper Cub.

But when I pulled the red release lever and heard the loud snap of the nylon tow-line as it whipped away from the glider's nose, my heart slid to my stomach and I began to sense something of what this crazy sport is all about.

The wood-frame glider seemed to hum as its broad canvas wings cut through the air guided by the veteran pilot seated behind me in the cockpit.

Through the plane's bubble top I could see the small puffy clouds that marked the rising warm air thermals we had to find to stay up.

"O.K., we're going to make a right-hand turn now," ordered pilot Jim Kendell. "Push the right rudder pedal down and put the stick forward and to the right."

I GLANCED down at the duplicate set of controls in the cockpit in front of me, put my right foot on the rudder pedal, grabbed hold of the stick and eased it forward. Nothing happened.

Suddenly the plane's nose seemed to drop sharply and the right wing dipped toward the ground.

"A little too much," Kendell said calmly as he pulled the control stick back to neutral. The glider leveled off.

In fact, the plane was sailing effortlessly over green farm fields and small ponds. I recalled from a conversation on the ground that his glider's forward air speed rarely topped 45 mph.

"We're thermaling right now. Look at the gauge, we're rising nearly 1,000 feet per minute," Kendell said.

The plane, still horizontal, was rising like a balloon, as if it were being lifted by strings pulled from somewhere up above.

Kendell was pleased. These were the choice moments of soaring.

"We're going into a spiral," he announced next as the right wing dipped 60 degrees and the glider began to move in tight clockwise circles.

IT WAS AS IF we were alighting slowly down an enormous invisible corkscrew. But the vertical speed gauge in front of me said the plane was climbing, not dropping.

"On a good day you could keep this up for 10 or 15 minutes," Kendell explained enthusiastically.

Our approach to the short airstrip was exhilarating.

"We're coming down kind of fast because we can always translate that speed into distance if we need it," my back-seat pilot said.

"If I'm good today, we'll touch down right on the forward edge of the runway."

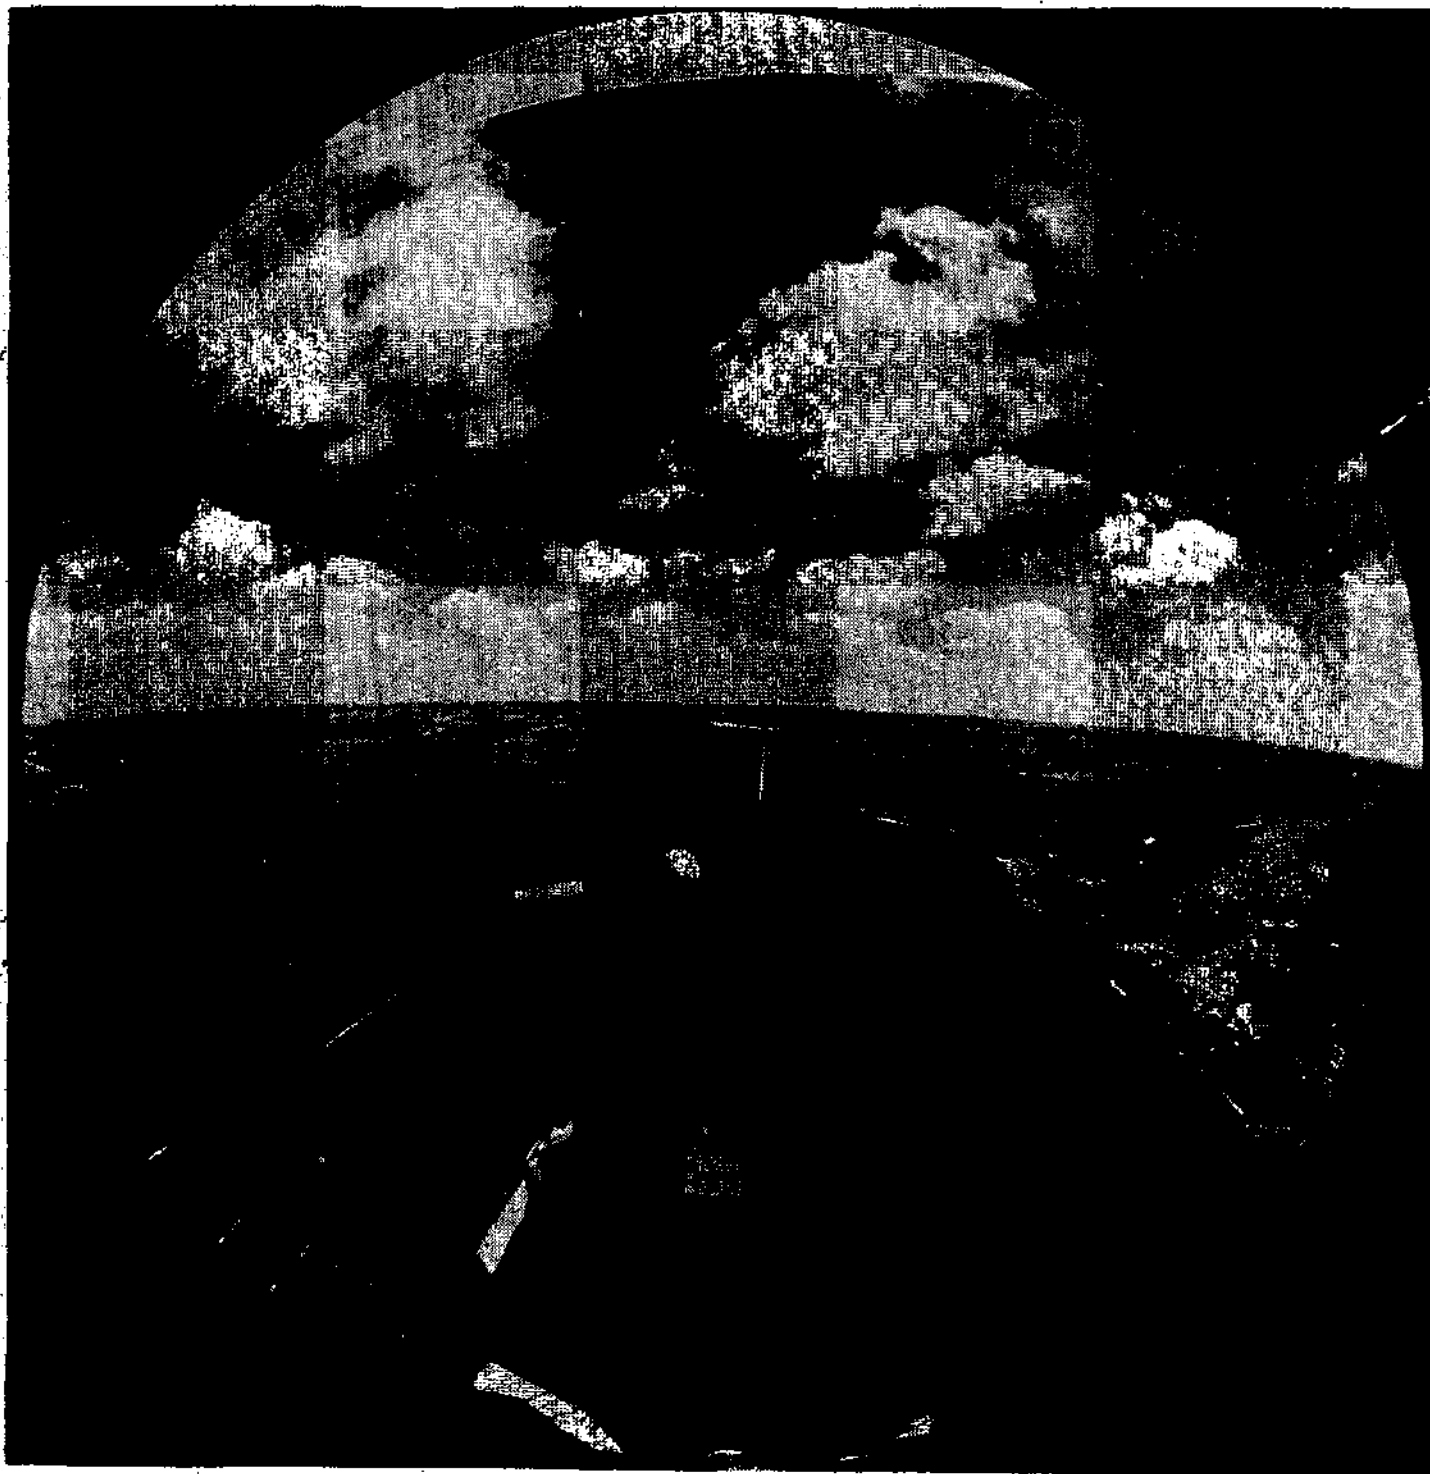

With a muffled thud the glider's belly settled down onto its one wheel. Seconds later we were stopped. The tip of the right wing was buried in tall grass.

The entire flight had taken less than 10 minutes, I learned later looking at the soaring club's log book. But that Sunday morning as I climbed out of the cockpit, you sure could have fooled me.

Ogilvie To Sign Upper Salt Creek Watershed Pact

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie will sign the Upper Salt Creek Watershed Agreement Sunday.

Members of the Salt Creek Watershed Steering Committee have been notified that the governor will sign the agreement at 2 p.m. in the Rolling Meadows Holiday Inn, on Algonquin Road, east of Rte. 53.

The agreement is for a multi-million dollar plan to stop flooding in the creek basin area.

After the governor has signed, local government agencies are expected to sign the agreement. With state and local approval, the agreement will then go to Washington, D.C., to get approval for federal funding.

If Congress approves the federal funding in its next session, the allocation will be made part of the fiscal 1974 budget. Construction could then begin in July, 1973.

DELAYS IN GETTING state approval prevented the bill from being placed in the current federal budget.

Federal funds of $12 million are being requested for the project. These funds will be matched with $6.4 million in local funds and $5.6 million in state funds.

Local governments expected to sign the agreement are: North Cook County Soil and Water Conservation District; Metropolitan Sanitary District; Cook County Board; Cook County Forest Preserve District; the municipalities of Elk Grove Village, Schaumburg, Rolling Meadows and Palatine; and the park districts of Palatine, Schaumburg, Elk Grove and Salt Creek.

Tom Hamilton, chairman of the steering committee, has said the plan would prevent flooding, create water recreation areas, give rainwater a chance to soak into the ground to restore the water table and give wildlife a source of water.

A SERIES OF dams will be built across the creek. One dam will form a 600-acre lake in the Ned Brown Forest Preserve.

Currently a trailer court is located in the middle of the forest preserve. The Cook County Forest Preserve District now has the responsibility of relocating the 200 trailers and 700 persons in the court.

According to Richard Duck, of the forest preserve district, the state and the district are now negotiating over the responsibility for moving the court.

Duck said, "as far as I know," the state would assume the responsibility.

GROUND-BREAKING CEREMONIES Sunday marked the start of construction of the $9 million expansion program of Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village. Looking at the bulldozer's first scoop of dirt

Community Service Will Assume Mental Health Care

Plans are being made for Elk Grove Village Community Service to assume responsibility for mental health services in Elk Grove and Schaumburg townships.

These townships, along with Palatine and Wheeling townships, are now served by the Northwest Mental Health Association (NMHA) in Arlington Heights.

Community Service recently received a $52,000 grant from the state mental health department to open a mental health center.

Jordan Rosen, director of Community Service, said no definite date had been set for the transfer but, "We are shooting for a Sept. 1, break-off time. We hope to assume total responsibility then."

Rosen said Community Service had already started receiving referrals from NMHA.

COMMUNITY SERVICE will remain associated with NMHA according to Rosen. He said the two organizations will probably run joint programs.

Lola Radtke, of NMHA said that patients now being treated at the NMHA center will continue treatment at the center.

Dr. Eugene Trager, director of NMHA said the transition was, "up to him (Rosen), we'll carry the ball until he is ready to assume control."

Dr. Trager said that NMHA will lose approximately 40 per cent of the population it had been serving.

The reduction will be a gain for Northwest said Dr. Trager. "We will be able to give more intensive service than in the past. The quantity may decrease, but the quality and variety will increase and improve."

DESPITE THE reduction in the number of people NMHA treats, its budget was increased by the state. Dr. Trager said the extra money will be used to expand programs.

Currently the agency is only operating therapy and treatment programs. Dr. Trager plans to start some community education programs. These may include such topics as the problems of the suburban housewife, raising teenagers, improving the quality of life and general community education on mental health and treatment.

"If the public sees these programs as worthy, we'll continue to offer worthwhile services," said Dr. Trager.

Dr. Trager said he plans no increase in the number of staff personnel. He said that the staff will be able to work more hours as the need for service rises.

Ground Broken For Hospital

Ogilvie Talks To Big Crowd

The expansion of Alexian Brothers Medical Center shows what can be done by charitable groups and private citizens to meet the health needs of the people of the state, Illinois Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie said Sunday at groundbreaking ceremonies for the $9 million addition to the hospital in Elk Grove Village.

Ogilvie told a crowd of more than 150 persons that the hospital's building program "refutes the idea that only government can meet the needs of the people."

The groundbreaking at the hospital site off Bristlefield Road marked the start of construction of a five-story ambulatory care center and a two-story community health building to be completed in late 1974.

The Northwest suburbs is one of the fastest growing areas in the state, and medical facilities like Alexian Brothers Hospital must grow to meet the increased demand for health care, the governor said.

Ogilvie praised the Alexian Brothers for "an unwavering commitment to serve others," and said the building program was a "milestone in the service of this splendid medical center."

He added that the state was attempting to come to grips with the skyrocketing cost of medical care in Springfield, but he did not elaborate on what actions the state was taking.

Before digging out the first shovel-full of dirt to officially mark the start of construction, John Cardinal Cody, archbishop of Chicago, said the expansion program was due to the dedication of the Alexian Brothers to administer to the sick.

The medical facility is one way the church is endeavoring to become a part of the community and serve all the people, no matter what race, creed or color, Cardinal Cody said. He added that Alexian Brothers Medical Center was one of 23 hospitals in the archdiocese of Chicago.

The existing hospital building, which opened in 1965, will be the core of the new medical center. The pavilion for community health and ambulatory care center, connected to the main building, will house an emergency care complex five times larger than current facilities and an outpatient department 17 times larger.

Besides more out-patient facilities, the additions will increase the number of hospital beds from the present 340 to a possible 420 beds.

Donations toward a building-fund campaign goal of $1.8 million have already passed the $1 million mark. The remaining $72 million will be financed through a bond and anticipated revenue.

Village Fire Protection Policy Hit

Elk Grove Township auditors have labeled a policy of Elk Grove Village which charges residents in nearby unincorporated suburbs $84 for fire protection "heartless" and "inhumane."

The Elk Grove Village Board of Trustees announced earlier this summer that beginning Nov. 1 the village would provide fire and ambulance services to homes in the Itasca Meadows, Martini and Forest View subdivisions only if the owners paid for the services.

If the fee was not paid, the village said the fire department would render emergency evacuation services to persons trapped in buildings, but once persons had been removed, no further fire-fighting services would be performed.

Township Auditor Richard Hall said the board was shocked that the Elk Grove Village Board would threaten to let any house that caught fire in an unincorporated area burn down if the homeowner had not paid the $84 fire and ambulance service charge.

HALL SAID the board of auditors will investigate what it can do to assist all homeowners in unincorporated Elk Grove Township get proper fire protection services at reasonable rates when needed.

Auditor Arthur Stevens Jr. said that the village's policy also could affect the finances of the township.

Any persons burned out would be given temporary emergency aid, if needed, by the township welfare service and the money allocated to this fund comes from taxes paid by all township property owners, Stevens said.

Another Bernard Lee said the policy appeared to be a "heartless method of pressure" to induce the unincorporated areas to annex to the village.

NOVEMBER will mark the first time homeowners in Martini subdivisions, north of Devon Avenue and east of Toune Road, and Itasca Meadows subdivision, south of Bristlefield Road, have been assessed for fire and ambulance services.

Forest View subdivision homeowners, south of Landmeier Road and north of Laurel Street was billed $84 for the protection this past year, and 100 of 121 homeowners paid.

Elk Grove Village Fire Chief Allen Hallett said the $84 charge was based on what the village spends for fire protection for a single-family home in a year.

"With the cost of manpower, we can no longer afford to give away fire protection," Hallett said. "It would be unfair to people paying for protection not to be able to get ambulance and fire services when needed because we were talking care of a homeowner who didn't pay."

Nimrod To Run

Niles Township Republican committeeman John Nimrod will be named as the Republican candidate for the Illinois Senate to replace retiring Sen. John W. (Bill) Carroll of Park Ridge. It was reported yesterday.

Nimrod was chosen by GOP committeemen from the 4th Legislative District over incumbent state representatives Eugene F. Schlickman of Arlington Heights and Robert S. Juchacz of Park Ridge. He was an unsuccessful candidate for the U.S. Congress in the 1968 primary election won by U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane.

Panamansians voted in record numbers for a new 505-man People's Assembly in the first election of its kind since the National Guard army seized power four years ago.

The War

North Vietnamese troops led by guerrilla guides slipped out of a heavy jungle in a supposedly safe area south of Hue to capture three South Vietnamese hamlets and take 500 residents prisoner. South Vietnamese troops were halted in an initial attempt to recapture one of the villages and re-enforcements were ordered in.

Oh, He Flies Through The Air With The Greatest...

Fifty years ago Jim Kendell would have been called one of those daring young men in their flying machines. Today he's one of thousands of enthusiasts promoting the exciting sport of sky soaring.

Kendell, who has lived in Arlington Heights for six years, was cited recently for soaring to an altitude of 35,000 feet over Pike's Peak in Colorado at a temperature approaching 55 degrees below zero.

The Diamond Altitude Award presented to him by the Soaring Society of America is one of the sport's most coveted trophies.

Besides the personal enjoyment he gets from powerless flight, Kendell is committed to training young people and is working currently with teen-aged Civil Air Patrol cadets at a soaring club near Crystal Lake.

THE SECRET TO altitude flying is riding thermals, warm currents of air that rise from the ground like air bubbles in a glass of soda pop.

The Rocky Mountains are ideal for high altitude flights because strong thermal updrafts occur there when warm breezes are forced rapidly upward by the mountain wall.

The altitude record for glider flight is 46,000 feet, Kendell said, well above the heights at which most jets travel.

"On those flights you put on several thermal flight suits, take along a radio which won't work because it freezes, oxygen, a parachute, a rabbit's foot and a rosary," he said.

In addition to his licenses for piloting and instructing in glider planes, Kendell holds licenses for just about everything, including single and multiengine airplanes, seaplanes and even balloons.

He is a member of the Soaring Society of America, the Illinois wing of the Civil Air Patrol, the Chicago Glider Council, Sky Soaring, Inc., the American Aerostadt Club and numerous other aviation organizations.

He also holds a reserve officer's commission in the U.S. Air Force.

KENDALL, 35, traces his interest in flying back to his boyhood days in Dayton, Ohio, where, he recalls proudly, he delivered newspapers to Orville Wright.

"My mother used to tell me that he was a very famous man and I saved a whole stack of receipts with his signature on them," he said.

Kendell soloed in a glider at age 13 and has been flying ever since. He was graduated from Bradley University and later did graduate work at Roosevelt University. He is employed by the Enjay Chemical Company in Des Plaines.

The gliders he loves and flies cost anywhere from $3,000 to $24,000. Most of today's models are made of fiberglass or aluminum, though earlier gliders were often made of wood and canvas.

Kendell is devoted to sky soaring and it is not surprising that his enthusiasm for the sport rubs off, not only on his students but on his 12-year-old daughter, Lora, as well.

"She'll get her glider license at 14," Kendell says confidently. And with her father for a teacher, she'll probably be a darn good pilot.

1,500 YOUTHS FROM Chicago's inner city were treated to a day at the circus Friday in Mount Prospect. The occasion was a special performance of the John Strong 1869 Tent Circus at Mount Prospect Plaza Shopping Center. Sponsors of the show were the Mount Prospect and Chicago Jaycee chapters. Circus performances continue today and tomorrow. Profits from the circus go to the Chicago and Mount Prospect Jaycees.

Cook Boundary Change Is Tabled

A proposed recommendation to shift the boundaries of Cook School in Elk Grove Village was tabled, pending further study, by the committee on attendance boundaries at its meeting Friday.

The committee is a group specially charged by the Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 School Board to recommend school boundaries for the five-year span of 1972-1977.

Recommendations by the committee must be submitted to the school board for action. The committee already has moved to recommend changes in the boundaries of Robert Frost School in Mount Prospect.

Prior to submitting any recommendations to the school board, the committee plans to hold public meetings in September on proposed changes. Recommendations are tentatively planned to be made to the school board in early October.

The committee is considering the present student population of Dist. 59 as its base population. Using U.S. census data, the board anticipates that this base population will drop by seven per cent overall in the kindergarten through eighth grade student population, with most of the reduction being a nine per cent drop in number of students in kindergarten and the first five grades.

To this reduced base population, the committee is adding the expected number of students in future housing developments to get a total student population for 1977.

New construction is expected to over-populate some schools while other Dist. 59 schools will have empty classrooms. The committee is attempting to recommend new boundaries that will provide maximum classroom utilization with a minimum number of students required to be transferred from their present schools.

The next meeting of the committee is scheduled for 7:30 p.m., Aug. 15, in the administration building, 2123 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights.

Organizations Work Toward Establishment Of X-Ray Unit

The Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce together with the village health department is working toward the establishment of a permanent chest X-ray facility in Arlington Heights.

Efforts to locate an X-ray facility here come in the wake of a May announcement by the Suburban Cook County Tuberculosis Sanitarium District that all mobile X-ray vans would be pulled off the streets Sept. 2.

The mobile X-ray unit is regularly parked in front of the Ben Franklin store, 9 W. Campbell St., on the first and third Tuesday of the month between 12 noon and 6 p.m.

If the village board concurs, the X-ray van would be installed in the Municipal Building parking lot and be open to the public at least one day a week.

Chamber of commerce executive director Earl Johnson said the installation, if approved, would be of tremendous benefit to area restaurant operators because law requires that all professional food handlers receive a chest X-ray twice a year.

WITHOUT AN X-ray installation here, area residents would have to travel to 1900 Dempster St. in Park Ridge for a chest X-ray after the mobile units are discontinued next month.

Besides the inconvenience, Johnson said the trip to Park Ridge would mean a significant loss of man-hours to employers who would have to send their employees to the Dempster Street location.

If the village board approves the idea, the Arlington Heights X-ray office would be available to Northwest suburban residents in October.

Johnson said the unit would likely serve residents from as far north as Barrington and as far west as Schaumburg.

According to the field director of the Suburban Cook County Tuberculosis Sanitarium District, Dr. Edward A. Duszczek, the mobile units are being phased out because of a recently issued federal report which criticized radiation levels in and around mobile X-ray units.

DR. DISZCZEK has said that while he does not think that the federal report, prepared by the American College of Radiology and the National Tuberculosis Association, totally applies to mobile units in suburban Cook County, the roving units will be phased out.

Dr. Duszczek said yesterday that besides persons who may be afflicted with a chronic cough or cold, the X-ray installation would serve hundreds of people employed as barbers, food handlers, hospital and nursing home employees and other licensed professionals who are required to get a chest X-ray.

"The population area around Arlington Heights is growing intensely and the chest X-ray is still a good case finding technique," he said.

Last year there were 223 reported cases of tuberculosis in suburban Cook County out of a population of 2.2 million.

In addition to detecting tuberculosis, chest X-rays are useful in detecting other diseases or chest abnormalities such as cancer, emphysema and enlarged heart, Dr. Duszczek said.

Who Needs Service Region?

"Who needs them?" is the attitude Schaumburg Township School Dist. 54 board members have taken about service provided by the Cook County Educational Service Region and Richard Martwick, region superintendent. "I am hurt by the district's attitude but willing to talk to them about my services. But the meeting must be in my office," said Martwick on Friday.

"After all Dist. 54 started all this talk about forming their own service region so I think they owe me the courtesy of coming to my place," said Martwick.

The District 54 board wants to talk too, but on their home ground.

Dist. 54 board member Donnie Rudd, who heads the legislative committee, won support last month for a resolution proposing the establishment of more than one education service region in Cook County.

SINCE THEN Rudd said neighboring districts have indicated they will support such a resolution.

"The publicity is bothering Martwick. He doesn't like us saying we can do without him. If he wants to shut us up he should be willing to meet with us anywhere," said Rudd.

Thursday the Dist. 54 Board of Education members set a 7 p.m. Aug. 11 meeting between Martwick and themselves in the Helen Keller High School, 820 W. Bode Rd., Schaumburg.

Martwick said Friday "the time and date are fine with me but the meeting must be at 33 W. Grand Ave., (Chicago) my office. I've invited all the board members here personally on the phone and they agreed," said Martwick. "At that time I will be glad to substantiate all the great services our region supplies and would be glad to continue giving Dist. 54," said Martwick.

"IF HE CAN'T make our meeting Friday here on our own home ground, we can take the issue to the State School Board convention in November," said Rudd. "And if he's that busy we ought to elect some one who can take time to come out here."

Rudd stressed that his reason for calling for formation of a separate service region is educationally sound and not politically motivated as Martwick believes. Rudd has said Dist. 54 is large enough to provide all the benefits Martwick says the service region now offers.

The service region offers the following programs. Use of electronic data processing and mass purchasing both provided to District 54 through its membership in the Northwest Education Cooperative not the region, said Rudd. Special education services are provided through the district's membership in the North Suburban Special Education Organization. Development of its curriculum is done by the District 54's own director, Rudd added.

"All the things the service regions say they do for us we have done for ourselves," said Rudd. "If Martwick wants to convince us otherwise we'll be glad to listen but here, in our home territory."

Dave Phillips Replaces Arndt

Parks Recreation Director Named New Superintendent

To his own surprise, Dave Phillips was appointed superintendent of the Wheeling Park District at the park board meeting Thursday night.

Currently serving as the district's recreation director, Phillips had not applied for the position. In fact, when he was first asked to consider the position, he declined because he had only recently been appointed recreation director.

Members of the park board said they asked Phillips to reconsider his decision at the Thursday night meeting because they were happy with the work he had done for the district. Phillips said he was both pleased and surprised by the board's decision.

Phillips will replace Ferdinand Arndt, the park district's first full-time superintendent, who resigned because of health reasons. Arndt suffered a heart attack last year and asked to be relieved of his duties when his contract expired earlier this year. He will continue to serve as superintendent until Phillips' appointment becomes official Sept. 1.

The park board had been actively seeking a replacement ever since Arndt announced his resignation. Approximately 15 people had applied for the job.

PHILLIPS, who was appointed recreation director in January, came to Wheeling after serving as a center director with the Arlington Heights Park District for more than a year. Since coming to Wheeling, Phillips has initiated several new park programs and has made an effort to personally contact Wheeling residents about what programs they would like.

The new superintendent will continue his duties as recreation director temporarily. Phillips said that after the first few months, the park board will evaluate his performance and decide if more personnel are needed. In his new position, Phillips will receive an annual salary of $15,000, plus car allowance.

Phillips, 23, is a resident of Arlington Heights. He has a bachelor's degree in municipal recreation from the University of Iowa. Before coming to the Northwest suburbs, he spent a summer doing field work at a psychopathic hospital and an elementary school at the University of Iowa.

FUELING UP for another inning, John Urban, 6, pauses baseball field, and John, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Urban, 251 Mohawk Tr., Buffalo Grove, seems content for a little refreshment during a hot summer day's baseball clinic. There isn't much shade to offer comfort on a with the cool liquid.

Wanted: A Permanent X-Ray Facility

The Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce together with the village health department is working toward the establishment of a permanent chest X-ray facility in Arlington Heights.

WITHOUT AN X-ray installation here, area residents would have to travel to 1909 Dempster St. in Park Ridge for a chest X-ray after the mobile units are discontinued next month.

Besides the inconvenience, Johnson said the trip to Park Ridge would mean a significant loss of man-hours to employers who would have to send their employees to the Dempster Street location.

If the village board approves the idea, the Arlington Heights X-ray office would be available to Northwest suburban residents in October.

Johnson said the unit would likely serve residents from as far north as Barrington and as far west as Schaumburg.

According to the field director of the Suburban Cook County Tuberculosis Sanitarium District, Dr. Edward A. Diszczek, the mobile units are being phased out because of a recently issued federal report which criticized radiation levels in and around mobile X-ray units.

DR. DISZCZEK has said that while he does not think that the federal report, prepared by the American College of Radiology and the National Tuberculosis Association, totally applies to mobile units in suburban Cook County, the roving units will be phased out.

Sidewalk, Street Bids To Be Opened

The Wheeling Village Board will open bids tonight for sidewalk replacement and street maintenance projects scheduled for this summer.

The board expects to receive five bids for each project. The repair and maintenance programs are being financed with state Motor Fuel Tax funds. The state approved $63,536 for the projects last month.

It is estimated that 23,000 square feet of sidewalk will be removed and replaced. The street maintenance program includes the patching and sealcoating of five street areas.

THE BOARD also will hear testimony from a representative of a cable television company, reviving a discussion that began nearly two years ago. Several other firms seeking a cable television franchise in Wheeling already have addressed the trustees.

Trustee Michael Valenza said the board will merely be pursuing the issue "to see what we can do to bring cable TV to the village." He said new laws have been passed on the regulation of cable TV and he expected these to be considered in tonight's discussion.

Several recommendations from the zoning board will be considered at the meeting, and the board will discuss changing zoning at the northeast corner of McHenry and Elmhurst roads from PD-4 to B-4. Present zoning would allow multi-family housing, and a B-4 classification zoning would allow small businesses.

The board will consider the payment of several village bills, including one for the installation of crossing gates and flashing lights at the Soo Line railroad tracks on Dundee Road.

Student Teachers In Need Of Temporary Housing Here

Twenty-nine sophomores from Northern Illinois University will begin a student teacher program in Elementary School Dist. 21 this year — but 17 of them need temporary housing.

The students will begin the nine-week program at the start of the 1972-73 school year. They will observe teaching techniques and classroom management at Nathaniel Hawthorne and Henry Wadsworth Longfellow schools.

The 17 students who need temporary housing will pay either a room fee or a room and board fee for their time of residence. Interested residents, particularly those near Hawthorne and Longfellow schools, should contact Robert Gerry at the Dist. 21 administrative center, 909 W. Dundee Rd. The phone number is 337-8270.

Gerry said the room arrangements must be made as soon as possible. He added that parents with children away at college might find it more convenient to rent a room for the nine-week period.

Dist. 21 teachers will benefit further from the program because Northern Illinois University instructors who will be at the schools to observe and evaluate the student teachers will also offer graduate courses. The courses will be optional for the professional staff of the district.

Hot Line Tag Day Aug. 25

If you are out driving or shopping on Friday, Aug. 25 in Wheeling or Buffalo Grove, you may see a Youth Services Bureau volunteer collecting contributions for Hot Line tag day.

The Hot Line is a service offered by Omni-House and the youth services bureau so adolescents with problems can call and receive advice or a referral to someone who can help. This is the second year the Hot Line has been in operation.

The money being collected will be used to pay phone bills and part of the rent for Omni-House, the Hot Line headquarters.

Last year a few volunteers collected

$1,200, and the volunteers hope to double that amount this year. They will be out with collection cans from 6 a.m. to 8 p.m.

The Hot Line phone number is 541-HELP. A volunteer answers the phone and offers immediate assistance whenever possible. Volunteers are given approximately 18 hours of training in interpersonal relations, handling crisis, and offering references agencies that deal with specific problems.

Hot Line volunteers are needed for working four-hour shifts. Anyone interested may call Mike Meyer at 337-4330, or Mrs. Bobbie Rodriguez at 296-1444 after 5:30 p.m.

At A Glance

Last Week.....

PRESCHOOL CHILDREN ages three and four will be screened in Dist. 21 this year to find any handicapped individuals, and to determine the extent of the handicap.

COMMITTEE MEMBERS of the Buffalo Grove Days for 1972 announced the theme this year will be the Gay 90s. The four-day celebration will begin Sept. 1.

THE WHEELING Plan Commission valued the preliminary plat for a subdivision of village owned land so the land can be traded for a similar plot needed for the realignment of Wheeling Road.

BUFFALO GROVE Village Engineer Arnold Seaberg told the board of trustees that improvements will have to be made on the village water system within the next year to keep water supplies in line with village growth. The recommendations include expansion of a reservoir, deepening of a well and extension of water mains.

JOHN J. FLOOD, president of the Combined Counties Police Association, attacked the recent suspension of Wheeling police Sgt. Gene Wolf as an "unconstitutional act." Wolf was suspended for three days because he sought to speak to the village board directly, without following a chain of command in the police department.

HARRY WALSH, formerly a lieutenant with the Elk Grove Village Police Department, was named chief of the Buffalo Grove Police Department. He will begin duties in Buffalo Grove Aug. 15, replacing Harold Smith.

A COLD SPRING combined with an unusually wet summer has been given as the cause for high mosquito infestation in the suburbs. Wheeling Township is probably the fourth or fifth most affected area in the suburbs, according to a representative of the Northwest Mosquito Abatement District.

TWO PERMIT applications for the Arlington Heights landfill west of Buffalo Grove have been turned down by the State Environmental Protection Agency in the past few months. The EPA originally listed 19 problems with the landfill, including seepage and blowing paper.

Food Program For Poor In Trouble

Operation Nutrition, which serves 300 families in the Northwest suburbs, may be discontinued Aug. 31 unless funds for the program are released.

Operation Nutrition is a supplemental food program aimed at meeting the nutritional needs of the poor in suburban Cook County.

Funds for the program, which is administered locally by the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows, are received by the Cook County Office of Economic Opportunity. COOEO receives its funding for the program from the regional OEO office.

Congress has appropriated $30 million to provide Emergency Food and Medical Service Assistance but the regional OEO office has not released any funds, creating the threat of suspension or discontinuation of the supplemental food program in Cook County.

THOMAS S. FULLER, president of the COOEO, was in Washington meeting with Sen. Adlai Stevenson and Sen. Charles Percy asking their help in getting funds immediately committed for continuation of the supplemental food program.

Without regional OEO funds there is no way the program can be continued past Aug. 31, said Miss Karen Stanley, director of the Northwest Opportunity Center. Donated truck services are currently being used to pick up the supplemental food from a central warehouse in Chicago.

"This program is for the poorest of the poor and it's limited to families with children under six," said Miss Stanley.

"This is the population most subject to malnutrition."

EVEN WITH food stamps there is no guarantee people will buy good nutritional food, said Miss Stanley.

Discontinuation of the program, which has been in operation for two years, will also mean a loss of a staff member at the Northwest Opportunity Center. The staff person administers the program and helps at the center by making referral to other agencies and making some home visits.

Long-range plans were to phase out Operation Nutrition and replace it with food buying clubs and cooperatives, said Miss Stanley. These plans will also have to be suspended unless there is funding to pay for a staff member to administer a food club or cooperative.

2 Area Boys Stabbed At Wyo. Camp

Two area teenagers were attacked and stabbed seriously late last week while on a camping trip in a remote region of Wyoming.

The boys were attacked by a man reportedly wanted by California police in connection with the stabbing murder of a 14-year-old California girl.

Daniel Kotel, 19, Mount Prospect, and Russell Hughes, 17, Palatine, were attacked at their campsite 35 miles east of Worland, Wyo. Thursday night. Kotel was stabbed twice in the abdomen and Hughes suffered 7 stab wounds to the chest and stomach areas.

Both boys were reported improving in a Wyoming hospital yesterday.

Sheriff's police arrested 28-year-old Weldon Mead Kennedy Friday after a high speed auto chase, ending a three-hour ground search for the alleged assailant. Kennedy reportedly wrecked his car in the chase and fled on foot before police made the arrest Friday.

ACCORDING TO police, Kennedy is wanted for the alleged murder of a 14-year-old girl in Union City, Calif. Police are holding Kennedy in Worland, Wyo. until formal charges and extradition proceedings are completed.

Daniel Kotel was in surgery at Washakie County Hospital Friday.

Russell Hughes's father, Raymond, contacted yesterday at his son's bedside in Washakie County Hospital, said the boys were backpacking in the Wyoming hills. It was the first day of a planned two-week trip, he said.

"At first the boys were in rather serious condition," he added. "Now it looks like they are rapidly improving and we hope to bring them home soon."

Parents of the boys arrived in Wyoming Friday.

After the stabbing, the boys apparently contacted persons at a nearby fish hatchery and were given aid and later hospitalized.

Oh, He Flies Through The Air With The Greatest...

Fifty years ago Jim Kendell would have been called one of those daring young men in their flying machines. Today he's one of thousands of enthusiasts promoting the exciting sport of sky soaring.

Kendell, who has lived in Arlington Heights for six years, was cited recently for soaring to an altitude of 35,000 feet over Pike's Peak in Colorado at a temperature approaching 55 degrees below zero.

The Diamond Altitude Award presented to him by the Soaring Society of America is one of the sport's most coveted trophies.

Besides the personal enjoyment he gets from powerless flight, Kendell is committed to training young people and is working currently with teen-aged Civil Air Patrol cadets at a soaring club near Crystal Lake.

THE SECRET TO altitude flying is riding thermals, warm currents of air that rise from the ground like air bubbles in a glass of soda pop.

The Rocky Mountains are ideal for high altitude flights because strong thermal updrafts occur there when warm breezes are forced rapidly upward by the mountain wall.

The altitude record for glider flight is 46,000 feet, Kendell said, well above the heights at which most jets travel.

"On those flights you put on several thermal flight suits, take along a radio which won't work because it freezes, oxygen, a parachute, a rabbit's foot and a rosary," he said.

In addition to his licenses for piloting and instructing in glider planes, Kendell holds licenses for just about everything, including single and multiengine air-planes, seaplanes and even balloons.

He is a member of the Soaring Society of America, the Illinois wing of the Civil Air Patrol, the Chicago Glider Council, Sky Soaring, Inc., the American Aerostad Club and numerous other aviation organizations.

He also holds a reserve officer's commission in the U.S. Air Force.

KENDALL, 35, traces his interest in flying back to his boyhood days in Dayton, Ohio, where, he recalls proudly, he delivered newspapers to Orville Wright.

"My mother used to tell me that he was a very famous man and I saved a whole stack of receipts with his signature on them," he said.

Kendell soloed in a glider at age 13 and has been flying ever since. He was graduated from Bradley University and later did graduate work at Roosevelt University. He is employed by the Enjay Chemical Company in Des Plaines.

The gliders he loves and flies cost anywhere from $3,000 to $24,000. Most of today's models are made of fiberglass or aluminum, though earlier gliders were often made of wood and canvas.

Kendell is devoted to sky soaring and it is not surprising that his enthusiasm for the sport rubs off, not only on his students but on his 12-year-old daughter, Laura, as well.

"She'll get her glider license at 14," Kendell says confidently. And with her father for a teacher, she'll probably be a darn good pilot.

WIDENING ON WELLOW Road by the Cook County Highway Department is under way just between Wheeling and Elmhurst roads, including widened and paved. Paving is expected to begin east of the Hillcrest Slough. The half-mile stretch between Wheeling and Elmhurst roads, including widened and paved. Paving is expected to begin within two weeks.

Area Woman Among Slain

A casual weekend evening visit at her parent's plush country home in Barrington Hills meant a violent death for 22-year-old Barbara Board, a recent resident of the Northwest suburbs and one of the victims in Friday's mass slaying at the home of Paul Corbett.

Miss Board recently moved to an apartment in Hoffman Estates, according to police reports. Sheriff's police detectives were at her apartment at 600 Jones Rd. near Hoffman Estates yesterday seeking clues in the still mysterious death of Miss Board and three members of her family.

Gunned down beside her were her mother Marian Corbett, 57, stepfather Paul M. Corbett, 67, and Barbara Board's aunt, Mrs. Dorothy Derry, 60, also visiting the Corbett home.

Sheriff's police said Miss Board had moved from the family estate several weeks ago to her apartment. Barrington Hills police confirmed that she did not live at the family home in the exclusive village.

Miss Board was found dead by her brother Anthony Board, who was returned in a borrowed car to the house. Mrs. Derry also was pronounced dead at the scene. Mr. and Mrs. Corbett died in Sherman Hospital in Elgin.

There was only speculation last night as to the cause of the mass murders. A few expensive household items were reported taken. Corbett's wallet was empty.

The upper bedrooms of the two-story brick home were ransacked.

The Corbetts reportedly had an elaborate burglar alarm system tied into the Barrington Hills Police Department but the system was not activated.

Park, School Boards Meeting Rescheduled

A meeting between Prospect Heights Park District officials and District 23 School Board members to discuss plans for a new park-school agreement was postponed from last week to this Wednesday night.

Park officials will listen to the school board present its plans for a new pact at the meeting.

A New Bobby Fischer In Our Midst?

A novel interest in chess created by Brooklyn's Bobby Fischer has moved at least one suburban library into a stalemate.

Of the 166 books devoted to the game, none rest on the Palatine Library shelves.

"I was looking for one the other day, but they were all checked out," said a reference room librarian. "There has been a new interest since the Boris Spassky-Fischer games" (the world chess championship now being held in Reykjavik, Iceland).

The Rolling Meadows Park District hopes to capitalize on the interest in the game. Officials plan a fall recreation program devoted to chess and are organizing a city chess club.

"AS LONG AS we get this thing going while Fischer and Spassky are playing we'll be all right," said Rudy Nelson, park district recreation director. "Once people get into it, I'm sure they will continue. . . it just took something like this tournament to build it up."

Soon after the world championship began several weeks ago, calls started coming into the park district office asking about the possibility of a chess program, Nelson said. Businessmen in Arlington Heights, which stock chess sets, however, report buying has not increased measurably. Bill Jensen of Mueller's Stationery in the village is sold out, but says he usually is this time of year.

"Maybe it takes too much time to think. . . not like playing checkers," he said.

ANOTHER MERCHANT in downtown Arlington Heights said, "Fischer hasn't done a thing for us. Kids don't buy the game because of expense. Good sets are $20 and that's too much for them. The small ones are toys."

Walt Schreiber, of the Village Pipe and Tobacco Shop, notes there always has been "a lot of interest in chess in the suburbs." He added that persons are purchasing the more expensive wood-carved and onyx chess sets as household ornaments. "They like the idea of setting them up on coffee tables," he said.

Approve Payment Of Tax Warrants

The Wheeling Park District Board authorized payment of a $51,093.75 tax anticipation warrant at its meeting Thursday night.

It will be the final payment of a $100,000 loan granted by the Wheeling Trust and Savings Bank in anticipation of taxes to be collected.

In other action, the board voted to send commission authorization cards to 42 Wheeling policemen and officials, enabling them to act as policemen on park district property. The authorization is part of a move to crack down on mini-bike riders on park property.

At present, Wheeling policemen do not have any authority on park property because the park district is a taxing body with the ability to raise its own police force.

The board also discussed several upcoming projects scheduled for the fall and winter. Recreation Director Dave Phillips is in the process of organizing programs for these seasons.

Retention Basin Also On Agenda

Board Expected To Annex Otis Development Tonight

The Buffalo Grove Village Board is scheduled to put annexation machinery into third gear tonight and officially add the 120-acre Otis development to the village.

Jim Otis of Otis Associates, Northbrook, first presented his plans for the luxury multiple-family development to the trustees early in June.

Long Grove threw a wrench into the works three weeks ago when that village claimed the right to review the final annexation agreement, based on a contract with the Lake County Public Works Department. Long Grove officials also wanted to annex a strip of land into their village to separate the Otis development from their community.

Buffalo Grove and Long Grove have both agreed to the final draft of the annexation agreement and the "buffer strip" has been annexed into Long Grove.

ALL THAT remains tonight is for the trustees to pass ordinances annexing the property and zoning it for multiple-family dwellings.

Also on the agenda of tonight's meeting is a review of price quotations for the construction of a retention basin at Elmwood Drive and for the realignment of Buffalo Creek at the White Pine Ditch. The village also plans to construct a drainage swale along the Happ farm on Dundee Road to correct flooding problems in that area.

Alan Caskey of ARC Consultants, Winnetka, is scheduled to discuss the Buffalo Grove Golf Course feasibility study recently conducted by his company.

The village currently is considering purchasing the property with the intention of maintaining the golf course and developing part of it as a public park.

The board is also scheduled to consider a request submitted by Arthur Swanson & Associates for the annexation and rezoning of 40 acres of land at the southeast corner of Arlington Heights and Checker roads.

The Swanson company plans to develop the land jointly with the Donald J. Scholtz Co. of Sylva, Ohio. The two firms are asking that the land be zoned for multiple-family dwellings and commercial use.

The proposed extension of Twisted Oak

Lane to Arlington Heights Road is again slated for discussion by the board.

LAST WEEK, the trustees voted to accept an easement for the construction of a walkway between two lots on Twisted Oak Lane from Levitt & Sons, Inc.

The board stressed at that time that they were taking the easement merely as "insurance" to make certain that children living in the area will have an access route to the proposed school on Penny Lane. The trustees indicated they may still decide to buy one of the undeveloped lots at the west end of Twisted Oak Lane and extend that road to Arlington Heights Road.

Also on the agenda for the board's approval are the ordinance levy for 1972 and two resolutions asking for approval from the Illinois Division of Highways to spend a $15,000 motor and fuel tax allotment for storm system improvements along Dundee Road.

The village proposes to construct a storm sewer along Dundee Road to carry the discharge to a 50-acre-foot detention basin to be constructed on the Arlington Golf Club course. The Metropolitan Sanitary District will finance and build the $150,000 basin.

Wanted: A Permanent X-Ray Facility

The Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce together with the village health department is working toward the establishment of a permanent chest X-ray facility in Arlington Heights.

Efforts to locate an X-ray facility here come in the wake of a May announcement by the Suburban Cook County Tuberculosis Sanitarium District that all mobile X-ray vans would be pulled off the streets Sept. 2.

The mobile X-ray unit is regularly parked in front of the Ben Franklin store, 9 W. Campbell St., on the first and third Tuesday of the month between 12 noon and 8 p.m.

If the village board concurs, the X-ray van would be installed in the Municipal Building parking lot and be open to the public at least one day a week.

Chamber of commerce executive director Earl Johnson said the installation, if approved, would be of tremendous benefit to area restaurant operators because law requires that all professional food handlers receive a chest X-ray twice a year.

WITHOUT AN X-ray installation here, area residents would have to travel to 1909 Dempster St. in Park Ridge for a chest X-ray after the mobile units are discontinued next month.

Besides the inconvenience, Johnson said the trip to Park Ridge would mean a significant loss of man-hours to employers who would have to send their employees to the Dempster Street location.

If the village board approves the idea, the Arlington Heights X-ray office would be available to Northwest suburban residents in October.

Johnson said the unit would likely serve residents from as far north as Barrington and as far west as Schaumburg.

According to the field director of the Suburban Cook County Tuberculosis Sanitarium District, Dr. Edward A. Diszczek, the mobile units are being phased out because of a recently issued federal report which criticized radiation levels in and around mobile X-ray units.

DR. DISZCZEK has said that while he does not think that the federal report, prepared by the American College of Radiology and the National Tuberculosis Association, totally applies to mobile units in suburban Cook County, the roving units will be phased out.

Dr. Diszczek said yesterday that besides persons who may be afflicted with a chronic cough or cold, the X-ray installation would serve hundreds of people employed as barbers, food handlers, hospital and nursing home employees and other licensed professionals who are required to get a chest X-ray.

"The population area around Arlington Heights is growing intensely and the chest X-ray is still a good case finding technique," he said.

Last year there were 223 reported cases of tuberculosis in suburban Cook County out of a population of 2.3 million.

In addition to detecting tuberculosis, chest X-rays are useful in detecting other diseases or chest abnormalities such as cancer, emphysema and enlarged heart, Dr. Diszczek said.

Student Teachers In Need Of Temporary Housing Here

Twenty-nine sophomores from Northern Illinois University will begin a student teacher program in Elementary School Dist. 21 this year — but 17 of them need temporary housing.

The students will begin the nine-week program at the start of the 1972-73 school year. They will observe teaching techniques and classroom management at Nathaniel Hawthorne and Henry Wadsworth Longfellow schools.

The 17 students who need temporary housing will pay either a room fee or a room and board fee for their time of residence. Interested residents, particularly those near Hawthorne and Longfellow schools, should contact Robert Gerry at the Dist. 21 administrative center, 909 W. Dundee Rd. The phone number is 537-8270.

Gerry said the room arrangements must be made as soon as possible. He added that parents with children away at college might find it more convenient to rent a room for the nine-week period.

Dist. 21 teachers will benefit further from the program because Northern Illinois University instructors who will be at the schools to observe and evaluate the student teachers will also offer graduate courses. The courses will be optional for the professional staff of the district.

Landfill Expansion No Easy Task

There is no easy way to expand the Arlington Heights landfill, but if it is done at all, land to the west of the current site will probably be used, according to a preliminary Arlington Heights village survey of land adjacent to the landfill.

"The land to the east is least acceptable because of the high cost and the nearness to Buffalo Grove residences," said G. Frank Charlton, village health director. "Also Kemmick Avenue will be extended to Nicholas Road, thereby separating the addition from the parent landfill."

Cost of the land and its availability are questions not answered by the tentative study.

"The main problem to be faced if we acquire the land to the west is Buffalo Creek and its flood plain," Charlton said. "There is a possibility of relocating the creek, but in order to do that it would be necessary to obtain a permit from the Illinois Division of Waterways."

The Metropolitan Sanitary District, Lake County and other agencies are also proposing a 150-acre retention basin south of Checker Road and west of Arlington Heights Road which would dry up Buffalo Creek on the land considered for landfill expansion.

ACCORDING TO a village study of the current landfill, there are a few years of life if plans for a recreation area are carried through. A recent preliminary study by landfill engineers, however, says that the landfill has less than a year of life left, if the recreation area plans are not modified.

The study, by Harza Engineering, was expected to be completed Monday. It will cost the village $7,000 when completed.

"We still have about 50 per cent of the money for the Harza study, and will keep it until we get a final report," said Charlton.

The incinerator subcommittee of the Environmental Control Commission used the preliminary Harza study data in its recent solid waste disposal report that recommended landfill be used for disposal. A January report by the village administration recommended an incinerator be built for solid waste disposal.

Charged With Drunken Driving

Buffalo Grove police charged a Downer's Grove man with driving while under the influence of alcohol after they stopped him on Dundee Road Friday.

Police said Orville Stewart was driving erratically. He was unable to post bond and was taken to the Buffalo Grove police station.

Stewart later posted bond, but was told to leave his car on the parking lot rather than drive home. Police intended to photograph the car, since it appeared to have some damage and a traffic sign on Dundee Road had been knocked down. Pieces of grillwork matching Stewart's car were found near the sign, police said.

After releasing Stewart, an officer walked out and found the car was gone. Mount Prospect police later found the auto parked in a "no parking" zone in Mount Prospect.

Hot Line Tag Day Aug. 25

If you are out driving or shopping on Friday, Aug. 25 in Wheeling or Buffalo Grove, you may see a Youth Services Bureau volunteer collecting contributions for Hot Line tag day.

The Hot Line is a service offered by Omni-House and the youth services bureau so adolescents with problems can call and receive advice or a referral to someone who can help. This is the second year the Hot Line has been in operation.

The money being collected will be used to pay phone bills and part of the rent for Omni-House, the Hot Line headquarters.

Last year a few volunteers collected

$1,300, and the volunteers hope to double that amount this year. They will be out with collection cans from 6 a.m. to 8 p.m.

The Hot Line phone number is 541-HELP. A volunteer answers the phone and offers immediate assistance whenever possible. Volunteers are given approximately 18 hours of training in interpersonal relations, handling crisis, and offering references agencies that deal with specific problems.

Hot Line volunteers are needed for working four-hour shifts. Anyone interested may call Mike Meyer at 537-4336, or Mrs. Bobbie Rodriguez at 296-1464 after 5:30 p.m.

Oh, He Flies Through The Air With The Greatest...

By Karl Boer
Fifty years ago Jim Kendall would have been called one of those daring young men in their flying machines. Today he's one of thousands of enthusiasts promoting the exciting sport of sky soaring.

Kendall, who has lived in Arlington Heights for six years, was cited recently for soaring to an altitude of 35,000 feet over Pike's Peak in Colorado at a temperature approaching 56 degrees below zero.

The Diamond Altitude Award presented to him by the Soaring Society of America is one of the sport's most coveted trophies.

Besides the personal enjoyment he gets from powerless flight, Kendall is committed to training young people and is working currently with teen-aged Civil Air Patrol cadets at a soaring club near Crystal Lake.

THE SECRET TO altitude flying is riding thermals, warm currents of air that rise from the ground like air bubbles in a glass of soda pop.

The Rocky Mountains are ideal for high altitude flights because strong thermal updrafts occur there when warm breezes are forced rapidly upward by the mountain wall.

The altitude record for glider flight is 46,000 feet, Kendall said, well above the heights at which most jets travel.

"On those flights you put on several thermal flight suits, take along a radio which won't work because it freezes, oxygen, a parachute, a rabbit's foot and a rosary," he said.

In addition to his licenses for piloting and instructing in glider planes, Kendall holds licenses for just about everything, including single and multiengine airplanes, seaplanes and even balloons.

He is a member of the Soaring Society of America, the Illinois wing of the Civil Air Patrol, the Chicago Glider Council, Sky Soaring, Inc., the American Aerostatic Club and numerous other aviation organizations.

He also holds a reserve officer's commission in the U.S. Air Force.

KENDALL, 38, traces his interest in flying back to his boyhood days in Dayton, Ohio, where, he recalls proudly, he delivered newspapers to Orville Wright.

"My mother used to tell me that he was a very famous man and I saved a whole stack of receipts with his signature on them," he said.

Kendall soloed in a glider at age 13 and has been flying ever since. He was graduated from Bradley University and later did graduate work at Roosevelt University. He is employed by the Enjay Chemical Company in Des Plaines.

The gliders he loves and flies cost anywhere from $3,000 to $24,000. Most of today's models are made of fiberglass or aluminum, though earlier gliders were often made of wood and canvas.

Kendall is devoted to sky soaring and it is not surprising that his enthusiasm for the sport rubs off, not only on his students but on his 12-year-old daughter, Lora, as well.

"She'll get her glider license at 14," Kendall says confidently. And with her father for a teacher, she'll probably be a darn good pilot.

2 Stabbed While On Wyoming Camping Trip

Two area teenagers were attacked and stabbed seriously late last week while on a camping trip in a remote region of Wyoming.

The boys were attacked by a man reportedly wanted by California police in connection with the stabbing murder of a 14-year-old California girl.

Daniel Kotel, 19, Mount Prospect, and Russell Hughes, 17, Palatine, were attacked at their campsite 35 miles east of Worland, Wyo. Thursday night. Kotel was stabbed twice in the abdomen and Hughes suffered 7 stab wounds to the chest and stomach areas.

Both boys were reported improving in a Wyoming hospital yesterday.

Sheriff's police arrested 20-year-old Weldon Mead Kennedy Friday after a high speed auto chase, ending a three-hour ground search for the alleged assailant. Kennedy reported wrecked his car in the chase and fled on foot before police made the arrest Friday.

ACCORDING TO police, Kennedy is wanted for the alleged murder of a 14-year-old girl in Union City, Calif. Police are holding Kennedy in Worland, Wyo. until formal charges and extradition proceedings are completed.

Daniel Kotel was in surgery at Washakie County Hospital Friday.

Russell Hughes' father, Raymond, contacted yesterday at his son's bedside in Washakie County Hospital, said the boys were backpacking in the Wyoming hills.

It was the first day of a planned two-week trip, he said.

"At first the boys were in rather serious condition," he added. "Now it looks like they are rapidly improving and we hope to bring them home soon."

Parents of the boys arrived in Wyoming Friday.

After the stabbing, the boys apparently contacted persons at a nearby fish hatchery and were given aid and later hospitalized.

Hughes' father was on a camping trip in Waukesha, Wis., when contacted by Palatine police.

Inform Public About Pesticides

"Project Pesticides" is being undertaken by the Pollution and Environmental Problems (PEP) organization to inform the public about the use and abuse of insect-killing substances.

Pamphlets, articles and posters are being prepared for circulation in Arlington Heights, Barrington, Hoffman Estates, Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Schaumburg, and Winnetka.

Project director Ann Chellman, 126 S. Hickory St., said area residents interested in assisting in the program can contact her at 388-4744.

Mrs. Chellman recently was elected recording secretary of PEP. Other new officers are Thomas Simon of Winnetka, president; Catherine Quigg of Barrington, vice president; Dorothy Lundahl of Rolling Meadows, treasurer; and Ann Kruse of Arlington Heights, corresponding secretary.

Projects being planned by the group include informational programs on nuclear power problems, recycling and detergents.

Weekend Outing Ends In Tragedy

A casual weekend evening visit at her parent's plush country home in Barrington Hills meant a violent death for 22-year-old Barbara Board, a recent resident of the Northwest suburbs and one of the victims in Friday's mass slaying at the home of Paul Corbett.

Miss Board recently moved to an apartment in Hoffman Estates, according to police reports. Sheriff's police detectives were at her apartment at 600 Jones Rd. near Hoffman Estates yesterday seeking clues in the still mysterious death of Miss Board and three members of her family.

Gunned down beside her were her mother Marjane Corbett, 57, stepfather Paul M. Corbett, 67, and Barbara Board's aunt, Mrs. Dorothy Derry, 60, also visiting the Corbett home.

Sheriff's police said Miss Board had moved from the family estate several weeks ago to her apartment. Barrington Hills police confirmed that she did not live at the family home in the exclusive village.

Miss Board was found dead by her brother Anthony Board, who was returning a borrowed car to the house. Mrs. Derry also was pronounced dead at the scene. Mr. and Mrs. Corbett died in Sherman Hospital in Elgin.

There was only speculation last night as to the cause of the mass murders. A few expensive household items were reported taken. Corbett's wallet was empty.

Building Burns While Being Remodeled

A Palatine building in the process of being remodeled suffered approximately $6,000 damage in an early morning fire Friday.

The fire, at 422 E. Palatine Rd., took Palatine Rural firemen 30 minutes to get it under control. The cause of the fire is being investigated by the state fire marshal's department.

The building was being remodeled into a photography studio.

Inverness Blackout

An electrical blackout hit a large section of Inverness yesterday morning. Residents were without power from about 11:30 a.m. to nearly 1 p.m.

Commonwealth Edison officials said a "cable problem" caused the power failure.

Park District Planning Program

A New Bobby Fischer In Our Midst?

A novel interest in chess created by Brooklyn's Bobby Fischer has moved at least one suburban library into a stalemate.

Of the 166 books devoted to the game, none rest on the Palatine Library shelves.

"I was looking for one the other day, but they were all checked out," said a reference room librarian. "There has been a new interest since the Boris Spassky-Fischer games" (the world chess championship now being held in Reykjavik, Iceland).

On Dean's List

John J. Streiber, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Streiber of 3715 Wilke Rd., Rolling Meadows, was recently named to the dean's list at the Milwaukee School of Engineering in Milwaukee, Wis.

The Rolling Meadows Park District hopes to capitalize on the interest in the game. Officials plan a fall recreation program devoted to chess and are organizing a city chess club.

"AS LONG as we get this thing going while Fischer and Spassky are playing we'll be all right," said Rudy Nelson, park district recreation director. "Once people get into it, I'm sure they will continue. . . it just took something like this tournament to build it up."

Soon after the world championship began several weeks ago, calls started coming into the park district office asking about the possibility of a chess program, Nelson said.

Businesses in Arlington Heights, which stock chess sets, however, report buying has not increased measurably. Bill Jensen of Mueller's Stationery in the village is sold out, but says he usually is this time of year.

"Maybe it takes too much time to think. . . not like playing checkers," he said.

ANOTHER MERCHANT in downtown Arlington Heights said, "Fischer hasn't done a thing for us. Kids don't buy the game because of expense. Good sets are $20 and that's too much for them. The small ones are toys."

Walt Schreiber, of the Village Pipe and Tobacco Shop, notes there always has been "a lot of interest in chess in the suburbs." He added that persons are purchasing the more expensive wood-carved and enameled chess sets as household ornaments. "They like the idea of setting them up on coffee tables," he said.

Marshall Field and Co. salesmen at Woodfield in Schaumburg report chess sets selling for $250. At those prices even suburban kids may feel they're getting ripped. Reading about chess is much cheaper.

Ground Broken For New Addition At Alexian Bros.

The expansion of Alexian Brothers Medical Center shows what can be done by charitable groups and private citizens to meet the health needs of the people of the state, Illinois Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie said Sunday at groundbreaking ceremonies for the $9 million addition to the hospital in Elk Grove Village.

Ogilvie told a crowd of more than 150 persons that the hospital's building program "refutes the idea that only government can meet the needs of the people."

The groundbreaking at the hospital site off Biesterfeld Road marked the start of construction of a five-story ambulatory care center and a two-story community health building to be completed in late 1974.

The Northwest suburbs is one of the fastest growing areas in the state, and medical facilities like Alexian Brothers Hospital must grow to meet the increased demand for health care, the governor said.

Ogilvie praised the Alexian Brothers for "an unwavering commitment to serve others," and said the building program was a "milestone in the service of this splendid medical center."

He added that the state was attempting to come to grips with the skyrocketing cost of medical care in Springfield, but he did not elaborate on what actions the state was taking.

Before digging out the first shovel-full of dirt to officially mark the start of construction, John Cardinal Cody, archbishop of Chicago, said the expansion program was due to the dedication of the Alexian Brothers to administer to the sick.

The medical facility is one way the church is endeavoring to become a part of the community and serve all the people, no matter what race, creed or color, Cardinal Cody said. He added that Alexian Brothers Medical Center was one of 23 hospitals in the archdiocese of Chicago.

The existing hospital building, which opened in 1966, will be the core of the new medical center. The pavilion for community health and ambulatory care center, connected to the main building, will house an emergency care complex five times larger than current facilities and an outpatient department 17 times larger.

Besides more out-patient facilities, the additions will increase the number of hospital beds from the present 340 to a possible 420 beds.

Donations toward a building-fund campaign goal of $1.8 million have already passed the $1 million mark. The remaining $7.2 million will be financed through a bond and anticipated revenue.

Health Director Sees Little Help

Mosquito Problem 'Is Here To Stay'

The Palatine environmental health director offers little consolation to mosquito-bitten residents.

Richard A. Dawson attributes the unusually heavy influx of the insects this season to weather conditions, and says "there's not a lot of protection against mosquitoes."

He suggests that residents rid their property of standing water — bird baths, stagnant ponds, cans of water — though he acknowledges that that type of measure "won't help overnight."

Long-range solutions, according to Dawson, involve water level management. In addition to farviding where standing water cannot be eliminated, and the cooperation of various governmental agencies.

He regards chemical spraying as a largely ineffective method of controlling the mosquito population.

Even when properly administered, an involved procedure, spraying is at best 20 per cent effective, according to Dawson, and more often closer to 5 per cent effective.

HE IS IN full accord with the village's ban on spraying, which is being contested in court by the Northwest Mosquito Abatement District as harmful to the district's overall mosquito control program.

Dawson acknowledged that the village is virtually helpless in enforcing its spraying ban on individuals, though they, too, technically, are not allowed to spray certain chemicals into the atmosphere within the village limits.

Dawson suggested that residents use pyrethrum, a chemical available at farm and garden supply stores, and legal to use in Palatine, though "actually, it's no more effective than anything else."

An estimated 100 residents, many from the Reseda subdivision, called the health department last week to complain about the unusually large number of mosquitoes this summer, which Dawson said is no worse in Palatine than any other suburb in the area.

THE MAIN effectiveness of spraying, he maintained, is psychological: a resident who lives in a community where spraying is permitted attributes the large number of mosquitoes to "a bad season," while the resident of a community where spraying is banned blames that for the numerous insects.

He stressed that in northern Illinois, the mosquito is more a nuisance than a health hazard, though some species are known to carry diseases, and said chemical spraying would be more harmful.

The mosquito season lasts until the first frost, which is generally in November, but Dawson said most of the mosquitoes will have died by mid-October.

Wanted: A Permanent X-Ray Facility

The Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce together with the village health department is working toward the establishment of a permanent chest X-ray facility in Arlington Heights.

Efforts to locate an X-ray facility here come in the wake of a May announcement by the Suburban Cook County Tuberculosis Sanitarium District that all mobile X-ray vans would be pulled off the streets Sept. 2.

The mobile X-ray unit is regularly parked in front of the Ben Franklin store, 9 W. Campbell St., on the first and third Tuesday of the month between 12 noon and 6 p.m.

If the village board concurs, the X-ray van would be installed in the Municipal Building parking lot and be open to the public at least one day a week.

Chamber of commerce executive director Earl Johnson said the installation, if approved, would be of tremendous benefit to area restaurant operators because law requires that all professional food handlers receive a chest X-ray twice a year.

WITHOUT AN X-ray installation here, area residents would have to travel to 1900 Dempster St. in Park Ridge for a chest X-ray after the mobile units are discontinued next month.

Besides the inconvenience, Johnson said the trip to Park Ridge would mean a significant loss of man-hours to employers who would have to send their employees to the Dempster Street location.

If the village board approves the idea, the Arlington Heights X-ray office would be available to Northwest suburban residents in October.

Johnson said the unit would likely serve residents from as far north as Barrington and as far west as Schaumburg.

According to the field director of the Suburban Cook County Tuberculosis Sanitarium District, Dr. Edward A. Diszczek, the mobile units are being phased out because of a recently issued federal report which criticized radiation levels in and around mobile X-ray units.

DR. DISZCZEK has said that while he does not think that the federal report, prepared by the American College of Radiology and the National Tuberculosis Association, totally applies to mobile units in suburban Cook County, the roving units will be phased out.

Dr. Diszczek said yesterday that besides persons who may be afflicted with a chronic cough or cold, the X-ray installation would serve hundreds of people employed as barbers, food handlers, hospital and nursing home employees and other licensed professionals who are required to get a chest X-ray.

"The population area around Arlington Heights is growing intensely and the chest X-ray is still a good case finding technique," he said.

Last year there were 223 reported cases of tuberculosis in suburban Cook County out of a population of 2.2 million.

In addition to detecting tuberculosis, chest X-rays are useful in detecting other diseases or chest abnormalities such as cancer, emphysema and enlarged heart, Dr. Diszczek said.

Former Rider Declares:

Agent Can 'Make' A Jockey

by DOUG RAY

Thoroughbred jockeys are like movie stars — a good agent can make them famous.

At least that's Jerry McGrath's observation after having been in the saddle for seven years and in the horse racing business all of his adult life.

"Some of these guys (jockeys) have been around for 15 years and all of a sudden they hit it lucky. . . an agent gets him the right mount. It's like show business, they get a break and have it made."

Admittedly too plump to ride today, McGrath, 36, makes his home in Palatine, where hanging on the wall of the living room is a photo taken during his jockeying days. Decked out in the stable colors, he stands in the winner's circle.

MCGRATH'S LIFE horse racing began when he was a boy in Brooklyn. He visited a nearby race track "saw a race and knew it was for me. He admits jockeying is "sometimes heartbreaking and disenchanted. But when you're a winner it's great."

Retired as a jockey in 1965 he now works as an exercise rider at Arlington Park and other Chicago tracks during the racing season. During the off-season McGrath trains horses for a Barrington rancher.

The function of an exercise rider is the opposite of race riding, he said. "You get all you can out of a horse during the race, but during exercise he shouldn't be tested. Just kept in shape."

"There is as much pride in seeing a horse win that you trained as in riding a winner," he says. "But you never know if a horse will be a winner while breaking him in."

HE RECALLS a particular incident a few years ago, when he was asked an opinion on the future of a young thoroughbred named Promised Land.

"A wealthy trainer asked me what I thought about the horse. . . I said not much," McGrath laughed. "The horse went on to earn a half million dollars."

Horse racing, he feels, is as much a gamble for the trainers as for those placing wagers at Arlington Park's mutual windows. "Horses have been bought for $50,000 and only won one race in a lifetime. It's hard to tell how good they're gonna be."

And McGrath says a horse's ability to win changes from day to day. "You have to play it by ear. . . you can't overtrain and then you have to keep them in shape."

Horse racing has changed over the years. "There has been reform. . . it used to be that another jockey could bump a horse" or jostle a competitor. "Filming of the races has taken the roughness out of the game."

His winter job breaking in thoroughbreds in Barrington is, however, less rough and tumble than most would believe. "A horse seldom gives much trouble," he said. "By the time you mount, they already know the basics."

HORSES ARE his first love but chess ranks a close second. He plays at least three times a week and is a member of the United States Chess Federation.

"I began playing chess as a boy," he said. "To be good, a person must keep hammering away at it just like racing."

He takes chess seriously. On a table sits a thick book devoted entirely to the opening moves.

"A good chess player is a lot like a thoroughbred," he said. It takes the right attitude, emotional stability and intelligence to be a winner.

By Kurt Baer
Fifty years ago Jim Kendall would have been called one of those daring young men in their flying machines. Today he's one of thousands of enthusiasts promoting the exciting sport of sky soaring.

Kendall, who has lived in Arlington Heights for six years, was cited recently for soaring to an altitude of 25,000 feet over Pike's Peak in Colorado at a temperature approaching 55 degrees below zero.

The Diamond Altitude Award presented to him by the Soaring Society of America is one of the sport's most coveted trophies.

Besides the personal enjoyment he gets from powerless flight, Kendall is committed to training young people and is working currently with teen-aged Civil Air Patrol cadets at a soaring club near Crystal Lake.

THE SECRET TO altitude flying is riding thermals, warm currents of air that rise from the ground like air bubbles in a glass of soda pop.

The Rocky Mountains are ideal for high altitude flights because strong thermal updrafts occur there when warm breezes are forced rapidly upward by the mountain wall.

The altitude record for glider flight is 46,000 feet, Kendall said, well above the heights at which most jets travel.

"On these flights you put on several thermal flight suits, take along a radio which won't work because it freezes, oxygen, a parachute, a rabbit's foot and a rosary," he said.

In addition to his licenses for piloting and instructing in glider planes, Kendall holds licenses for just about everything, including single and multiengine airplanes, seaplanes and even balloons.

He is a member of the Soaring Society of America, the Illinois wing of the Civil Air Patrol, the Chicago Glider Council, Sky Soaring, Inc., the American Aerobatic Club and numerous other aviation organizations.

He also holds a reserve officer's commission in the U.S. Air Force.

KENDALL, 38, traces his interest in flying back to his boyhood days in Dayton, Ohio, where, he recalls proudly, he delivered newspapers to Orville Wright.

"My mother used to tell me that he was a very famous man and I saved a whole stack of receipts with his signature on them," he said.

Kendall soloed in a glider at age 13 and has been flying ever since. He was graduated from Bradley University and later did graduate work at Roosevelt University. He is employed by the Enjay Chemical Company in Des Plaines.

The gliders he loves and flies cost anywhere from $3,000 to $24,000. Most of today's models are made of fiberglass or aluminum, though earlier gliders were often made of wood and canvas.

Kendall is devoted to sky soaring and it is not surprising that his enthusiasm for the sport rubs off, not only on his students but on his 12-year-old daughter, Liora, as well.

"She'll get her glider license at 14," Kendall says confidently. And with her father for a teacher, she'll probably be a darn good pilot.

Ogilvie To Sign
Upper Salt Creek
Watershed Pact

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie will sign the Upper Salt Creek Watershed Agreement Sunday.

Members of the Salt Creek Watershed Steering Committee have been notified that the governor will sign the agreement at 2 p.m. in the Rolling Meadows Holiday Inn, on Algonquin Road, east of Rt. 70.

The agreement is for a multi-million dollar plan to stop flooding in the creek basin area.

After the governor has signed, local government agencies are expected to sign the agreement. With state and local approval, the agreement will then go to Washington, D.C., to get approval for federal funding.

If Congress approves the federal funding in its next session, the allocation will be made part of the fiscal 1974 budget. Construction could then begin in July, 1973.

DELAYS IN GETTING state approval prevented the bill from being placed in the current federal budget.

Federal funds of $12 million are being requested for the project. These funds will be matched with $8.4 million in local funds and $6.6 million in state funds.

Local governments expected to sign the agreement are: North Cook County Soil and Water Conservation District; Metropolitan Sanitary District; Cook County Board; Cook County Forest Preserve District; the municipalities of Elk Grove Village, Schaumburg, Rolling Meadows and Palatine; and the park districts of Palatine, Schaumburg, Elk Grove and Salt Creek.

Tom Hamilton, chairman of the steering committee, has said the plan would prevent flooding, create water recreation area, give rainwater a chance to soak into the ground to restore the water table and give wildlife a source of water.

A SERIES OF dams will be built across the creek. One dam will form a 600-acre lake in the Red Brown Forest Preserve.

Currently a trailer court is located in the middle of the forest preserve. The Cook County Forest Preserve District now has the responsibility of relocating the 200 trailers and 700 persons in the court.

According to Richard Buck, of the forest preserve district, the state and the district are now negotiating over the responsibility for moving the court.

Buck said, "as far as I know," the state would assume the responsibility.

Weekend Outing Ends
In Tragedy

A casual weekend evening visit at her parent's plush country home in Barrington Hills meant a violent death for 22-year-old Barbara Board, a recent resident of the Northwest suburbs and one of the victims in Friday's mass slaying at the home of Paul Corbett.

Miss Board recently moved to an apartment in Hoffman Estates, according to police reports. Sheriff's police detectives were at her apartment at 600 Jones Rd. near Hoffman Estates yesterday seeking clues to the still mysterious death of Miss Board and three members of her family.

Gunned down beside her were her mother Marian Corbett, 57, stepfather Paul M. Corbett, 67, and Barbara Board's aunt, Mrs. Dorothy Derry, 68, also visiting the Corbett home.

Sheriff's police said Miss Board had moved from the family estate several weeks ago to her apartment. Barrington Hills police confirmed that she did not live at the family home in the exclusive village.

Miss Board was found dead by her brother Anthony Board, who was returned in a borrowed car to the house. Mrs. Derry also was pronounced dead at the scene. Mr. and Mrs. Corbett died in Sherman Hospital in Elgin.

There was only speculation last night as to the cause of the mass murders. A few expensive household items were reported taken. Corbett's wallet was empty.

Park District Planning Program

A New Bobby Fischer In Our Midst?

A novel interest in chess created by Brooklyn's Bobby Fischer has moved at least one suburban library into a stalemate.

Of the 100 books devoted to the game, none rest on the Palatine Library shelves.

"I was looking for one the other day, but they were all checked out," said a reference room librarian. "There has been a new interest since the Boris Spassky-Fischer games" (the world chess championship now being held in Reykjavik, Iceland).

On Dean's List

John J. Strebler, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Strebler of 3715 Wilke Rd., Rolling Meadows, was recently named to the dean's list at the Milwaukee School of Engineering in Milwaukee, Wis.

The Rolling Meadows Park District hopes to capitalize on the interest in the game. Officials plan a fall recreation program devoted to chess and are organizing a city chess club.

"AS LONG as we get this thing going while Fischer and Spassky are playing we'll be all right," said Rudy Nelson, park district recreation director. "Once people get into it, I'm sure they will continue... it just took something like this tournament to build it up."

Soon after the world championship began several weeks ago, calls started coming into the park district office asking about the possibility of a chess program, Nelson said.

Businesses in Arlington Heights, which stock chess sets, however, report buying has not increased measurably. Bill Jensen of Mueller's Stationery in the village is sold out, but says he usually is this time of year.

"Maybe it takes too much time to think... not like playing checkers," he said.

ANOTHER MERCHANT in downtown Arlington Heights said, "Fischer hasn't done a thing for us. Kids don't buy the game because of expense. Good sets are $20 and that's too much for them. The small ones are toys."

Wall Schreiber, of the Village Pipe and Tobacco Shop, notes there always has been "a lot of interest in chess in the suburbs." He added that persons are purchasing the more expensive wood-carved and onyx chess sets as household ornaments. "They like the idea of setting them up on coffee tables," he said.

Marshall Field and Co. salesmen at Woodfield in Schaumburg report chess sets selling for $250. At these prices even suburban kids may feel they're getting ripped. Reading about chess is much cheaper.

Health Director Sees Little Help

Mosquito Problem 'Is Here To Stay'

The Palatine environmental health director offers little consolation to mosquito-bitten residents.

Richard A. Dawson attributes the unusually heavy influx of the insects this season to weather conditions, and says "there's not a lot of protection against mosquitoes."

He suggests that residents rid their property of standing water — bird baths, stagnant ponds, cans of water — though he acknowledges that that type of measure "won't help overnight."

Long-range solutions, according to Dawson, involve water level management, in addition to larviciding where standing water cannot be eliminated, and the cooperation of various governmental agencies.

He regards chemical spraying as a largely ineffective method of controlling the mosquito population.

Even when properly administered, an involved procedure, spraying is at best 20 per cent effective, according to Dawson, and more often closer to 5 per cent effective.

HE IS IN full accord with the village's ban on spraying, which is being contested in court by the Northwest Mosquito Abatement District as harmful to the district's overall mosquito control program.

Dawson acknowledged that the village is virtually helpless in enforcing its spraying ban on individuals, though they, too, technically, are not allowed to spray certain chemicals into the atmosphere within the village limits.

Dawson suggested that residents use pyrethrum, a chemical available at farm and garden supply stores, and legal to use in Palatine, though "actually, it's no more effective than anything else."

An estimated 100 residents, many from the Reseda subdivision, called the health department last week to complain about the unusually large number of mosquitoes that for the numerous insects.

He stressed that in northern Illinois, the mosquito is more a nuisance than a health hazard, though some species are known to carry diseases, and said chemical spraying would be more harmful.

The mosquito season lasts until the first frost, which is generally in November, but Dawson said most of the mosquitoes will have died by mid-October.

Ground Broken For New Addition At Alexian Bros.

The expansion of Alexian Brothers Medical Center shows what can be done by charitable groups and private citizens to meet the health needs of the people of the state, Illinois Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie said Sunday at groundbreaking ceremonies for the $9 million addition to the hospital in Elk Grove Village.

Ogilvie told a crowd of more than 150 persons that the hospital's building program "refutes the idea that only government can meet the needs of the people."

The groundbreaking at the hospital site off Biesterfeld Road marked the start of construction of a five-story ambulatory care center and a two-story community health building to be completed in late 1974.

The Northwest suburbs is one of the fastest growing areas in the state, and medical facilities like Alexian Brothers Hospital must grow to meet the increased demand for health care, the governor said.

Ogilvie praised the Alexian Brothers for "an unwavering commitment to serve others," and said the building program was a "milestone in the service of this splendid medical center."

He added that the state was attempting to come to grips with the skyrocketing cost of medical care in Springfield, but he did not elaborate on what actions the state was taking.

Before digging out the first shovel-full of dirt to officially mark the start of construction, John Cardinal Cody, archbishop of Chicago, said the expansion program was due to the dedication of the Alexian Brothers to administer to the sick.

The medical facility is one way the church is endeavoring to become a part of the community and serve all the people, no matter what race, creed or color, Cardinal Cody said. He added that Alexian Brothers Medical Center was one of 23 hospitals in the archdiocese of Chicago.

The existing hospital building, which opened in 1966, will be the core of the new medical center. The pavilion for community health and ambulatory care center, connected to the main building, will house an emergency care complex five times larger than current facilities and an outpatient department 17 times larger.

Besides more out-patient facilities, the additions will increase the number of hospital beds from the present 340 to a possible 420 beds.

Donations toward a building-fund campaign goal of $1.8 million have already passed the $1 million mark. The remaining $7.2 million will be financed through a bond and anticipated revenue.

His winter job breaking in thoroughbreds in Barrington is, however, less rough and tumble than most would believe. "A horse seldom gives much trouble," he said. "By the time you mount, they already know the basics."

HORSES ARE his first love but chess ranks a close second. He plays at least three times a week and is a member of the United States Chess Federation.

"I began playing chess as a boy," he said. "To be good, a person must keep hammering away at it just like racing."

He takes chess seriously. On a table sits a thick book devoted entirely to the opening moves.

River Trails Salary Talks To Be Delayed

Teacher and school board bargaining teams in River Trails Dist. 26 will probably wait until after school begins to resume talks in teacher contract negotiations.

River Trails Education Association (RTEA) Pres. Gary Rathgeber has asked the board for an Aug. 28 meeting. But Richard Zwieback, professional school board negotiator, said the board bargaining team would rather wait until after school has started to resume negotiations.

"WE HAD hoped to be meeting much sooner," Zwieback said, "but the fact that the teachers are waiting until the end of August shows that they're not too concerned that the contract get settled."

"We don't want anybody to feel that we're waiting for a contract to expire. But it's very difficult for administrators to meet at the time specified by the RTEA. It's a very busy time, just getting ready for school. If the teachers are not in a hurry to meet, probably a week or two after school begins would be convenient for both parties."

Lloyd Demel, school board president, said he would have liked the negotiations to have started earlier, but "I don't know if it makes any difference now if it's the last week in August or the first week in September."

"We'RE ALL interested in sitting down and getting this resolved, as long as we get a date that doesn't present a hardship to either side," he said.

The RTEA could not meet earlier, according to Rathgeber, because some members of the bargaining team were out of town.

Rathgeber said he is agreeable to waiting until after school begins as long as the teachers' contracts do not expire.

Zwieback guaranteed that current teacher salaries and fringe benefits will be maintained until a contract agreement is reached. Once that is done, any agreement will become retroactive to the beginning of the school year, he said.

Area Pair Stabbed At Camp

Two area teenagers were attacked and stabbed seriously late last week while on a camping trip in a remote region of Wyoming.

The boys were attacked by a man reportedly wanted by California police in connection with the stabbing murder of a 14-year-old California girl.

Daniel Kotel, 19, Mount Prospect, and Russell Hughes, 17, Palatine, were attacked at their campsite 35 miles east of Worland, Wyo. Thursday night. Kotel was stabbed twice in the abdomen and Hughes suffered 7 stab wounds to the chest and stomach areas.

Both boys were reported improving in a Wyoming hospital yesterday.

Sheriff's police arrested 28-year-old Weidon Mead Kennedy Friday after a high speed auto chase, ending a three-hour ground search for the alleged assailant.

Nimrod To Run

Niles Township Republican committeeman John Nimrod will be named as the Republican candidate for the Illinois Senate to replace retiring Sen. John W. (Bill) Carroll of Park Ridge. It was reported yesterday.

Nimrod was chosen by GOP committeemen from the 4th Legislative District over incumbent state representatives Eugene F. Schlickman of Arlington Heights and Robert S. Juckett of Park Ridge. He was an unsuccessful candidate for the U.S. Congress in the 1968 primary election won by U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane.

salant Kennedy reported wrecked his car in the chase and fled on foot before police made the arrest Friday.

ACCORDING TO police, Kennedy is wanted for the alleged murder of a 14-year-old girl in Union City, Calif. Police are holding Kennedy in Worland, Wyo. until formal charges and extradition proceedings are completed.

Daniel Kotel was in surgery at Washakie County Hospital Friday.

Russell Hughes' father, Raymond, contacted yesterday at his son's bedside in Washakie County Hospital, said the boys were backpacking in the Wyoming hills. It was the first day of a planned two-week trip, he said.

"At first the boys were in rather serious condition," he added. "Now it looks like they are rapidly improving and we hope to bring them home soon."

Parents of the boys arrived in Wyoming Friday.

After the stabbing, the boys apparently contacted persons at a nearby fish hatchery and were given aid and later hospitalized.

Hughes' father was on a camping trip in Waukesha, Wis., when contacted by Palatine police.

Guardsmen Win

The Guardsmen Drum and Bugle Corps of Mount Prospect won first place in marching competition at the Boulder Powwow Day Parade in Boulder, Colo. The parade, held July 29, lasted an hour and a half and had over 300 marching units. The Guardsmen were selected as the best musical marching unit.

1,500 YOUTHS FROM Chicago's inner city were treated to a day at the circus Friday in Mount Prospect. The occasion was a special performance of the John Strong 1869 Tent Circus at Mount Prospect Plaza Shopping Center. Sponsors of the show were the Mount Prospect and Chicago Jaycee chapters. Circus performances continue today and tomorrow. Profits from the circus go to the Chicago and Mount Prospect Jaycees.

Mental Health Service Change Slated

Plans are being made for Elk Grove Village Community Service to assume responsibility for mental health services in Elk Grove and Schaumburg townships.

These townships, along with Palatine and Wheeling townships, are now served by the Northwest Mental Health Association (NMHA) in Arlington Heights.

Community Service recently received a $52,000 grant from the state mental health department to open a mental health center.

Jordan Rosen, director of Community Service, said no definite date had been set for the transfer but, "We are shooting for a Sept. 1, breakoff time. We hope to assume total responsibility then."

Rosen said Community Service had already started receiving referrals from NMHA.

COMMUNITY SERVICE will remain associated with NMHA according to Rosen. He said the two organizations will probably run joint programs.

Lois Radtke, of NMHA said that patients now being treated at the NMHA center will continue treatment at the center.

Dr. Eugene Trager, director of NMHA said the transition was, "up to him (Rosen), we'll carry the ball until he is ready to assume control."

Dr. Trager said that NMHA will lose approximately 40 per cent of the population it had been serving.

The reduction will be a gain for Northwest said Dr. Trager. "We will be able to give more intensive service than in the past. The quantity may decrease, but the quality and variety will increase and improve."

DESPITE THE reduction in the number of people NMHA treats, its budget was increased by the state. Dr. Trager said the extra money will be used to expand programs.

Currently the agency is only operating therapy and treatment programs. Dr. Trager plans to start some community education programs. These may include such topics as the problems of the suburban housewife, raising teenagers, improving the quality of life and general community education on mental health and treatment.

"If the public sees these programs as worthy, we'll continue to offer worthwhile services," said Dr. Trager.

Dr. Trager said he plans no increase in the number of staff personnel. He said that the staff will be able to work more hours as the need for service rises.

50 Recovered Bikes Await Their Owners

About 50 lost or stolen bikes, recovered by the Mount Prospect Police Department, await claiming by their owners.

According to Police Sgt. Ralph Doney, the public works department has run out of room in which to keep the recovered bikes. Persons having lost bikes may view these bikes from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday at the public works building, 11 S. Pine St.

Proof of ownership must be supplied when claiming a bike, Doney said.

NW Mental Health Backing For ICE House Continues

The ICE House, a Mount Prospect counseling center, will continue to receive support from the Northwest Mental Health Association (NMHA) until the Elk Grove Community Service mental health program gets under way.

Lois Radtke, of NMHA, said the association will continue to provide training and psychiatric back-up for the ICE House until Community Service is ready to take over. NMHA has provided $9,800 for the center, but discontinued financial support in May because of lack of funds.

Jordan Rosen, Community Service director, said Friday he was unaware the ICE House was under his jurisdiction, which includes Elk Grove and Schaumburg townships. The ICE House, at 201 W. Prospect Ave., is at the northern end of Elk Grove Township.

Rosen said he may let the ICE House decide which organization it would like to work with. Directors of the Mount Prospect Community Action Plan (CAP), which operate the center, have not yet discussed what action they will take regarding the establishment of the new mental health district.

NMHA will provide service to the ICE House as long as CAP officials ask for it, according to Dr. Eugene Trager, NMHA director. "I won't let a bureaucratic dividing line stop us from providing service," he said.

Jackie Kruse, social therapist at the ICE House, said the center must have psychiatric backup to survive. "If Elk Grove takes us over without such backup, it'll put us out of business," she said.

Organizations Work Toward Establishment Of X-Ray Unit

The Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce together with the village health department is working toward the establishment of a permanent chest X-ray facility in Arlington Heights.

Efforts to locate an X-ray facility here come in the wake of a May announcement by the Suburban Cook County Tuberculosis Sanitarium District that all mobile X-ray vans would be pulled off the streets Sept. 2.

The mobile X-ray unit is regularly parked in front of the Ben Franklin store, 9 W. Campbell St., on the first and third Tuesday of the month between 12 noon and 6 p.m.

If the village board concurs, the X-ray van would be installed in the Municipal Building parking lot and be open to the public at least one day a week.

Chamber of commerce executive director Earl Johnson said the installation, if approved, would be of tremendous benefit to area restaurant operators because law requires that all professional food handlers receive a chest X-ray twice a year.

WITHOUT AN X-ray installation here, area residents would have to travel to 1999 Dempster St. in Park Ridge for a chest X-ray after the mobile units are discontinued next month.

Besides the inconvenience, Johnson said the trip to Park Ridge would mean a significant loss of man-hours to employers who would have to send their employees to the Dempster Street location.

If the village board approves the idea, the Arlington Heights X-ray office would be available to Northwest suburban residents in October.

Johnson said the unit would likely serve residents from as far north as Barrington and as far west as Schaumburg.

According to the field director of the Suburban Cook County Tuberculosis Sanitarium District, Dr. Edward A. Diszczek, the mobile units are being phased out because of a recently issued federal report which criticized radiation levels in and around mobile X-ray units.

DR. DISZCZEK has said that while he does not think that the federal report, prepared by the American College of Radiology and the National Tuberculosis Association, totally applies to mobile units in suburban Cook County, the roving units will be phased out.

Dr. Diszczek said yesterday that besides persons who may be afflicted with a chronic cough or cold, the X-ray installation would serve hundreds of people employed as barbers, food handlers, hospital and nursing home employees and other licensed professionals who are required to get a chest X-ray.

"The population area around Arlington Heights is growing intensely and the chest X-ray is still a good case finding technique," he said.

Last year there were 223 reported cases of tuberculosis in suburban Cook County out of a population of 2.2 million.

In addition to detecting tuberculosis, chest X-rays are useful in detecting other diseases or chest abnormalities such as cancer, emphysema and enlarged heart, Dr. Diszczek said.

River Trails Schools May Lease Land At Maryville

River Trails Dist. 26 may lease land at Maryville Academy in Des Plaines for a new school to house children from Maryville, Supt. Tom Warden said last week.

Any agreement, however, must wait until Gov. Ogilvie signs the bill authorizing funds for the new school.

This is the first time there has been any discussion about an actual site for the new school.

The bill provides state funds for school buildings when a non-public school closes, resulting in an increased enrollment of 5 per cent or more to a public school. The students must have parents who do not live in the district.

Such a situation occurred in Dist. 26 in 1968 when Catholic Charities announced it could no longer afford to educate the Maryville children. As a result, Dist. 26 officials were forced to take the children who are wards of the state.

The new school bill, sponsored by State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, was passed by both houses of the Illinois General Assembly last spring.

The Rev. John Smyth, superintendent of Maryville, said he is "very optimistic" about the lease proposal and sees the possible lease of the land as "a good possibility."

Before the lease can be approved, however, Supt. Warden will have to consult with the state education office. The lease must also be approved by John Cardinal Cody, archbishop of Chicago.

Grady Quits As Library President

Thomas F. Grady resigned last week as president of the Mount Prospect Public Library board of trustees.

Grady will leave the board effective Sept. 7, less than nine months before his six-year term was scheduled to end. Vice president John Parsons will take over the president's duties.

Grady, who said he had planned not to run for reelection next April anyway, resigned now because he will be a participant in the Diocese of Chicago's Lay Diaconate Training Program, starting this December. He said he no longer had enough time for his various commitments.

The diaconate program will take up two nights a week of Grady's time for the next two years. Grady is a member of St. Raymond Catholic Church in Mount Prospect. He lives at 401 S. Na-Wa-Ta Ave.

The library board will probably appoint a new trustee, to serve through April, at its September meeting.

Grady said that the policy in the past has been to select someone who will agree to run in the spring election for a full term.

Grady became a library trustee this way. He was appointed in 1966 when library trustee Dorothy Kester died. He then successfully ran for the post in the 1967 election.

Of the current library board, Grady said, "It is a very good board. They don't need me." He said most of the library's major programs are running smoothly.

Ground Broken For New Addition At Alexian Bros.

The expansion of Alexian Brothers Medical Center shows what can be done by charitable groups and private citizens to meet the health needs of the people of the state, Illinois Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie said Sunday at groundbreaking ceremonies for the $9 million addition to the hospital in Elk Grove Village.

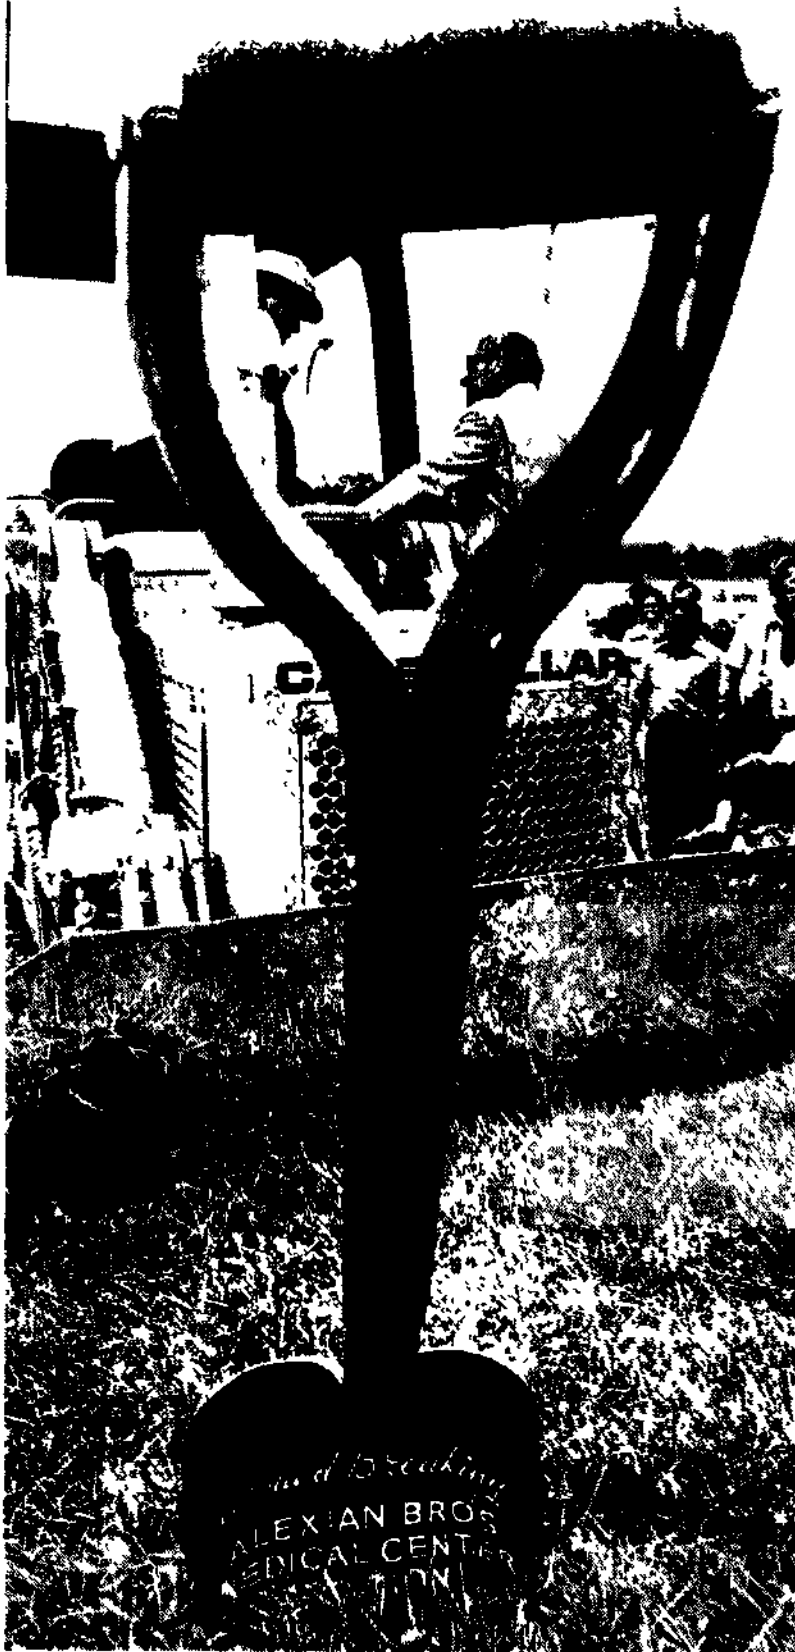

Ogilvie told a crowd of more than 150 persons that the hospital's building program "refutes the idea that only government can meet the needs of the people."

The groundbreaking at the hospital site off Bluestem Road marked the start of construction of a five-story ambulatory care center and a two-story community health building to be completed in late 1974. The Northwest suburbs is one of the fastest growing areas in the state, and medical facilities like Alexian Brothers Hospital must grow to meet the increased demand for health care, the governor said.

Ogilvie praised the Alexian Brothers for "an unwavering commitment to serve others," and said the building program was a "milestone in the service of this splendid medical center."

He added that the state was attempting to come to grips with the skyrocketing cost of medical care in Springfield, but he did not elaborate on what actions the state was taking.

GOV. RICHARD B. OGILVIE talks with bulldozer driver Wayne Rupert Sunday after groundbreaking ceremonies for the $9 million addition to Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village. Bulldozers will take over the task of the ceremonial silver shovel this week.

Police Solve Burglary; 4 Arrested

Four Mount Prospect area youths will appear in juvenile court Aug. 31 in Chicago on charges stemming from a home burglary early last week at 1101 Crabtree Ln., Mount Prospect.

Cameras, portable television sets, clock-radios and a stereo, were among the items stolen during the break-in.

A neighborhood canvass by two Mount Prospect police detectives, Kenneth E. Zachach and Edward D. Nastek, led to the solution of the theft last Wednesday, one day after police learned about it. Almost all the stolen items were recovered after the two detectives followed up leads obtained in the canvass. Of the four suspects one is from the village and three are from unincorporated Mount Prospect. They are 14-15 years old and all unrelated, according to police.

Police said entry was apparently gained by pushing in a front window. Considerable vandalism was done to the walls and furnishings of the home, according to police. The homeowners, the George Rudolph family, were vacationing at the time of the theft.

Police said the four suspects have been released to the custody of their parents.

Merchants Fume Over Road Work At Intersection

by KURT BAER

Traffic isn't the only thing that is all choked up at the intersection of Arlington Heights and Central roads these days. Some merchants near the torn up corners are so mad they can hardly speak.

Particularly hard hit by the summer road work are the businesses located in the small shopping center located on the east side of Arlington Heights Road just south of Central.

"The construction has hurt business tremendously," said Bruce Shador who works in a carpet store at the north end of the row of shops.

"People are wary of driving off the edge of the road and they just don't turn in. I've seen several cars and a truck go off the edge," he said.

TRAFFIC ON Arlington Heights Road has been narrowed to two lanes and the two normally north-bound lanes are torn up and barricaded off in front of the stores.

The only access to the stores is through a single unmarked driveway at the southern end of the road work.

"We asked the village if we could put up a sign at the driveway saying 'Entrance to Shopping Center' and we were flatly denied," says Sy Rubenstein, manager of the Stereo Trend high fidelity store.

Shador said he has been told that it will take another month to finish the work on the east half of Arlington Heights Road which construction crews will begin ripping up the west side of the street.

But that month is critical to Rubenstein who says the summer selling season is important to his stereo equipment business because the summer months are when students are home and students are a big part of his business.

"THE KIDS ARE out of school now, in another month they'll be gone," he says. Rubenstein says he is angry with the village building department for denying his request for a sign which, he thinks, would help get customers into the shopping center.

"It just seemed like an entirely reasonable request," he says.

The construction work has slowed business at the Southgate Cleaners too, according to a woman employee there.

"This used to be a real good spot but it's sure dropped off in the past couple months," she said. "People are afraid to drive in and if they do, they have to make a U-turn to get back out."

A checkout clerk in the Open Pantry grocery market said that store also has felt the pinch of a drop in customers.

"SURE IT HURTS business, but what can you do about it?" she said summing up the plight of all the merchants affected by the work.

When completed, the project will leave the intersection widened, resurfaced and freer flowing because of its left-hand turn lanes. It no doubt will look better and, more importantly, make for easier driving.

But until the barricades come down at least on the east half of Arlington Heights Road, the construction work will continue to be a commercial nightmare for merchants.

the streets Sept. 2. The mobile X-ray unit is regularly parked in front of the Ben Franklin store, 9 W. Campbell St., on the first and third Tuesday of the month between 12 noon and 6 p.m.

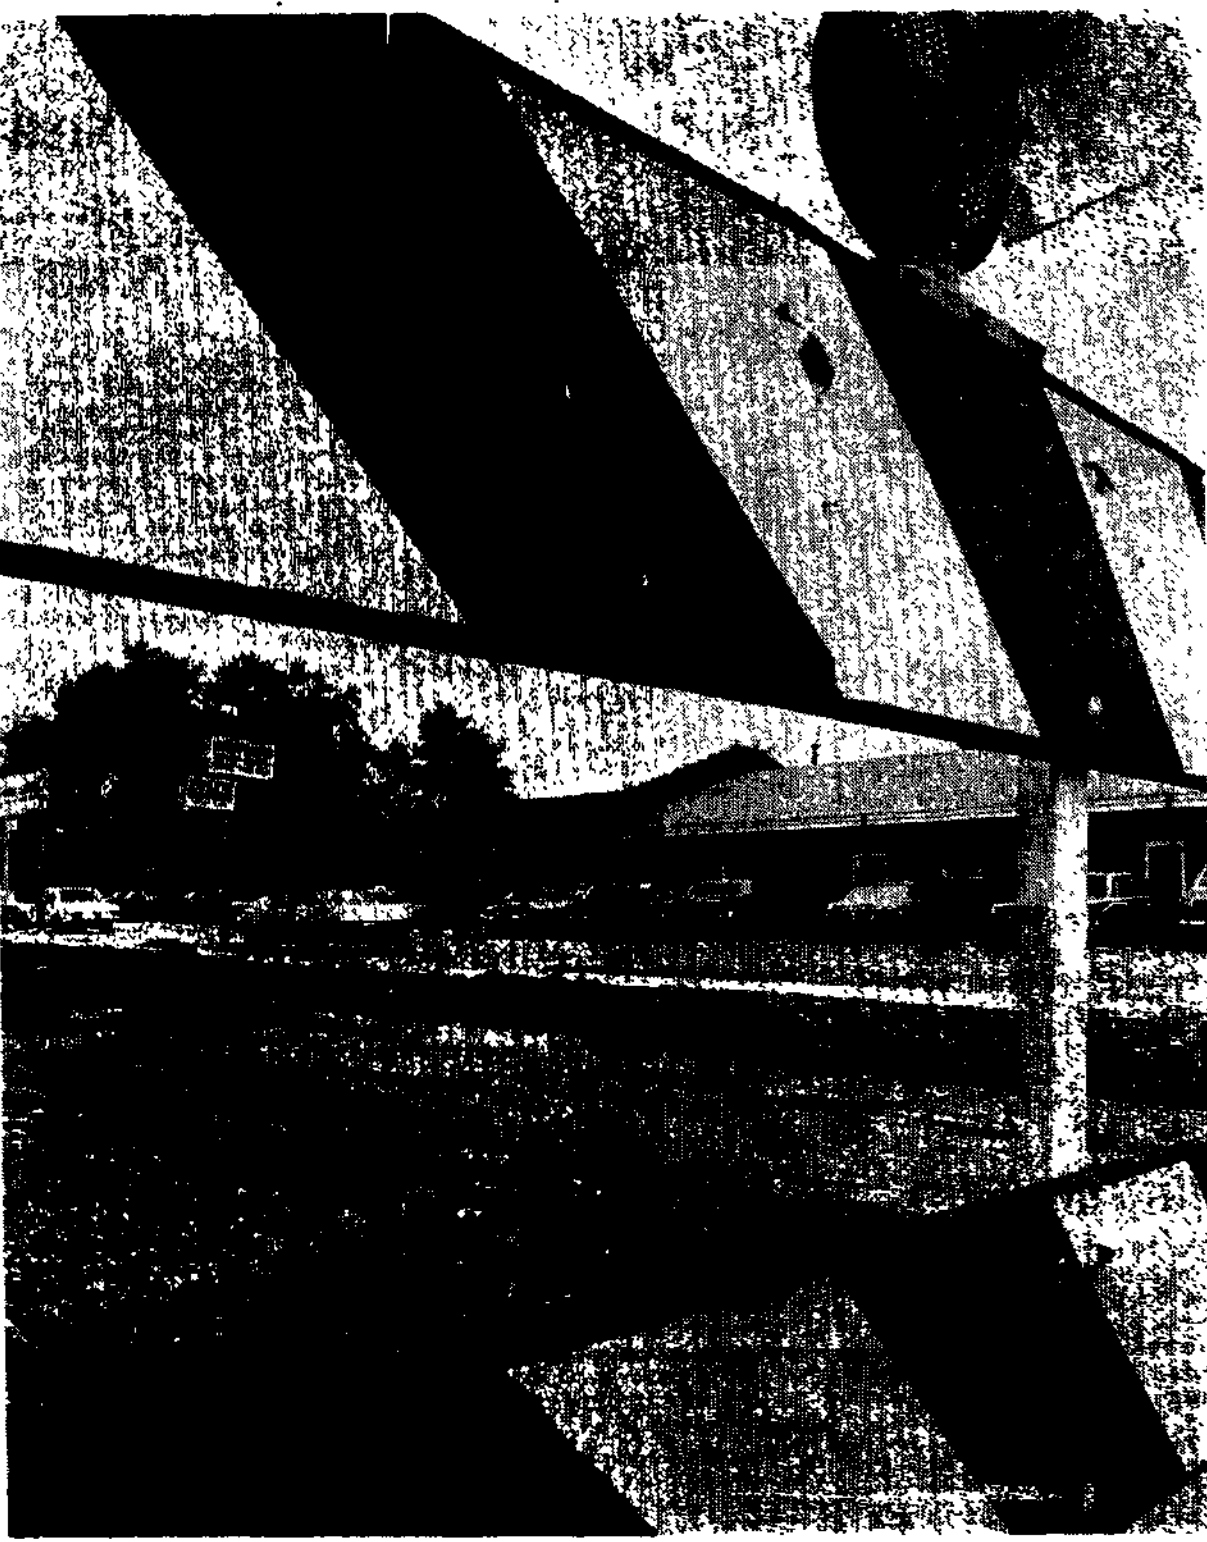

If the village board concurs, the X-ray van would be installed in the Municipal Building parking lot and be open to the public at least one day a week.

Chamber of commerce executive director Earl Johnson said the installation, if approved, would be of tremendous benefit to area restaurant operators because law requires that all professional food handlers receive a chest X-ray twice a year.

WITHOUT AN X-ray installation here, area residents would have to travel to 1900 Dempster St. in Park Ridge for a chest X-ray after the mobile units are discontinued next month.

Besides the inconvenience, Johnson said the trip to Park Ridge would mean a significant loss of man-hours to employers who would have to send their employees to the Dempster Street location.

CONSTRUCTION AND BARRICADES on the east half of Arlington Heights Road south of Central Road have taken a big bite out of store profits, according to merchants located in the small shopping center near the southeast corner of the torn-up intersection. Entrance to the shopping center is limited to one driveway and businessmen say many customers are wary of turning into the narrow parking lot

Weekend Outing Ends In Tragedy

A casual weekend evening visit at her parent's plush country home in Barrington Hills meant a violent death for 22-year-old Barbara Board, a recent resident of the Northwest suburbs and one of the victims in Friday's mass slaying at the home of Paul Corbett.

Miss Board recently moved to an apartment in Hoffman Estates, according to police reports. Sheriff's police detectives were at her apartment at 600 Jones Rd. near Hoffman Estates yesterday seeking clues in the still mysterious death of Miss Board and three members of her family.

Gunned down beside her were her mother Marian Corbett, 57, stepfather Paul M. Corbett, 67, and Barbara Board's aunt, Mrs. Dorothy Derry, 60, also visiting the Corbett home.

Sheriff's police said Miss Board had moved from the family estate several weeks ago to her apartment. Barrington Hills police confirmed that she did not live at the family home in the exclusive village.

Miss Board was found dead by her brother Anthony Board, who was returning in a borrowed car to the house. Mrs. Derry also was pronounced dead at the scene. Mr. and Mrs. Corbett died in Sherman Hospital in Elgin.

There was only speculation last night as to the cause of the mass murders. A few expensive household items were reported taken. Corbett's wallet was empty.

The upper bedrooms of the two-story brick home were ransacked.

The Corbetts reportedly had an elaborate burglar alarm system tied into the Barrington Hills Police Department but the system was not activated.

Tickets For Baseball Trip Still Available

Tickets are still available for an Arlington Heights Park District trip to Wrigley Field Tuesday to watch the Cubs take on the Montreal Expos.

Registration is being held at Recreation Park, 800 E. Miner, and tickets for admission and bus transportation are $3 for adults and $2.25 for children.

The bus will leave Recreation Park at 11 a.m. Tuesday.

Organizations Work Toward Establishment Of X-Ray Unit

The Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce together with the village health department is working toward the establishment of a permanent chest X-ray facility in Arlington Heights.

Efforts to locate an X-ray facility here come in the wake of a May announcement by the Suburban Cook County Tuberculosis Sanitarium District that all mobile X-ray vans would be pulled off

Nimrod To Run

Niles Township Republican committeeman John Nimrod will be named as the Republican candidate for the Illinois Senate to replace retiring Sen. John W. (Bill) Carroll of Park Ridge, it was reported yesterday.

Nimrod was chosen by GOP committeemen from the 4th Legislative District over incumbent state representative Eugene F. Schickman of Arlington Heights and Robert S. Juckett of Park Ridge. He was an unsuccessful candidate for the U.S. Congress in the 1968 primary election won by U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane.

Going Topless Is Unlawful—For Your Garbage Cans

If your garbage cans have been going topless lately, you could be raided by the village health department.

Starting this week, the village has asked the Laseke Disposal Co. to begin checking all garbage containers in the village to see that they are equipped with close-fitting covers as required by village ordinance.

Laseke drivers have been asked to keep a list of the locations where there are coverless cans and report violations to the village health department.

Then the following week, beginning Aug. 14, village sanitarians will check back on the listed addresses and condemn cans that still are not properly covered.

The covered can enforcement program is a sanitation measure, according to Frank Charlton, Arlington Heights health services director.

"APPARENTLY many residents do not realize the part that garbage cans play in fly production because some 10 per cent of the garbage cans in the village are now producing maggots due to garbage not being wrapped and cans not being covered," Charlton said.

"We plan to eliminate this health hazard through the survey we have asked Laseke to make, followed by strict enforcement of the village ordinance regarding covers."

A single housefly can lay up to 200 eggs in an open garbage can, eggs that will hatch into maggots in eight hours and become flies within five days, Charlton said.

"One garbage can has been known to produce more than 55,000 flies in seven weeks," he said.

Charlton is confident the fly population in Arlington Heights can be kept to a minimum if garbage cans are kept covered.

If his war on flies is successful, Arlington Heights birds will be able to turn their full attention to this year's bumper crop of mosquitoes.

Admits Burglary At Cleaning Store

A Chicago man, who was one of three men charged with the burglary of an Arlington Heights dry cleaning store, was sentenced to eight months in Cook County jail Friday after he pleaded guilty before Circuit court Judge Anthony J. Scuttillo.

Emmett Perkins, 19, received a combined sentence for his part in a break-in at Nicolaia Tailor and Dry Cleaners on July 31 and for another burglary in the Village of Skokie.

Two other men arrested with Perkins after a high speed chase through Arlington Heights and Rolling Meadows are still awaiting trial.

Park District Planning Program

A New Bobby Fischer In Our Midst?

A novel interest in chess created by Brooklyn's Bobby Fischer has moved at least one suburban library into a stalemate.

Of the 166 books devoted to the game, none rest on the Palatine Library shelves.

"I was looking for one the other day, but they were all checked out," said a reference room librarian. "There has been a new interest since the Boris Spassky-Fischer games" (the world chess championship now being held in Reykjavik, Iceland).

The Rolling Meadows Park District hopes to capitalize on the interest in the game. Officials plan a fall recreation program devoted to chess and are organizing a city chess club.

"AS LONG as we get this thing going while Fischer and Spassky are playing we'll be all right," said Rudy Nelson, park district recreation director. "Once people get into it, I'm sure they will continue. It just took something like this tournament to build it up."

Soon after the world championship began several weeks ago, calls started coming into the park district office asking about the possibility of a chess program, Nelson said.

Businesses in Arlington Heights, which stock chess sets, however, report buying has not increased measurably. Bill Jensen of Mueller's Stationery in the village is sold out, but says he usually is this time of year.

"Maybe it takes too much time to think, not like playing checkers," he said.

ANOTHER MERCHANT in downtown Arlington Heights said, "Fischer hasn't done a thing for us. Kids don't buy the game because of expense. Good sets are $20 and that's too much for them. The small ones are toys."

Walt Schreiber, of the Village Pipe and Tobacco Shop, notes there always has been "a lot of interest in chess in the suburbs." He added that persons are purchasing the more expensive wood-carved and onyx chess sets as household ornaments. "They like the idea of setting them up on coffee tables," he said.

Marshall Field and Co. salesmen at Woodfield in Schaumburg report chess sets selling for $250. At those prices even suburban kids may feel they're getting ripped. Reading about chess is much cheaper.

Swim Team Finishes Fourth In Class D

The Arlington Heights Park District White swim team finished fourth for the season in class D of the Northern Illinois Swim Conference.

The season, which was the first for the team, closed last week with a meet at Olympic Pool.

Dixon O'Brien was the outstanding swimmer for Arlington with two first place finishes in the boys 13 and 14-year-old division. Other first place finishers were Ron Rothhaar and Tim Pleune. Rothhaar and Pleune combined with Pete Cormier and Kevin Kecher to win the 200 yd. free relay.

Second place finishers were Carol Hoffnagle, Bob Bosley, Dan Rothhaar, George Dodgen and Amy Abbott.

Ogilvie Talks To Big Crowd

The expansion of Alexian Brothers Medical Center shows what can be done by charitable groups and private citizens to meet the health needs of the people of the state, Illinois Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie said Sunday at groundbreaking ceremonies for the $9 million addition to the hospital in Elk Grove Village.

Ogilvie told a crowd of more than 150 persons that the hospital's building program "refutes the idea that only government can meet the needs of the people."

The groundbreaking at the hospital site off Bluestem Road marked the start of construction of a five-story ambulatory care center and a two-story community health building to be completed in late 1974.

The Northwest suburbs is one of the fastest growing areas in the state, and medical facilities like Alexian Brothers Hospital must grow to meet the increased demand for health care, the governor said.

Ogilvie praised the Alexian Brothers for "an unwavering commitment to serve others," and said the building program was a "milestone in the service of this splendid medical center."

He added that the state was attempting to come to grips with the skyrocketing cost of medical care in Springfield, but he did not elaborate on what actions the state was taking.

Before digging out the first shovel-full of dirt to officially mark the start of construction, John Cardinal Cody, archbishop of Chicago, said the expansion program was due to the dedication of the Alexian Brothers to administer to the sick.

The medical facility is one way the church is endeavoring to become a part of the community and serve all the people, no matter what race, creed or color, Cardinal Cody said. He added that Alexian Brothers Medical Center was one of 23 hospitals in the archdiocese of Chicago.

The existing hospital building, which opened in 1968, will be the core of the new medical center. The pavilion for community health and ambulatory care center, connected to the main building, will house an emergency care complex five times larger than current facilities.

2 Cars Collide

Minor injuries resulted from a two-car collision Saturday at intersection of New Wilke Road and Algonquin Road.

Arlington Heights police report James Wegner, 18, of 708 Can-Dota, Mount Prospect, and Elmer Johnson, 58, of 772 S. 6th, Des Plaines, refused medical treatment following the collision.

Wegner's car was westbound on Algonquin Road when the car driven by Johnson apparently entered the intersection, causing the collision.

Johnson was cited by police for failure to yield the right of way.

Area Pair Stabbed At Camp

Two area teenagers were attacked and stabbed seriously late last week while on a camping trip in a remote region of Wyoming.

The boys were attacked by a man reportedly wanted by California police in connection with the stabbing murder of a 14-year-old California girl.

Daniel Kotel, 18, Mount Prospect, and Russell Hughes, 17, Palatine, were attacked at their campsite 36 miles east of Worland, Wyo. Thursday night Kotel was stabbed twice in the abdomen and Hughes suffered 7 stab wounds to the chest and stomach areas.

Both boys were reported improving in a Wyoming hospital yesterday.

Sheriff's police arrested 28-year-old Weldon Mead Kennedy Friday after a high speed auto chase, ending a three-hour ground search for the alleged assailant. Kennedy reported wrecked his car in the chase and fled on foot before police made the arrest Friday.

ACCORDING to police, Kennedy is wanted for the alleged murder of a 14-year-old girl in Union City, Calif. Police are holding Kennedy in Worland, Wyo. until formal charges and extradition proceedings are completed.

Daniel Kotel was in surgery at Washakie County Hospital Friday. Russell Hughes' father, Raymond, contacted yesterday at his son's bedside in Washakie County Hospital, said the boys were backpacking in the Wyoming hills. It was the first day of a planned two-week trip, he said.

"At first the boys were in rather serious condition," he added. "Now it looks like they are rapidly improving and we hope to bring them home soon."

Parents of the boys arrived in Wyoming Friday.

After the stabbing, the boys apparently contacted persons at a nearby fish hatchery and were given aid and later hospitalized.

Hughes' father was on a camping trip in Waukesha, Wis., when contacted by Palatine police.

Organizations Work Toward Establishment Of X-Ray Unit

the Arlington Heights X-ray office would be available to Northwest suburban residents in October.

Johnson said the unit would likely serve residents from as far north as Barrington and as far west as Schaumburg.

According to the field director of the Suburban Cook County Tuberculosis Sanitarium District, Dr. Edward A. Diszczek, the mobile units are being phased out because of a recently issued federal report which criticized radiation levels in and around mobile X-ray units.

DR. DISZCZEK has said that while he does not think that the federal report, prepared by the American College of Radiology and the National Tuberculosis Association, totally applies to mobile units in suburban Cook County, the roving units will be phased out.

Dr. Diszczek said yesterday that besides persons who may be afflicted with a chronic cough or cold, the X-ray installation would serve hundreds of people employed as barbers, food handlers, hospital and nursing home employees and other licensed professionals who are required to get a chest X-ray.

"The population area around Arlington Heights is growing intensely and the chest X-ray is still a good case finding technique," he said.

Last year there were 223 reported cases of tuberculosis in suburban Cook County out of a population of 2.2 million.

In addition to detecting tuberculosis, chest X-rays are useful in detecting other diseases or chest abnormalities such as cancer, emphysema and enlarged heart, Dr. Diszczek said.

Library Is Still Busy, But Youths Are Missing

The Arlington Heights Memorial Library has been a busy place this summer, but it's a different kind of busy than during the school year, according to Katherine Shackley, reference librarian. "The students are missing," she said.

Circulation-wise, the library has not taken a vacation this summer. In July, 56,994 books were circulated, along with 14,764 other items including magazines, records, slides, tapes, pamphlets and movies. The average monthly book circulation is 50,000.

The waiting lists for books on the top 10 best seller list are 10 to 25 names deep, according to Mrs. Shackley.

"HOT" BOOKS include "The Word" by Irving Wallace, "Winds of War" by Herman Wouk, "Captains and Kings" by Taylor Caldwell, "A Portion for Foxes" by James McClary and "The Exorcist" by William Blatty.

Patrons of the Arlington Heights library who try to use their library cards at other area libraries under the new reciprocal borrowing program will find that the waiting lists for the popular books are just as long at other suburban libraries. There's a five-week wait for "The Exorcist" at the Rolling Meadows public library.

Determining what Arlington Heights readers are checking out of the library is a difficult task since a new check out system was developed early this year.

"Instead of stamping the dates on the checkout cards, we now take a picture of the card, so we can't really tell how many times a book has been checked out," said Mrs. Shackley. "From looking at the number of books that come back to all sections, however, it looks like all sections of the library are being well used."

According to the circulation department, however, fiction books have been checked out more than nonfiction during past summers, and they think the trend is continuing this summer.

"I also think that travel and outdoor books are being checked out more during the summer than during the school year," said Mrs. Shackley.

WITH TWO NEW programs, the children's department is also doing a booming business this summer, according to Ruth Griffith, head of the children's department.

Besides 785 children registered in the annual summer reading program, a puppet workshop and junior high school reading program have stepped up business for the children's section.

"We've been busy all summer, and I expect we'll be even busier as the summer comes to an end and children begin drifting back to the library to find something to do," said Mrs. Griffith.

Of the 22,000 books checked out of the children's department during the past month, Charlie Brown books, Dr. Seuss, Nancy Drew and sports books have dominated the flow.

GROUNDBREAKING CEREMONIES Sunday marked the start of construction of the $9 million expansion program of Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village. Looking at the bulldozer's first scoop of dirt

Adventures of your Garbageman

Life with the public is never dull. Serving nearly 5,000 homes every day, we expect a few complaints. Often, it's customer misunderstanding — sometimes, it's driver error.

When we get a complaint, we usually have a field man stop at the home within the hour, to check on the problem, and to explain or rectify, as needed. Most people, of course, welcome this prompt courtesy.

But not always. Like the other day. When the lady answered the doorbell and our man started to say "Ma'am, I'm from Laseke Disposal, and I hear you've had a problem" — but this was as far as he got, because she slammed the door in his face.

Sometimes you can't win.

Eight-Story $1.7 Million Bldg. On City's Agenda

The Des Plaines City Council is expected to consider approval of a new eight-story, $1.7 million city hall building at its meeting tonight.

Still unresolved is the matter of a basement fallout shelter-Civil Defense center that by itself would add an estimated $200,000 to the cost of city hall, in addition to the extra expense of digging a full basement for the building.

Mayor Herbert Behrel said Friday that if the council approves the shelter concept, officials will have to seek bids for construction of the building both with and without the shelter.

The city would then apply for federal funds, which will pay about half the cost of building and equipping the shelter, according to Civil Defense director Richard Arthur.

Also on the agenda tonight are the first reading of ordinances declaring roaming cats to be a nuisance and requiring dog owners to show proof that their pets have been inoculated for rabies when they apply for city dog licenses.

THE NEW CAT law, aimed at house cats that become a nuisance when allowed to run loose, would provide fines for owners if their pets interfere with the rights and property of others.

Maximum fine under the ordinance, according to City Clerk Eleanor Rohrbach, would be $500.

The new dog law, Mrs. Rohrbach said, will require owners to show proof that their pet has been inoculated from a veterinarian or the county rabies control department when they apply each year for a city dog license.

The council, which will begin its meeting at 8 o'clock in the municipal building, 1412 Miner St., has also scheduled at 7:30 p.m. hearing on the proposed annexation of Joseph Lumber Co., 1221-1311 Rand Rd.

The company plans to build two 30,000- to 40,000-square-foot industrial buildings if the property is annexed, according to Mrs. Rohrbach, who said a city water main has already been extended to the site.

Subject of the hearing will be an annexation agreement that would allow variations from some city ordinances, she said.

The proposed city hall building, to be located at 1422-28 Miner St., adjacent to the former main fire station, would be developed under what officials describe as a unique private-public condominium arrangement.

Under proposed plans, the city would own and occupy the first four floors of the structure, with a private developer, Smith-Pipenhagen, Realtors, of Arlington Heights, owning the top four floors.

The city's share of the $1.7 million cost would be about $972,500, according to estimates from the architects, Holmes and Fox, of Des Plaines. The privately-owned portion of the structure, to be leased as office space, would be subject to real estate taxes.

BEHREL SAID last week that there has been no final decision made on financing the city-owned portion of the building. Officials will have to decide whether a mortgage loan or a special bond issue would be more favorable, he said.

The proposal for the fallout shelter, intended to keep city government functioning

Former Alderman Hinde Will Rejoin Council Tonight

Former alderman Robert Hinde is expected to rejoin the city council tonight, replacing his former Fourth Ward colleague, Morgan O'Brien, who died July 9.

Hinde, who resigned last October citing the press of business responsibilities, has been named to the vacant council seat by Mayor Herbert Behrel and is expected to receive routine approval from the city's aldermen.

Hinde, 361 Oxford Rd., was chairman of the important finance and insurance committee when he resigned last year. A consistent supporter of Mayor Behrel in council matters, Hinde had been reelected to a second four-year term as Fourth Ward Alderman in April, 1971.

O'Brien had been named to the council in 1970, replacing Ald. Russel Figard (4th), who died July 5 of that year. After Hinde resigned last year, his seat was filled by Ald. Daniel Kissinger (4th).

HINDE, who has a local carpeting and floor covering business, was first elected to city council in 1967. He has served as a Republican precinct captain and vice president of the Cumberland Terrace

Robert Hinde

Civic Association

His resignation from city council last year came after a controversy over five youths, including Hinde's son, Thomas, who had been hired for city summer jobs that were paid in part with anti-poverty funds.

The money was returned after the Herald disclosed the existence of the jobs and the Better Government Assn. later blamed the hirings on administrative bungling and said no fraud was involved.

'High Level' Session Becomes Political Tussle

Young, Mikva Clash In Second Debate

by KATHLEEN JANUCHOWSKI

It started as a bipartisan discussion of the moral and ethical problems of government.

But the debate between 10th District congressional candidates Samuel Young and U.S. Rep. Abner Mikva, D-Ill., Friday night soon broke down into a political tussle.

Young, the Republican candidate from Glenview, accused Mikva of backing special interest groups and corrupt elements of the Democratic Party. Mikva attacked Young for his support of the Nixon administration, charging the President with budgetary mismanagement and immorality in his conduct of the Vietnam War.

The two contenders met before an audience of about 325 persons at Congregation Solel in Highland Park in the second of some 14 scheduled debates before the November election.

Robert Eckhaus, a synagogue official and moderator of the debate, asked both men at the start of the session to confine their comments to a bipartisan discussion of morality and ethics in government. Questions from the floor, he told the audience, should avoid political implications.

IT STARTED OUT that way, with Mikva and Young using terms like "malfeasance" in discussions of governmental performance. But encouraged by sharply divided partisan audience, both men soon strayed into a sometimes heated political debate on deficit spending, U.S. support of Israel and South Vietnam, anti-trust laws, Congressional reform and the Congress' role in foreign affairs.

In response to a question, Mikva condemned the Vietnam War as "an immoral act under both (the Nixon and Johnson) administrations" and urged strengthened U.S. aid to the Israeli government.

"We, the Congress, have the obligation and the authority to end the war," Mikva said. "If I am reelected, I will continue to work against the war movement."

Strong applause came from the audience when Mikva said American aid should be used to support democracies fighting off attacks from the outside, not corrupt governments engaged in civil wars.

Young declared that history will view Nixon's administration as a brilliant era in foreign affairs.

"The President knows best when it comes to foreign affairs and the military," Young said. "The war would have been over a year ago if Nixon had had a unified nation behind him while he was trying to negotiate a peace in Vietnam."

Mikva criticized, and Young supported, the role of Presidential adviser Henry Kissinger in foreign policy formation.

"IT IS UP TO the man in the White House as to how he deals with his cabinet members but policy cannot be made by a non-elected official," said Mikva, who said he believes Congress should set foreign policy.

"Kissinger is a credit to the Nixon administration," said Young. "I have known Richard Nixon since 1952 and I can tell you that President Nixon makes up his own mind. Kissinger isn't telling him what to do."

The two candidates also clashed sharply over the projected deficit in the federal budget. Young said federal spending has increased at a slower rate under Nixon than during the previous Democratic administrations. The deficit for 1973 will only be $25 billion, he said.

MIKVA THEN said Young should "get his figures right" and not try to "put the smack on Congress' back." He said the federal deficit will be $38 billion, "the biggest deficit in three years and the greatest under any president in peacetime."

The evening began quietly with both men speaking against corruption in government and declaring support for income and assets disclosure laws for public officials.

Mikva condemned what he called the "Illinois legacy of Paul Powells and Orville Hodges" and said public officials should show "not just dollar honesty but intellectual honesty."

Young also denounced Powell and Hodge, both Democrats, and then turned the tables on Mikva by grinning broadly at him and saying Powell "had been elected secretary of state without my help." Powell died with a shoe box fortune of apparently ill-gotten cash and Hodge, former state auditor, was convicted of stealing public funds.

Mikva, who moved from Chicago to Evanston to run for reelection in the new district, later denied any connection with either man. Mikva also rebutted charges by Young that organized labor interests are backing him.

Contract Talks Delayed Until Start Of School

Teacher and school board bargaining teams in River Trails Dist. 28 will probably wait until after school begins to resume talks in teacher contract negotiations.

River Trails Education Association (RTEA) Pres. Gary Rathgeber has asked the board for an Aug. 28 meeting. But Richard Zwieback, professional school board negotiator, said the board bargaining team would rather wait until after school has started to resume negotiations.

"WE HAD hoped to be meeting much sooner," Zwieback said, "but the fact that the teachers are waiting until the end of August shows that they're not too concerned that the contract get settled."

"We don't want anybody to feel that we're waiting for a contract to expire. But it's very difficult for administrators to meet at the time specified by the RTEA. It's a very busy time, just getting ready for school. If the teachers are not in a hurry to meet, probably a week or two after school begins would be convenient for both parties."

Lloyd Demel, school board president, said he would have liked the negotiations to have started earlier also, but "I don't know if it makes any difference now if it's the last week in August or the first week in September."

"We'RE ALL interested in sitting down and getting this resolved, as long as we get a date that doesn't present a hardship to either side," he said.

The RTEA could not meet earlier, according to Rathgeber, because some members of the bargaining team were out of town.

Rathgeber said he is agreeable to waiting until after school begins as long as the teachers' contracts do not expire.

Zwieback guaranteed that current teacher salaries and fringe benefits will be maintained until a contract agreement is reached. Once that is done, any agreement will become retroactive to the beginning of the school year, he said.

$3 Million Budget Approved For River Trails District

A tentative budget of more than $3 million has been approved for the 1972-73 fiscal year by the River Trails Dist. 28 School Board.

According to state law, the budget will remain on public view for 30 days. At the end of that time the board will hold a public hearing and make final approval.

Included in the $3 million budget is a tentative deficit of $385,713, to be made up with tax anticipation warrants money the district will borrow on expected tax receipts.

The approximately $2.7 million education fund shows a potential deficit of $328,877. However, teacher's salaries still are under negotiation and could add appreciably to this deficit figure once a settlement is reached.

OTHER DEFICITS are included in the building fund ($30,933) and transportation fund ($17,442). The budget also includes a deficit of $1,579 in the Illinois Municipal Retirement Fund, but, according to Jean Meister, business manager for the board, warrants may not have to be used to cover this deficit.

"If we had to go to tax warrants, we'd probably cover this in the tax warrant from the educational fund," Mrs. Meister explained. "But I think that probably will not occur. The IMRF fund tends to be slightly padded."

Other funds included in the total budget are: rent, $24,400; working cash, $38,464; and bond and interest, $312,375.

A final hearing on the budget is tentatively scheduled for the first week in September.

THE PROPOSED city hall for Des Plaines, shown in this latest artist's drawing, will come up again for approval at tonight's city council meeting. The building, designed by Holmes and Fox, Architects, would feature a unique condominium ownership arrangement, with the city owning four floors and a private developer owning and leasing the remaining four floors.

Area Pair Stabbed At Camp

Two area teenagers were attacked and stabbed seriously late last week while on a camping trip in a remote region of Wyoming.

The boys were attacked by a man reportedly wanted by California police in connection with the stabbing murder of a 14-year-old California girl.

Daniel Kotel, 19, Mount Prospect, and Russell Hughes, 17, Palestine, were attacked at their campsite 35 miles east of Worland, Wyo. Thursday night. Kotel was stabbed twice in the abdomen and Hughes suffered 7 stab wounds to the chest and stomach areas.

Both boys were reported improving in a Wyoming hospital yesterday.

Sheriff's police arrested 28-year-old Weldon Mead Kennedy Friday after a high speed auto chase, ending a three-hour ground search for the alleged assailant. Kennedy reportedly wrecked his car in the chase and fled on foot before police made the arrest Friday.

ACCORDING TO police, Kennedy is wanted for the alleged murder of a 14-year-old girl in Union City, Calif. Police are holding Kennedy in Worland, Wyo. until formal charges and extradition proceedings are completed.

Daniel Kotel was in surgery at Washakie County Hospital Friday.

Russell Hughes' father, Raymond, contacted yesterday at his son's bedside in Washakie County Hospital, said the boys were backpacking in the Wyoming hills. It was the first day of a planned two-week trip, he said.

"At first the boys were in rather serious condition," he added. "Now it looks like they are rapidly improving and we hope to bring them home soon."

Parents of the boys arrived in Wyoming Friday.

After the stabbing, the boys apparently contacted persons at a nearby fish hatchery and were given aid and later hospitalized.

Hughes' father was on a camping trip in Waukesha, Wis., when contacted by Palestine police.

Weekend Outing Ends In Tragedy

A casual weekend evening visit at her parent's plush country home in Barrington Hills meant a violent death for 22-year-old Barbara Board, a recent resident of the Northwest suburbs and one of the victims in Friday's mass slaying at the home of Paul Corbett.

Miss Board recently moved to an apartment in Hoffman Estates, according to police reports. Sheriff's police detectives were at her apartment at 909 Jones Rd. near Hoffman Estates yesterday seeking clues in the still mysterious death of Miss Board and three members of her family.

Guanoed down beside her were her mother Marlene Corbett, 57, stepfather Paul M. Corbett, 47, and Barbara Board's aunt, Mrs. Dorothy Derry, 60, also visiting the Corbett home.

Sheriff's police said Miss Board had moved from the family estate several weeks ago to her apartment. Barrington Hills police confirmed that she did not live at the family home in the exclusive village.

Miss Board was found dead by her brother Anthony Board, who was returning in a borrowed car to the house. Mrs. Derry also was pronounced dead at the scene. Mr. and Mrs. Corbett died in Sherman Hospital in Elgin.

There was only speculation last night as to the cause of the mass murders. A few expensive household items were reported taken. Corbett's wallet was empty.

The upper bedrooms of the two-story brick home were ransacked.

Country Fair Set

The ninth annual United Methodist Campground Country Fair will be held next Saturday on the campground site River and Algonquin roads, Des Plaines.

The fair will feature art and jewelry booths, a leather shop, food and game booths as well as many other fair activities.

Scouting News

Cumberland's Troop 48 responded to its community's crisis July 15. After the extensive winds of the previous day's storm devastated their neighborhood, the Scouts were out doing their "good deed" helping neighbors and strangers clean-up the area. The boys were led by "Mac" MacCrimble, Scoutmaster, Bob Webber, committee chairman, and Dick Kemplak, assistant Scoutmaster.

Several mothers made a lunch for the boys, and after the scouts finished all the food available they went back to work. The scouts worked for over seven hours Saturday and helped the rest of the week.

Scoutmaster MacCrimble felt the boys did an excellent job and was very proud of their efforts. They have been at summer camp in northern Wisconsin.

CUB SCOUT Pack 14 held its junior olympics contests at Maine West's football field July 28.

After the presentation of colors and the pledge to the flag were given, the rules of the events were announced. The boys were divided into 8, 9, and 10-year-old age groups and first, second, and third place medals were awarded.

The winners were as follows: Javelin — First, Jim Bistany, Doug Balut, Mike Brennen; second, Jim Brennen, Steve Anderson, Fred Clement; third, Brian Chamberlain, John Peterson, Mike Miller.

Discus — First, Jim Bistany, Steve Anderson, Fred Clement; second, Jim Brennen, Jeff Higgins, Mike Brennen; third, Brian Chamberlain, Doug Balut, Ron Feldman.

Shotput — First, Jim Bistany, Doug Balut, Chris Grzebleniak; second, John Grishan, Steve Anderson, Fred Clement; third, Brian Chamberlain, John Peterson, Mike Brennen.

50-yd. dash — First, Jim Brennen, Steve Anderson, Ron Feldman; second, Brian Chamberlain, Greg Wolfinger, Chris Grzebleniak; third, John Grishan, Joseph Libretti, Fred Clement.

Obstacle Course — First, Brian Chamberlain, John Peterson, Mike Miller; second, John Grishan, John Lutgens, Mike Brennen; third, Jim Brennen, Steve Anderson, Ron Feldman.

THESE EVENTS were planned by Jud Higgins, Don Miller, and Janice and Paul Lutgens. All of the fathers present participated in the judging of the events and were thanked for their help by Cubmaster Anderson.

Ed Karpel, awards chairman, presented the Sportsman award to Fred Clement, Webelos den.

The next pack meeting will be held Aug. 18 at Dam No. 4 picnic area across from Maine South High School at 8:30. A corn roast and cookout is planned for this meeting.

Pack 14 is planning a garage sale to be held Aug. 19 and 20 at Forest School.

8-Story Building On City Agenda

ing during extreme emergencies, comes despite indications from officials that the fourth city-owned floor in the building will be virtually empty.

If constructed without the fallout shelter, the building would need only a small basement area," according to architect Richard Fox. The shelter, which Arthur estimates would require 4,000 square feet of space, would necessitate construction of a full basement, Fox said Friday.

The additional $200,000 cost — estimated by Arthur using the architect's figures of a $40-per-square-foot cost for the rest of building — does not include excavation or redesign costs or other expenses for equipment.

The planned 55-person shelter would replace a 25-year-old facility in the basement of the present city hall. A $5,000 federal-state matching grant has been awarded for planning the shelter although city council has not voted formally to authorize the project.

McCaffrey Advances To Fellowship Status

James R. McCaffrey, director of professional services at Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines, has advanced to fellowship status in the American College of Hospital Administrators.

The Holy Family management executive was one of 76 members advanced this year to fellowship status, highest of three grades of membership in ACHA. The professional society is comprised of 9,500 leading hospital and health care administrative personnel in the United States and Canada.

Convocation ceremonies were a highlight of the society's annual meeting in conjunction with the American Hospital Association American Health Congress in Chicago.

McCaffrey joined the Holy Family staff in June, 1967, after serving five years as administrator of Iberia Parish Hospital, New Iberia, La.

Fox said in June that addition of the basement required by the shelter "makes quite a difference" in the building plans, forcing a number of design changes.

Former Rider Declares:

Agent Can 'Make' A Jockey

by DOUG RAY

Thoroughbred jockeys are like movie stars — a good agent can make them famous.

At least that's Jerry McGrath's observation after having been in the saddle for seven years and in the horse racing business all of his adult life.

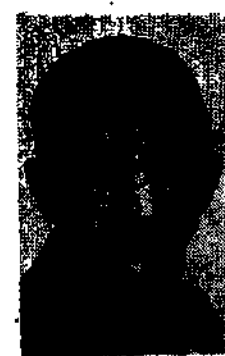

"Some of these guys (jockeys) have been around for 15 years and all of a sudden they hit it lucky. . . an agent gets him the right mount. It's like show business, they get a break and have it made."

Admittedly too plump to ride today, McGrath, 30, makes his home in Palestine, where hanging on the wall of the living room is a photo taken during his jockeying days. Decked out in the stable colors, he stands in the winner's circle.

McGRATH'S LIFE horse racing began when he was a boy in Brooklyn. He visited a nearby race track "saw a race and knew it was for me. He admits jockeying is "sometimes heartbreaking and disheartening. But when you're a winner it's great."

Retired as a jockey in 1966 he now works as an exercise rider at Arlington Park and other Chicago tracks during the racing season. During the off-season McGrath trains horses for a Barrington rancher.

The function of an exercise rider is the opposite of race riding, he said. "You get all you can out of a horse during the race, but during exercise he shouldn't be tested. Just kept in shape.

"There is as much pride in seeing a horse win that you trained as in riding a winner," he says. "But you never know if a horse will be a winner while breaking him in."

HE RECALLS a particular incident a few years ago, when he was asked an opinion on the future of a young thoroughbred named Proudland Land.

"A wealthy trainer asked me what I thought about the horse. . . I said not much," McGrath laughed. "The horse went on to earn a half million dollars."

Horse racing, he feels, is as much a gamble for the trainers as for those placing wagers at Arlington Park's mutual windows. "Horses have been bought for $20,000 and only won one race in a lifetime. It's hard to tell how good they're gonna be."

And McGrath says a horse's ability to win changes from day to day. "You have to play it by ear. . . you can't overtrain and then you'll have to keep them in shape."

Horse racing has changed over the years. "There has been reform. . . it used to be that another jockey could bump a horse" or jostle a competitor. "Filming of the races has taken the roughness out of the game."

His winter job breaking in thoroughbreds in Barrington is, however, less rough and tumble than most would believe. "A horse seldom gives much trouble," he said. "By the time you mount, they already know the basics."

HORSES ARE his first love but chess ranks a close second. He plays at least three times a week and is a member of the United States Chess Federation.

"I began playing chess as a boy," he said. "To be good, a person must keep hammering away at it just like racing."

He takes chess seriously. On a table sits a thick book devoted entirely to the opening moves.

"A good chess player is a lot like a thoroughbred," he said. It takes the right attitude, emotional stability and intelligence to be a winner.

Fashion

by Genie

Fashion has something to say for every occasion, sport or event. It just depends upon how much you care. One need not own tennis whites to play a match. Proper dress has no effect on performance only on appearance.

As every sport, skiing, golfing and swimming to name a few, has gradually attracted the masses, clothing manufacturers have been quick in line to promote new fashions and update them each year.

Even bikinis subtly change in styling. This year's favorite model is the three-ringer.

Bicycling, the age-old do-your-own-pedaling kind of transportation, has been the most recent sport to reach status symbol proportions.

Bicycling is often favored over other sports because skill and practice are not required. One needs only a bike (10-speed to be with it) and a bicycling outfit (to look really with it).

SEVERAL SWEATERMAKERS have made way for the new craze by including a group of bicycle-geared tops in their most recent collections. These include a variety of hip-length capes which adequately clear the wheels and spokes.

Capes are layered over matching sweaters which in turn layer over turtle-neck tops for extra warmth when cool autumn weather breezes in.

Some bicyclists, in particular those who have transportation problems, will even be out pedaling this winter.

T-shirts and sweaters with color-slice inserts or placed stripes of very obvious colors are the standard tops for cycling. Women most often couple them with hot pants and knee socks for summer spins when they want to look the part of the well-dressed cyclist.

But watch out for the wide flairs. They can easily become entangled between the spokes. Perhaps bicyclists will ultimately influence a return to straight-legged pants.

The complete secrets of the Bonsai art will be told at the show in three days of intensive lecturing and demonstrating by Kaneji Domoto, the western world's leading Bonsai authority.

The show is free to the public. Hours are 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily.

Dear Dorothy: I vaguely remember something about what to do for an odor left by a cat "spraying," but can't remember the exact instructions. My granddaughter's cat has been using a certain corner in a room and the odor is terrible. We have used every kind of deodorizer with no success. Do you know?—Mrs. J.B.

As far as I know, there is no solution for certain odors — and one caused by a "spraying" cat is one of them. A faint odor can often be eliminated by covering the area either with the granules used to line kitten boxes or activated charcoal granules. A neutralizing solution with either vinegar or household ammonia helps some. Mr. Edd Frazier finally used a few drops of wintergreen. You know, of course, that humid weather often bring back certain animal odors.

Tip to Young Mothers: So that you don't have to worry about a youngster pulling a plastic bag out of the wastebasket and possibly pulling it over himself, tie the bag into one or two knots before throwing it away.

Dear Dorothy: This is for the reader with two different-size feet. I've found it's easier to fit the larger foot and have the shoe clerk put an insert into the other shoe.—Mrs. Dorothy Woodbury flies, pancakes or omelets the next day.—Mrs. Thomas W.

Dear Dorothy: I used to worry about how many ears of corn to cook for my family. Then decided having any left over wouldn't be too bad when found the leftovers could be added to fritters, waf-

When an occasional ear of corn is left over, I put it on in cold water and let it come to the boiling point. With butter and salt it's almost as good as the first time around.

Bellwood Legion Ousts Lions From County Play

by JIM COOK

They weren't selling runs at the concession stand adjacent to the Northbrook Legion diamond where the Cook County playoffs were unfolding.

Logan Square would certainly have come up with enough money to purchase two tallies — even of the cheap, unearned variety. The transaction would mean that the Lions would still be alive in the double-elimination tournament and eligible for the finals Sunday.

But Logan Square didn't pay the price on the field where runs are much more costly and were forced out of further competition by Bellwood, 4-3.

The defeat was the second for the Lions who suffered extinction by a heart-breaking 1-0 verdict against Northbrook and Saturday's 4-3 decision against Bellwood.

And it wasn't because opportunity didn't knock. As they had in 1-0 thriller, potential scoring chances arrived either when the Lions weren't home or when they didn't answer.

Maybe the disappointing hangover from the Northbrook defeat still hung like a cloud over the Lion dogmat. The team was in a scoring-draught trance — a spell that infected the characteristically hard-hitting club immediately following an impressive three-game sweep of the Ninth District Tourney.

It's not that Bellwood didn't belong in the top-caliber competition — only that it probably would be in Logan Square's position had the latter played the ball it's capable of playing.

Bellwood scraggly pecked away at Terry Smith — coach Larry Nemellini's choice in the crucial no-tomorrow contest — with hits in each of the first four innings.

Smith's initial test came in the second frame when he was solved for back-to-back leadoff singles by Bellwood's pinch-er Rick Rochetti and Tim Verpaale. The righthanded chucker wiggled free, though, on a pop to the first baseman, a routine fly to center and an important strikeout.

Bellwood stubbornly came right back in the third as Smith sank into quicksand via two walks sandwiched around a single. The scoreless deadlock vanished when Bill Sykora drilled a two-run single to right and the Lions were faced with the unfamiliar task of playing catchup baseball.

Stan Bobowski, probably the most consistent hitter for Logan Square all season, eased some of the pain by rocketing the tournament's first home run deep over the rightfield fence to shave the margin in half, 3-1.

Bellwood responded immediately. After Smith retired one, an error, stolen base and single to left restored the two-run bulge that loomed bigger and bigger as the innings grew fewer and fewer.

The middle frames were uneventful only in that no scoring took place. Smith had regained the groove and knocked down the side in both the fifth and sixth innings while the Lions, by stranding three more baserunners, continued to taste frustration.

When Bellwood increased its cushion to 4-1 via a Don Moceri homer in the bottom of the seventh, the thought of elimination sparked new vigor into the desperate Lions.

The bench came alive in the eighth when pinch-hitter Terry Moriarty coaxed a full-count pass to lead off the frame and when Ken Martin slugged a run-scoring double up the left centerfield power alley, shades of a game-winning rally became more distinct.

Mike Cook, Thursday's hero of Logan Square's opening round 4-3 triumph over Calumet City, responded with a single in another pinch-hitting role to put the tying markers on base with still nobody out.

But then the plague — the scoring drought — made its mirage-like appearance. The next three Lion hitters were retired quickly and quietly.

The recovery room became active again in the ninth as Logan Square stepped back against the wall. Joe Bombicino beat out an infield hit and scampered to second on a wild throw.

Steve Bobowski kept the heat palpating with a run-scoring single to right and when Tom Chapman sacrificed the potential tying rally to second for only the first out, it appeared as if the Lions had shunned their crippling disease.

Mike Garbus, still another pinch-hitter, reached on a boot at third to represent the winning marker, but it also represented the end of the line.

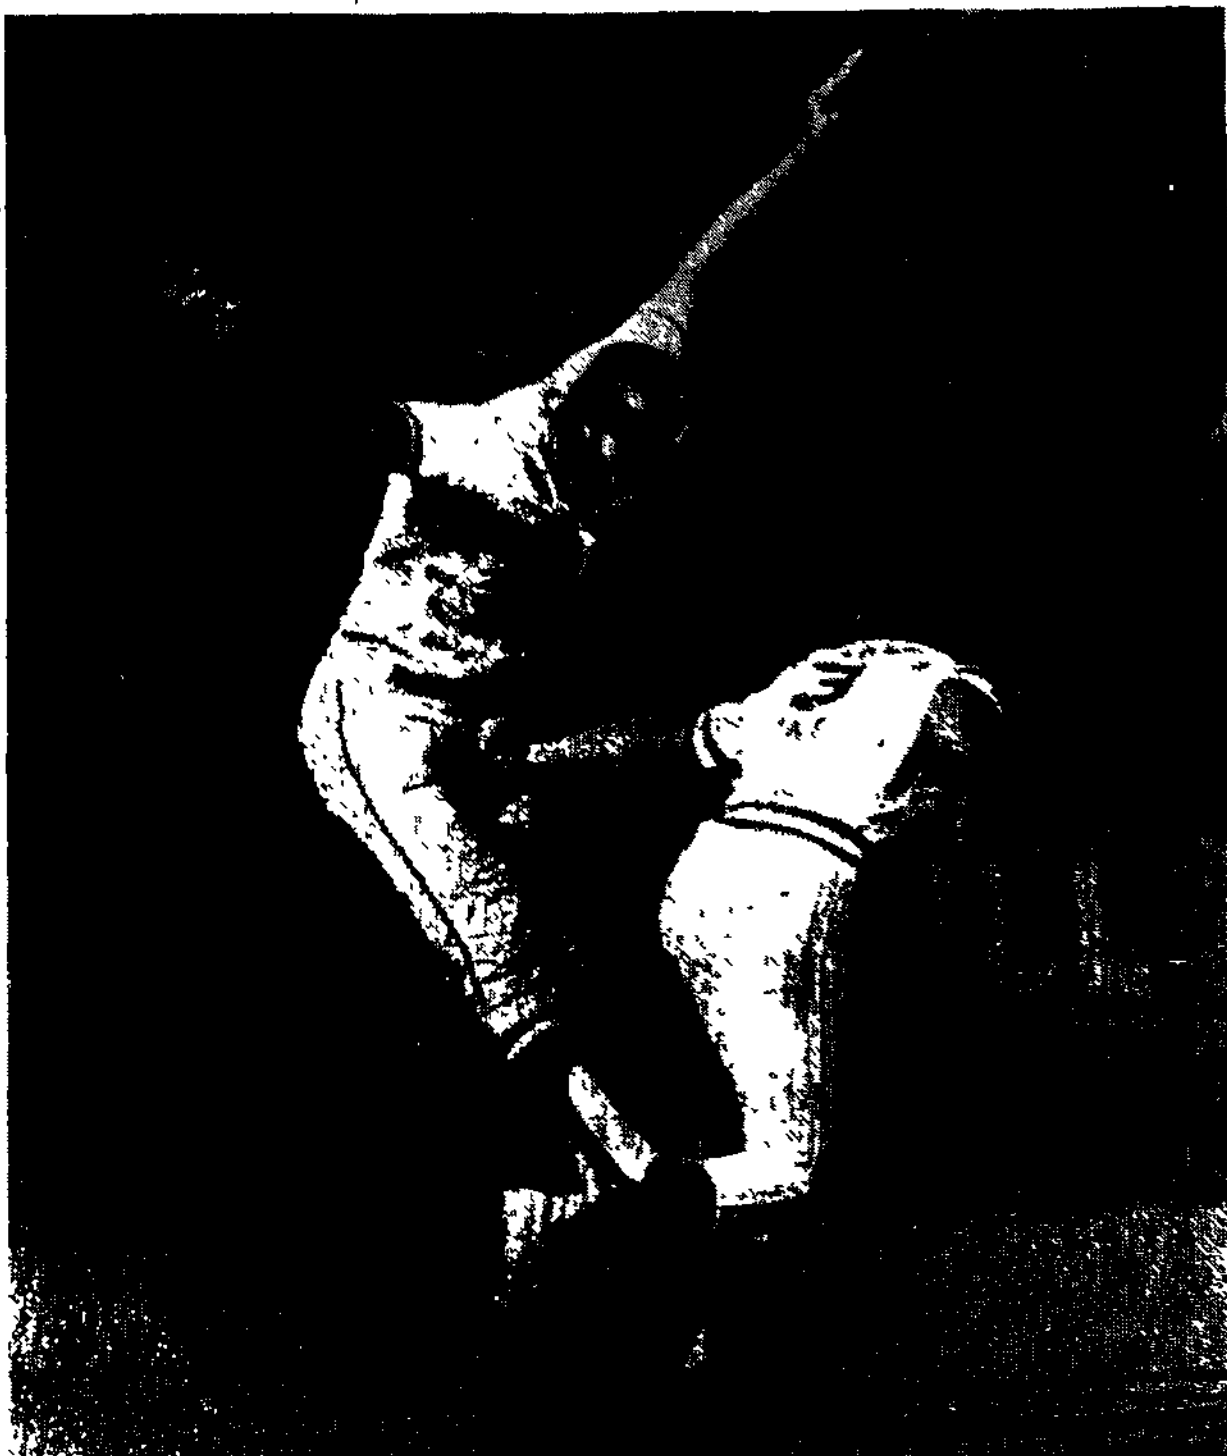

Martin forced Garbus at second and relief pitcher Jim Miller grounded to second to end the threat, the game and the tournament season for Logan Square.

The Lions still have Park Ridge scheduled at home tonight in hopes of capturing a share of the regular-season Ninth District championship.

EVADING THE ISSUE: Logan Square's Steve Bobowski leaps to avoid tag by Bellwood third baseman Rick Bett, but Steve was ruled out as were the Lions after a 4-3 setback in the Cook County Tournament.

by JIM COOK

Everything was of major league caliber — the lights, the field, the crowd. But mostly the teams.

"I'd have paid two dollars to see these two teams play," one observer said. "You throw in a couple of beer vendors and maybe an exploding scoreboard and you couldn't have asked for anything else," commented another.

The professional atmosphere was created by Northbrook and Logan Square during a very attractive night engagement that concluded first-round play in the Cook County American Legion Tournament.

The clubs had traded identical 4-3 decisions during the regular season, but the addition of an elimination factor in the County playoffs lifted this game to a pedestal of an acute rivalry.

The 1-0 nine-inning Northbrook triumph had scouts running out of ink, notebook paper and superlatives. The Lion defeat stung the loss column to be sure. One more appearance by Logan Square on the short end of the stick meant cleaning out the lockers.

Morale, confidence and encouragement shouldn't have been shaken. A fraction of an inch or a split second the other way could easily have reversed the score. That's the kind of game it was.

The Lions, to begin with, were at considerable odds as soon as they took the well-manicured field before a crowd that lined the baselines in both directions, spilled over in the deficiently-sized stands and even took up bleacher residence in automobiles on the shoulder of distant Waukegan Road.

Northbrook was making its initial appearance in the tourney and had its ace pitcher fresh on the sidelines — the result of a weird opening bye procedure that automatically goes to the host post.

Logan Square, meanwhile, had already endured a physically and mentally draining 3-2 triumph over Calumet City earlier in the day during a steady drizzle and raw north wind.

But the Lions, who have relied on pitching depth through a grueling 50-game regular-season schedule, enthusiastically answered the bell.

Southpaw-slinging Mike Cook got the nod since Ken Martin had contributed a nine-inning stint in the victory over Calumet. Mike, a workhorse for head coach Larry Nemellini all year, had just finished shedding the hero's robe when his ninth-inning double broke up the Cal City tangle.

His mount opposition was righty Rich Swanson — a summer baseball camp veteran and owner of a major-league fastball. He almost didn't last long enough to unveil his smoke that soon polluted the field.

Logan Square had Swanson on the ropes in the very first inning and were perhaps one pitch away from stamping out the fuse of the flamethrower's offerings.

Martin opened the contest with a five-pitch walk and found the umpire's flat palms at second when the Northbrook shortstop bobbled a force-out throw on Mike Garbus' sacrifice attempt.

With still nobody down, Logan Square managed to run itself right out of a potentially big scoring opportunity. While Swanson was claiming Jim Bucaro as his first strikeout victim, Martin was nailed on an attempted theft of third.

Garbus fanned for the second out and Martin was caught leaning by the Northbrook catcher to douse the rally.

On and on it went. Wasted opportunities to break the game open went for naught. In the fourth, Logan Square loaded the bases with one out and allowed Swanson to escape unscathed.

They left two men stranded in the fifth, were victims of another pickoff in the sixth and finally succumbed to their frustration as Swanson knocked down 10 in a row down the stretch.

Cook seemed unnerved despite his team's failure to support his masterful pitching. The redhead was as brilliant as the surrounding light standards, and maybe more powerful.

He had Northbrook at his mercy over the first five innings in which he sent nine unbelievers back to the bench on strikes, walked only two and allowed only a pair the luxury of third base.

The victors finally touched Cook for their first hit in the sixth — an infield single of the scratch variety that deflected off the pitcher's glove and recorded their initial legitimate safety on a bounce up the middle in the seventh.

The ball game was still scoreless through seven and one-half frames and seemed destined for extra innings when Cook knocked down the first two in the eighth.

Back-to-back walks on three disputed pitches keyed Northbrook's two-out success. Don Kunde, one of only three hitters to avoid Cook's strikeout brand, drove in the lone tally on a clean shot up the middle.

The Lions had the best of it statistically with four hits against Northbrook's three, five walks to the winner's four and one extra-base hit to their none.

Logan Square also stranded eight to Northbrook's four. Unfortunately the only category that the Lions didn't control was the scoring column.

Allen's Captures Mid-Teen Opener

Everybody helped out, but it really was the Slapke and Felde show Friday evening in the opening game of the Mid-Teen championship series.

Bill Slapke supplied the hitting and pitching, Rich Slapke had a key double, and Rick Felde banged out two important hits as Allen's toppled First National, 4-1.

A second game in the best-of-three series was set for Sunday afternoon although it appeared the weatherman might have something to say about that.

Bill Slapke went the distance Friday in an interesting mound duel with Leon Wilkins. Slapke struck out nine and walked four in a five-hit performance. Wilkins, settling down after a shaky start, yielded seven hits, only two after the second inning.

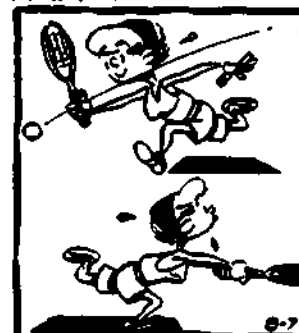

Allen's opened the scoring in the first on a leadoff single by Bill Slapke, single by Felde, and double to right-center by Rich Slapke.

With two outs in the second Allen's struck again. A walk was followed by Bill Slapke's double and Felde's single that the outfielder got a glove on but couldn't hold.

Bill Zehrke, shaking off an ankle injury from the Wednesday night engagement, paced First National's offense with three hits, and Allen's manager Jay Jossi said Zehrke "was just hitting ropes all over the place. We couldn't stop him."
